Ozard: $3,000 An Hour

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

Bill Ozard's out-of-court settlement with the B.C. government netted him between two and three months' salary, or about $3,000 an hour for his brief stint as director of tourist marketing for the ministry of tourism.

The settlement reached Monday between Ozard's lawyer Scott Marshall and counsel for the B.C. Public Service Commission Doug Gray also included Ozard's legal expenses, reported to be fairly high.

Ozard was fired after only 90 minutes on the job Feb. 16 because he placed advertisements in Victoria newspapers thanking several cabinet ministers, including Travel Minister Grace McCarthy, for helping him land the job back in his native Victoria.

Mrs. McCarthy requested his dismissal because she thought the ad made it appear the job had been awarded through political patronage, when it had actually been won through a public service competition.

Ozard is now working as a program director for a Calgary radio station.

When contacted by the Times today, Ozard said he was unable to comment on the settlement, even to confirm the exact dollar figure.

It's not uncommon in such settlements for the respondent to insist that the plaintiff divulge no details.

British Metrics Falter

LONDON (AP) — The Labor government is having second thoughts about forcing Britons to abandon their yards, gallons and pounds in favor of metres, litres and kilograms by the early 1980s.

"It is clearly impossible to proceed against a background of hostility," said John Fraser, minister in charge of the government-ordered switch from imperial to metric weights and measures.

"Resistance against the recent metrication orders has led us to review whether we can still claim universal support."

There have been no recent public opinion polls on the shift, but letters to newspapers seem to be running strongly against it.

Britain's European neighbors use the metric system devised by the Paris Academy of Sciences in 1791. The country's entry into the nine-member Common Market in 1973 increased the pressure for metrication.

Despite public grumblings of mutiny, about 80 per cent of Britain's manufacturing industry has gone metric in the last decade. A recent editorial in The Times called the changeover "unpalatable but unavoidable."

The Confederation of British Industry, which has been campaigning for metrication since the 1960s, said: "We believe it is time Britain got out of the Stone Age."

Boy Hangs Himself

SASKATOON (CP) — An 11-year-old boy is dead and a second youth is in hospital with gunshot wounds following what city police believe was an attempted murder and suicide Monday.

One youth was found hanged to death near his home in the Eastview area of the city after apparently shooting the second 11-year-old boy.

The second boy is reported in fair condition in hospital following surgery.

Police say a handgun was found near the scene. The shooting took place outside the youth's home in a back alley. Names have not been released.

Tories Jubilant At Gallup Switch

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservatives were jubilant today after learning they had climbed in public opinion polls. But they speculated that Prime Minister Trudeau now may wait until fall to call a federal election.

"The news makes my day," said James McGrath (PC—St. John's East).

The new polls, which took much of Parliament Hill by surprise, showed Conservatives and Liberals tied with 41 per cent each of the decided vote. The Conservatives jumped seven points and the Liberals dropped four. The New Democratic Party sagged to 14 from 17 per cent. Undecided voters moved to 39 per cent from 38 per cent of the electorate.

The poll was based on 1,035 in-home interviews with adults 18 years and older. The poll is said to be accurate within four percentage points 19 times in 20.

Several MPs said Trudeau may want to postpone an election until fall but may still hold a summer vote because the election machinery is in place and Liberal MPs are anxious to get to the hustings.

"We've gone too far down the line," said Hal Herbert (L—Vaudreuil). "If he (Trudeau) wanted to wait until fall he would have said."

Trudeau said at his weekly news conference Thursday that if he decides to wait until fall, he will say so.

An aide to Conservative Leader Joe Clark said he had been instructed to say "no comment" on the Conservative jump in popularity.

"It's another poll and the poll that really counts will be taken on election day," the aide quoted Clark as saying.

From the prime minister's office, an aide said the previous poll, which was taken in March, followed a period of intense activity for Trudeau. The public exposure had raised his popularity.

The latest poll, taken in early April, was during a period when the prime minister had not been doing as much travelling and public speaking.

A spokesman for Ed Broadbent, New Democratic Party leader, said Broadbent is not concerned about his party's three-point decline.

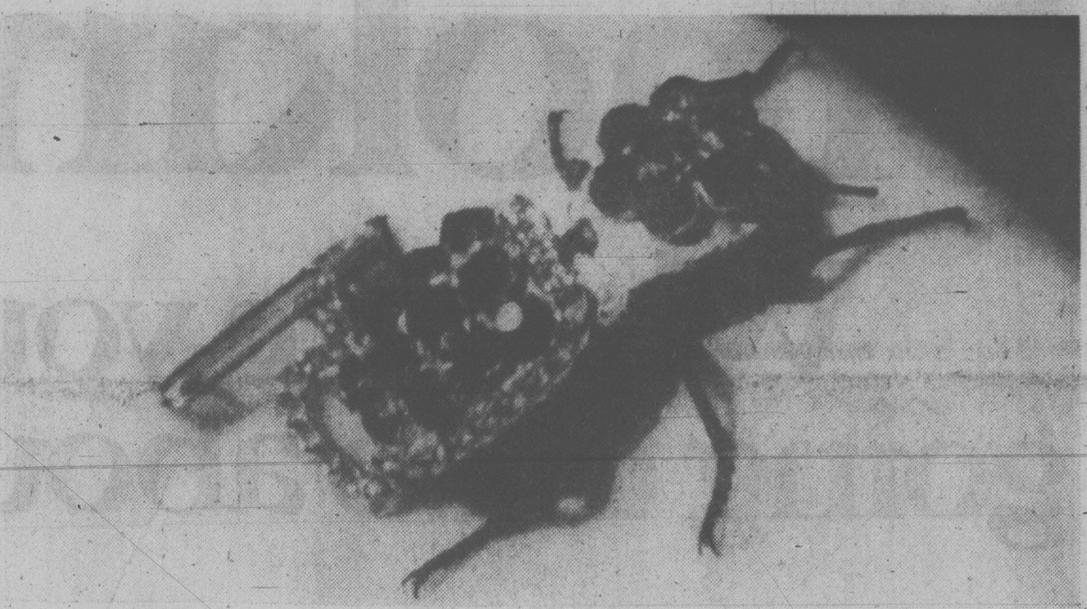
"If you can offer me a rational explanation (about the shift) then I'll be concerned," he said.

"There hasn't been a fluctuation like that in 30 years. It's an aberration."

The spokesman said when the election campaign begins, the NDP will make gains because it will campaign on the economy, the issue most bothering Canadians.

Liberal MPs agreed people are concerned about the economy and have started looking to the Conservatives for reassurance.

Herb Gray, former Liberal consumer and corporate affairs minister, said the next poll could be radically different because the new federal budget, introduced shortly after the last poll was taken, may "have helped reassure the public."



LIVING BROACH, if you can stand the thought, is a tropical Makesh beetle covered with paste-on imitation jewels and tied down with a tiny chain. The live bug, only two inches long, is the latest rage among trendy Parisians, but it won't replace diamonds as a girl's best friend in this country if the federal agiculture department has its say. The bug is said to carry parasites and fungi unknown in Canada. Any beetles found on tourists returning from Mexico — where it can be bought for $1 — will be destroyed.

Armed 13-Year-Old In Speeding Chase

A 13-year-old boy, armed with a loaded rifle and 500 rounds of ammunition, led police on a seven-mile car chase through Central and North Saanich early today.

The chase, with speeds up to 150 km/h, ended when the fleeing car went off the road and crashed through a wire fence at Victoria Airport.

The boy, who was unhurt, gave himself up to Central Saanich police.

He is expected to appear in family court later today charged with dangerous driving, obstruction, taking an auto without the owner's consent, possession of a weapon dangerous to the public, no driver's licence and having a loaded firearm in a vehicle.

A police spokesman said officers found an automatic .22 calibre pump rifle on the front seat. One shell was in the chamber and 14 more were in a magazine. In addition 85 rounds were found stuffed in the boy's pockets and another 400 in plastic bags lying on the seat and floor, the spokesman said.

Police couldn't say where the gun came from and when they asked the boy why he had it, he replied there was no reason, that "he was just going to keep it in case somebody came."

The spokesman said the car had been reported missing at about 5 p.m. Monday by Thomas Goan of 191 Adkins.

A citizen saw the car in Esquimalt about two hours later and told police he thought the youthful driver had a gun.

At 1:59 a.m. a Central Saanich patrol officer spotted the car on Central Saanich Road just off Keating.

RCMP from Sidney joined in the chase when the car fled into North Saanich.

Police said about $300 damage was done to the stolen car and $300 to the fence.

Heavenly Peace Soon

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Solid Rock Church of God in Christ, Inc., has been given 90 days to tone down its praying.

The action came in a lawsuit against the church and the Rev. Archie Hopkins by the city.

A city engineer took sound readings at the church and reported that noise reached levels of 103 decibels, nearly twice the accepted peak level for daytime.

Neighbors had written to Circuit Judge Phillip Roth stating that on a Sunday morning after three hours of "loud, loud, loud singing, chanting and praying, we are finally blessed with heavenly quiet."

Criminals Face Tougher Penalties

By JIM ROBB
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Hostage takers, child pornographers and defilers, and loan sharks who assault or threaten delinquent borrowers, face more severe penalties in omnibus legislation introduced in the Commons Monday by Justice Minister Ron Basford.

Proposed changes to the Criminal Code, Canada Evidence Act and Parole Act, as well as a rape amendment to the Criminal Code, toughen and reform Canadian criminal law.

The changes cover crimes of violence, white collar crime and the administration of justice.

Maximum penalty for hostage takers is doubled from five to 10 years in jail. Child pornographers will get 10 year terms or pay fines of $100,000. Procurers of children for prostitution will get 14-year jail terms. Loansharks convicted of extortion face life terms in place of the 14-year maximum sentence that exists now.

Basford said the amendments "touch on a number of key issues of concern to Canadians today."

"The sheer volume of the material .. in the omnibus legislation means that, whether the House of Commons dissolves or not, it should not be dealt with quickly and its importance suggests that parliamentarians, provincial attorneys-general, professionals in the justice system and the general public should have the time to study it carefully and put forward their comments."

The proposals include 12 major changes to the criminal law:

—Alternative sentencing: Judges, with the consent of accused persons, will be able to sentence them to "worthwhile" community work as an alternative to jail terms or fines. An accused will be able to work to repay the damage caused the victim of a crime or do community work to payoff a fine.

—Pornography: Special provisions will prohibit the use or defilement of children — persons under 16 — in the production of obscene material — including books, films, videotapes — and the definition of what is obscene will read "a dominant characteristic of the matter or things is the undue exploitation of sex, violence, crime, horror, cruelty or the undue degradation of the human person."

—The criminal definition of rape would be changed to a form of indecent assault against a man or a woman, emphasizing the violent, rather than the sexual, nature of the act. The penalty

$740M Reserves Sold

OTTAWA (CP) — The government had to sell about $740 million of its international reserves last month to support the Canadian dollar.

Borrowings of $1,350 billion, however, helped replenish the dwindling stock, finance department figures released today show.

In April, the Canadian dollar hit a 45-year low at less than 87 cents U.S. but has since staged a recovery. Monday it closed at 88.83 cents U.S. in New York, its highest level in five weeks. In New York at noon today, the Canadian dollar was down 13-100 at $0.8870.

Today's figures show that over-all the reserve position improved by almost $613 million including proceeds of the government's special $750-million U.S. bond issue in New York early in April, the first of its kind in 10 years.

Pot Test To Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — The National Organization for Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) said Monday it plans court action to force Vancouver General Hospital to test imported marijuana for traces of a toxic weed killed.

Lawyer Ted Seifred, a member of NORML's Vancouver executive, said the group will apply for a British Columbia Supreme Court order requiring VGH's toxicology lab to test marijuana samples submitted by the organization.

Food Prices Up 12%

OTTAWA (CP) — Food prices jumped by 2.6 per cent in the four weeks to April 21 and now are 11.9 per cent higher than a year ago, the anti-inflation board reported Monday.

Since mid-March, beef prices have risen by 7.8 per cent and they are going to continue rising, the board predicts. Beef supplies were declining and it would likely be several years before supplies are built up again.

Pork, oranges and tea prices were lower.

The pork price index is 15 per cent higher than it was a year ago, although prices were down by one per cent in the last month. Prices are likely to stay at about current levels, the board says.

Dairy prices were up by nine-tenths of one per cent, mainly because of higher butter prices that followed a federal government announcement of higher support prices for butter. Dairy prices now are 5½ per cent above levels of a year ago.

Other food price changes included:

—A one per-cent price decline for fats and oils, although prices still are about 14.4 per cent higher than a year ago.

—Poultry prices were up by 2.8 per cent as chicken and turkey prices increased. The cheaper Canadian dollar and firmer U.S. markets have reduced U.S. competition in this market.

—Egg prices rose by one half of one per cent and are 4.1 per cent higher than at this time last year.

—Lower orange prices offset higher prices for bananas and grapes, producing a 1.3 per-cent decline for the fresh fruits index. Orange prices are still 45 per cent above a year ago, and the over-all fresh fruits index is 24.4 per cent higher.

—Tomatoes and lettuce led a 17.1 per-cent jump in fresh vegetable prices in the last month, although the index is only 2.3 per-cent above year-ago levels.

—Coffee prices are relatively stable, but tea prices are down by four-tenths of one per cent, leaving the beverage index 10.6 per-cent above its level 12 months ago.

The anti-inflation board said the cost of its nutritious diet for a family of four increased to $52.13 for the week ending April 21, a $1.02 rise from the average cost for the month of March.

Prices Beat Wages

For the first time since 1971, the average Vancouver Consumer Price Index in 1977 exceeded the average wage settlement.

Figures contained in the latest bulletin from the labor ministry's research branch show the average wage settlement for agreements concluded during the year was 6.4 per cent.

The average CPI increase for the year was 7.2 per cent.

The bulletin says this is the first time the index has outstripped the wage gain since the department first started its wage settlement analysis in 1971.

"This suggests that if the downward trend in settlements continues, a probable erosion of real incomes will occur for the unionized segment of the B.C. work force," the labor ministry says.

The 6.4 per cent settlement average in 1977 is less than two-thirds of the previous year's average of 10.7 per cent, which in turn was only two-thirds of the 1975 peak of 16.3 per cent.

Ruling Cuts Phone Costs

THE BYRDS
I DON'T BELIEVE IN OPINION POLLS.
GOOD. THIS POLL IS TO FIND OUT WHY.

OTTAWA (CP) — A recent court decision should pave the way for cheaper telephone costs across the country, says Robert Bertrand, federal competition commissioner.

The decision should also lead to increased competition in the manufacture of telecommunications equipment and rapid innovation in the field, Bertrand said in an interview.

"It's the tip of the iceberg," he said. And "it will have a domino effect."

Bertrand, deputy minister of the consumer and corporate affairs department, was commenting on a Federal Court of Appeal decision last week upholding the right of Bell Canada customers to own their own automatic mobile telephonesl usually used in executive cars.

The case stemmed from a ruling by the Canadian Radio-television and Tele-Communications Commission (CRTC), which told Bell it could not prevent customers from owning these units.

Bertrand, whose lawyers appeared both before the CRTC and in court on the issue, said the case should lead to other challenges of Bell policies that restrict customer ownership of different types of telephone equipment.

With few exceptions, Bell now prohibits customer-owned equipment from being plugged into its system.

Mine Kills UN Soldiers

Times News Services

A landmine explosion killed three Senegalese soldiers of a UN peace-keeping force near the southern Lebanese town of Bazourieh Monday, witnesses reported.

A fourth Senegalese soldier was wounded, they said.

The same witnesses reported a brief shootout between French UN troops and Lebanese leftist gunmen near Bazourieh late Sunday. They said two leftists were killed and one was wounded in the clash. No French casualties were reported.

The witnesses said the Lebanese opened fire when the French troops ordered them to halt to be searched. The UN soldiers ran for cover and returned the fire, they said.

UN officers in Beirut refused to comment.

In Beirut, a leftist Lebanese group declared today it has ordered its fighters to "shoot to kill" if UN peace-keeping forces try to block their return to southern Lebanon.

The Popular Resistance Front for the Liberation of the South from Occupation and Fascism said it decided to treat the UN force, especially the French contingent, as an "enemy."

At UN headquarters in New York, Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim asked the Security Council late Monday for 2,000 more troops, which would boost UN deployment in Lebanon to 6,000.

The council is to consider the request today.

Waldheim said the troop increase is needed so the force can fully carry out the job entrusted to it.

Meanwhile, in Los Angeles, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin said Monday night that despite earlier problems, "relations between the United States and Israel are now very good indeed."

Begin said he had come from a presidential reception in Washington following his talks on a proposed three-way jet fighter planes sale with President Carter. The planes sale has heightened tension between the United States and Israel.

Begin said he had some good news to relate in that the proposed three-way package of planes sale has been split up and now the three issues will be dealt with separately.

Under terms of the proposed sales, Israel would be sold 75 F-16s and 15 F-15s, while Saudi Arabia would receive 60 F-15s and Egypt would receive 50 of the less sophisticated F-5s.

POSTAL DEPOTS EXPAND

Two postal depots in Greater Victoria will expand their services, M.F. Glover, retail and delivery manager, said today.

The depot located at 3410 Shelbourne will open 295 lock boxes immediately for the prime purpose of serving business people and service clubs.

In addition, clerks will man the wickets from 8:30 a.m. to 5:15 p.m. Mondays through to Fridays for such items as registered mail, parcels and cash-on-deliveries.

The depot serves 11,423 homes and businesses in the area with 35 letter carriers.

The depot located at 867 Goldstream, which already maintains call for service, will open 296 lock boxes on May 15. Wicket hours are the same as the Shelbourne depot.

The Goldstream depot serves 9,788 homes and businesses in the area with 23 letter carriers and two rural routes.

Box lobbies in both depots will be open from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through to Fridays and will be closed Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Stamp-vending machines will be located outside each of the two buildings.

Workers Overtaxed, Tory Lashes Gov't

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservative finance critic, Sinclair Stevens, accused the government Monday of destroying Canada's competitiveness by overtaxing workers.

Stevens said an American worker with a gross paycheque of $27,000 a year in the United States would have to earn $44,000 in Canadian money to maintain his standard of living if he were transferred to Ontario.

"These are not cooked figures," Stevens told skeptical Liberals.

He said the amounts had been quoted to a U.S.-based multinational which had asked a chartered accountant for advice on how to pay an employee who was being transferred from the American midwest to Ontario.

"The unbelievable tax load this government has put on the Canadian people is one of the most significant contributing factors to the high wage level that is making this country uncompetitive on world markets."

A Stevens example involved a worker earning $19,700 in New York state. He would need a housing allowance of $5,328 and a tax-equalization payment of $3,968 — bringing his total salary up to $29,380 — to live in Canada.

TERRORIST ARRESTED?

ROME (Reuter) — Police hunting members of Italy's Red Brigades terrorist organization today arrested three men and alleged that one of them was a member of the guerrilla group.

Police sources named him as Libero Maesano, 28.

Apart from the detention of Cristoforo Piancone, dumped outside a Turin hospital by his comrades after being wounded in a gunbattle, today's arrest of a suspected Red Brigades member is the first since the kidnapping of former premier Aldo Moro on March 16.

Fish Talks Break Off

VANCOUVER (CP) — Negotiations between fish boat owners and halibut fishermen in the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union broke down Monday, and the union president said Canada' future participation in the fishery could be in jeopardy.

The fishermen had earlier voted to reject a proposal by vessel owners for an increase in the owners' share to 36 per cent of a boat's catch from 20 per cent.

Talks broke off when the fishermen refused to reconsider their decision.

Traditionally, crew members bear the major portion of expenses of the halibut fishery while the boat owner takes his share of the catch off the top.

UFAWU president Jack Nichol said most fishermen feel the halibut fishery is becoming too risky for a small return.

Nicol said fishermen now prefer to work the salmon and herring fisheries, because they are not as risky and bring a better financial return.

Smoking.
What are you going to do about it?

If you've given up smoking more times than you'd like to remember, the chances are you enjoy it so much you don't want to give it up at all.

The question is, what are you going to do about it?

You've probably tried cigarettes that promise extra mildness and found yourself checking every once in a while to see if they were still lit. Which brought you right back to your regular brand.

Now, there is Vantage.

Vantage gives you the taste you want. The full, rich flavour of Virginia tobaccos. But here's the big difference. Vantage has a specially designed filter to give you so much of what you want in a cigarette with a lot less of what you don't want.

High-Seas Hijacking Scuppered by the FBI

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Four men were charged Monday with planning to hijack a luxury cruise liner and hold its passengers and crew ransom for $6 million in a plot apparently based on the novel Assault on a Queen.

U.S. government officials said the novel, about an unsuccessful attempt to hijack the famed Cunard liner Queen Mary, was found in the home of one of the accused. Parts of the book were underlined.

A script of the film under the same title also was found.

A complaint filed in U.S. district court said the men intended to seize the 20,000-ton Emerald Seas on one of its regular cruises between Miami and the Bahamas.

The FBI arrested the four men in New York's Staten Island borough after an agent, following up a tip from an informer, posed as an underworld arms dealer.

The complaint said the agent recorded a conversation in which two of the accused are alleged to have said they planned to hijack the Emerald Seas and asked about buying automatic rifles and handguns. He also later met all four to complete arrangements for purchasing the weapons, including M-16 automatic rifles.

The complaint said the four planned to pose as passengers on one of the liner's three-day cruises, costing $250, and seize the vessel once it was at sea.

About the time the four were being arraigned, the Emerald Seas, built in 1944 and operated by Eastern Steamship Lines, set sail from Miami for Freeport and Nassau in the Bahamas.

Three of the four accused are from Chicago — Jacob Goldstein, 47, alleged mastermind of the plot; Robert Prickett, 20, and Richard Reilly, 18. The fourth, Robin Hayes, 50, is from New York.

Goldstein, who suffered a heart attack after his arrest, was arraigned at his hospital bedside and was ordered held in lieu of $250,000 bail. The other three were held in lieu of $50,000 bail.

The charges of conspiracy to kidnap and hold the crew and passengers to ransom carry a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

Black Hole Size Of Solar System

HEFTIER REFUNDS ON TAXES

OTTAWA (CP) — Taxpayers are getting larger average income tax refunds this year that last, latest statistics from the revenue department indicate.

The average payback so far to about four million taxpayers eligible for refunds was $301.40, compared with $277.59 for the 1976 tax year. That is an 8.5-per-cent increase.

WASHINGTON — The mysterious "black hole" that astronomers have suspected, calculated and predicted — but never verified — for the past 10 years may have been found at the centre of a distant galaxy called M 87.

There, 65 million light years away in the constellation Virgo, astronomers using the 48-inch telescope at the Kitt Peak National Observatory in Arizona have found a dark object so dense it appears to be five billion times the mass of our own sun.

At the same time, astronomers using the 60-inch and the 200-inch telescopes at Mt. Palomar in California have found such a glow of excess light at the centre of M 87 that it can only be explained by stars that bunch up and stay bunched up because they're tightly bound to some huge mass astronomers think it an invisible black hole.

"If this mass is a black hole it could be as big as the entire solar system," said Peter Young of the atronomy department at the California Institute of Technoogy, were much of the work was done. "If it's that big the black hole itself would weigh something like 100 octillion metric tons."

The term "black hole" was coined in 1968 by Princeton University's Dr. John Wheeler, from the prediction that when a massive star or galaxy exhausts its nuclear fuel it could collapse suddenly and completely to an object so densely and tightly packed its gravity would allow none of its light to escape.

So dark and dense would it be that a black hole the size of a sugar cube would weigh 1 billion tons. A black hole a mile across in width would have the same mass as our sun does.

In their use of the two big telescopes on Mt. Palomar, astronomers found a "spot" of light at the centre of M 87 that could not be accounted for by starlight. Cal Tech's Young said calculations of this "excess" light show it is the equivalent of the light of 100 million suns.

One member of the international team was Dr. David Hartwick of the University of Victoria physics department. His specialty is the study of older stars in an attempt to gain clues as to the origin of the universe.

The informed speculation of astronomers is that this excess light is the energy produced when gas, dust and individual stars are sucked into a black hole at enormous speeds by its huge gravitational pull. This generates such high temperatures that the heating alone gives off the light equivalent of numerous suns.

The telescope at Kitt Peak was used to measure how fast the stars at the center of M87 were moving about. These measurements tell astronomers how much mass there is at the galatic centre since they can calculate from the speeds of the moving stars how much mass is needed to keep the stars from whirling out of the centre of the galaxy.

From their calculations, astronomers estimate there are the equivalent of 60 invisible suns at the centre of M 87 for every sun they see. That suggests a black hole so massive that it could cover the entire centre of the M 87 galaxy, which itself is 100 times bigger than the Milky Way.

Oil Freeze Urged For OPEC

BEIRUT (UPI) — Two Arab petroleum experts today called on oil-producing countries to introduce stricter controls and possibly even freeze production temporarily to maintain prices.

"Production now is running higher than the world consumption rate," Ali Atiqa, secretary general of the Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries said in an interview with the Qatari newspaper, The New Gulf.

His counterpart in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, Ali Jeidah, agreed.

"The producing states are over-producing," Jeidah said in remarks published in Kuwait. "OPEC has so far failed to agree on a production control scheme."

OPEC is scheduled to meet informally May 6 in Taif.

Night Scope Foils 'Bomber'

BELLINGHAM (AP) — A night-seeing scope was credited with foiling a $250,000 extortion bomb attempt at the ARCO oil refinery at Cherry Point during the weekend, police said Monday.

Whatcom County Sheriff Bernie Reynolds said the scope enabled officers to get a partial licence number and a description of the suspected getaway car.

Marlin Elroy Yelton, 48, of Birch Bay, was arraigned Monday on a first-degree extortion charge. Bond was set at $10,000 and Yelton was ordered to undergo psychiatric examination.

A man called the ARCO refinery Friday and told plant manager Fielding Formway that the plant, just south of the Canadian-American boundary, was rigged with explosives and would be blown up unless $250,000 was left on a concrete slab west of the refinery Friday night.

Instead, a package was left at the drop site with a directional beacon inside. A car approached, the package was grabbed and the car sped off before watching police could halt it.

The driver discovered the ruse, Reynolds said, and dumped the directional beacon.

But officers watching the site with the night scopes got a description that led to Yelton's the arrest, Reynolds said. A possible second subject was being sought.

Dogs from Fort Lewis and police were used to check the ARCO plant for explosives. None were found.

TV Networks Sued for $25M

MIAMI (AP) — Claiming television programs triggered him to kill his neighbor, 15-year-old Ronny Zamora and his parents have sued the three major television networks for $25 million.

Programs on ABC, CBS and NBC "showed the impressionable teen-ager. . . how to kill," claims the suit filed Monday in U.S. District Court in Miami by the boy and his parents, Frank and Yolanda Zamora.

Zamora's trial, following which he was sentenced to life imprisonment attracted national attention because of defence lawyer Ellis Rubin's claim that the boy was a victim of "involuntary television intoxication."

"The shooting and killing by Ronny Zamora of his neighbor was a foreseeable response to the stimulus of the offending programs," said the civil action.

The suit said Zamora had viewed 40,000 to 50,000 "violent destructions of fellow humans" on television.

The defendants — ABC, CBS and NBC — had no comment.

The U.S. Supreme Court cleared the way last week for a California trial involving similar claims.

In that action, NBC and a San Francisco television station are being sued for $11 million on behalf of a 9-year-old girl who was sexually assaulted along the lines of a fictional crime shown four days earlier in a made-for-TV drama, Born Innocent.

Runaways to Testify

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two runaway girls from the Seattle area who told police they were held in an apartment, burned with cigarettes and forced to work as prostitutes will eventually be returned to the United States.

Leslie Arnold, a spokesman for the emergency services section of the ministry of human resources, said today the girls, aged 14 and 15, were staying in a ministry shelter and will probably testify against the man accused of holding them.

The girls were told they had been fed special electronic pills that would explode causing instant death if they strayed more than five miles, police said.

One of the girls said she was burned with a lighted cigarette in the genital area during the more than three weeks they were held in the apartment.

Mark Jerald Foslette, 37, of Vancouver has been charged with four counts of rape, four counts of buggery, one count of living off the avails of prostitution, two counts of unlawful confinement, two counts of procuring, one count of indecent assault and one count of assault causing bodily harm.

Foslette was remanded to Wednesday for a bail hearing when he appeared in court Monday.

A Threat or a Promise?

Quebec Premier Rene Levesque made it sound like a threat when he said last weekend that his Parti Quebecois may become involved in the next federal election if the Trudeau government doesn't change its position in an Ottawa-Quebec dispute about sales tax reductions.

Saying that the dispute was "no longer just a quarrel between finance ministers," Levesque accused Ottawa of meddling in the sales tax field, a traditional area of provincial rights, and said that if the federal government persists in its attitude, the PQ will consider participating in the next federal election campaign.

But if Levesque considers it a threat, the rest of Canada should consider it a promise. And if all it takes to cause it to happen is for Ottawa to hold firm on the sales tax issue, Canadians should give Trudeau every encouragement to stay glued to his position tighter than a leech.

There are probably few things that would help to settle the uncertainty surrounding the whole national unity question faster than a direct head-to-head electoral confrontation between the forces of federalism as symbolized by the Trudeau Liberals and the forces of separatism as symbolized by Levesque and his PQ followers.

So far that confrontation has been carefully avoided, which is undoubtedly one of the reasons for the large amount of uncertainty that has developed around the unity issue. Levesque and Trudeau have each been playing ball in their own court, both claiming victories but never against their chief opponents — each other.

Until Levesque's threat/promise to become involved federally, it did not appear that the imminent federal election was going to do anything to change the situation. Indeed it might have done — and might still do, if the PQ does not follow through with its hints — more to confuse the situation further than anything else.

The reason for this is that, without the PQ running, the Liberals would be most likely to take a huge number of federal seats in Quebec. They would be likely to win simply because they would have no opposition that is credible in the eyes of the Quebec voters. Neither the Conservatives nor the NDP have been even a minimal force in Quebec politics in recent years, and the Creditistes are leaderless and badly torn by internal strife.

The federalists would then be certain to claim the Quebec victories as a major victory for federalism, but it actually wouldn't be possible to tell if that was the message the Quebec voters were really trying to get across. Perhaps instead they would be only trying to say that the Liberals were the best of a bad bunch of choices.

A similar problem has existed with the PQ government from the day it was elected. No one is really sure how many people voted for it because they believed in separatism and how many voted for it because they thought it was the only viable alternative to a Liberal government perceived as inept and even corrupt.

If Quebec voters had a chance to vote for PQ-endorsed candidates as well as for Liberal ones, it might make clearer the real wishes of the people of that province. Both sides have made their positions clear; the voters could choose in a head-on battle.

If the separatists happened to win, unlikely as that seems, it would be a difficult problem for Canada, but obviously a problem that would have to be solved sooner or later anyway.

We can only hope the confrontation happens.

Take Two Aspirin

"Take two aspirin and call me in the morning" is the punchline to many a doctor joke, the standard prescription for those complaining of ailments as varied as severe headaches, colds, influenza, arthritis and rheumatism.

But recent research suggests also that besides aspirin's pain-killing and inflammation-reducing properties, the common drug has important uses in treating heart disease.

Scientists are delving deeper into the usefulness of acetasalicylic acid, aspirin's scientific compound name. It has been established in research in Philadelphia, Berlin and the United Kingdom that aspirin can help prevent coronary thrombosis and other disorders involving the blood supply to the major coronary blood vessels and to the brain.

Other recent research has also centred on aspirin's retarding effects on certain enzyme systems, for example, with regard to prostaglandin production in the body. Prostaglandins are a chemically uniform group of substances with widely varying pharmaceutical effects. They are responsible for certain bodily functions — the menstrual cycle, for instance.

But aspirin's role in preventing coronary thrombosis is the most interesting medical news for some time. In some fashion not completely understood, aspirin helps prevent blood clots from forming and sticking to one another and the walls of blood vessels — the cause of a coronary attack, when a blood vessel completely closes over because of such processes.

Aspirin apparently cannot reverse the process — thinning and dissolving clots, as some other drugs do — but it can prevent it from happening, and for a relatively small expense. The phenomenon was studied and verified in a London study of more than 1,000 patients at a dosage of 1,500 milligrams a day (about five aspirin tablets.

Another study in the U.K. compared two groups of 635 cardiac patients each; one group was administered 300 milligrams of aspirin three times a day, the other group got a placebo. After two years the first group showed a mortality rate of 8.8 per cent, compared to the control group's much higher rate of 13.6 per cent. Other studies in Germany and the U.S. produced similar results.

Aspirin: wonder drug?

On Slogans and Charities

OTTAWA — Are you in a mood to show that you care? Care enough about Confederation, that is, to vote for its savior, Pierre Elliot Trudeau? A fortnight ago, the folks who gave us The Land Is Strong test-marketed in Vancouver the draft election slogan, Show That You Care. If the catchphrase succeeded in stirring up laid-back Vancouverites, the Liberals calculate it'll have the rest of us cheering as we go into the ballot booths.

The Conservatives' campaign slogan has lain ready in the backrooms for the best part of a year, and indeed would have been run up the flagpole had an election been called last fall. Complete with a catchy tune (that goes, sort of: da, dedapda, da-da-da, da-da-de), and with a crisp film and slide show, the party rolled out its election banner, Let's Get Canada Working Again for the benefit of its own rank and file at the Conservatives' convention in Quebec City last October.

Goes to NATO

The New Democrats, as is their wont, intend to hammer Canadians on their collective heads. The NDP's planned slogan isn't so much subliminal as straight-up: Jobs First.

As all the polls show, Trudeau's international reputation is, as in the words of U.S. Vice-President Walter Mondale, for the Liberals "a priceless asset" in the coming campaign.

You won't be especially surprised, therefore, to learn that May 30-31, Trudeau will fly to Washington to take in a NATO summit meeting and, if space can be found in his schedule to drop in at the United Nations in New York, to speak at the special session on disarmament — (the first time in 10 years Trudeau has found time).

Has it ever occurred to you to try to "embarrass or apply pressure upon a government?" Have you ever been tempted to urge your neighbors and friends to "protest to their elected representatives," or to bombard newspaper editors with letters designed to "air political views or to sway public opinion."

Thanks to Revenue Canada a good chunk of this un-Canadian activity soon will stop.

Information Circular No. 78-3, mailed a month ago by the revenue department to charitable organizations like Oxfam, the YM-YWCA, and to church organizations like GATT-FLY, instructs these agencies to cease indulging in "political activities." Agencies which ignore the circular will lose the right to issue tax deduction receipts for charitable donations.

"Political activities," states the revenue department, comprise any and all activities designed to "influence the policy-making process of any level of government." By way of an example, the department explains that this definition includes, "an organization formed to promote temperance by securing legislation to reduce the consumption of alcohol (even though the courts have held that the promotion of temperance otherwise is a charitable object)."

A charitable organization may present briefs to parliamentary committees and to royal commissions, "providing it (the organization) does not undertake a program to promote its recommendations." As well, organizations may speak to MPs, provided they "do not attempt to influence legislation."

How Far?

To my comments that this ruling was, (a) idiotic, (b) regressive, because it limits charity to handing out money rather than to reforming the conditions which made the handing out of the money necessary, a revenue official replied:

(a) "The minister asked for it to be done." (b) "We are happy to discuss the matter with organizations and advise them how far they can go without jeopardizing their status."

Luckily a newspaper, in this instance at least, is not a charitable organization. Without harming their newspaper, readers can best write to the editor, and to their MP, to embarrass, pressure and influence the government into changing its policy.

Readers can, in a phrase, show that they care.

Great Television

The coverage of the Liberal leadership convention in Quebec April 15 by French television gave me a renewed feel for French Canada and pride in our fellow Canadians of French extraction. The quality of the two contenders, Ryan and Garneau, and their families, the deep feeling for Canada expressed by them and echoed by the huge crowd, gave me fresh hope for this elongated, divided country. I have never been so glad that I could at least partially understand French.

Admittedly the federal government has shoved the French fact at us in a way that has turned many off. But we westerners would find a lot more of interest in Canada if we forgot about Trudeau in this regard and decided to discover for ourselves the enormous plus that French Canada gives to us all. It is a marvellous language, a great culture and they are the warmest hearted people to be found anywhere.

Two suggestions — holidays in Quebec and an occasional look at French television. A good way to improve our French and widen our horizons. — Paul Nanton, 3765 Cadboro Bay Road.

Why Not?

Defence Minister Barney Danson, and all men, should accept the fact that the chivalrous concept of protecting women from the grim realities of warfare is a luxury of bygone eras.

Through the simple bombings of the First World War, the saturation bombings, genocide and atomic devastations of the Second World War, and the indiscriminate eruptions of today's terrorist warfare, women have achieved full equality in life's final phase — death by violence.

With all the delightful nuclear goodies that have been concocted, in any future war one doubts whether there will be time for any man to feel "uncomfortable" about a woman fighting beside him. On an environmentally ruined planet, those who survive will be lucky if they have expertise to subsist at the grass roots level.

So, if young women with fine intellects, fast reflexes and the mental stability to cope with stress want to participate in combat training and war games — why not? — Ruby A. Pearson, 2085 Avondale Road.

Park Vandalism

I am writing in response to your report on vandalism in the parks (Yahoos Creating Crisis in the Park, April 28) and of the lack of policemen there because of the expense of paying them.

I notice the government is not as concerned about my tax dollars when the police are involved in drug cases, and yet I do not particularly care who takes drugs as long as I do not.

But I care very much about vandalism in the parks. Again, I notice no financial restrictions on the use of policemen to entrap Russian embassy officials (who, of course, will accept information if it is offered).

These undercover policemen should be assigned to the parks to catch vandals. Perhaps they could pose as hooligans, join the gangs, and make arrests just as the picnic tables are about to be smashed.

This duty would also be better for the integrity of the police as vandals do not normally have as much money to tempt them as do Russians or drug pushers. — Joe Percival, 522 Trutch Street.

A Bad Bill

Attorney-General Garde Gardom has advertised Bill 69 (amendments to the Family Relations Act) as a positive attempt to end inequality to women on marital breakup. In fact the glossy brochures accompanying the bill would have us believe this is a legitimate attempt to create true community of property. I wish to point out some significant flaws in the bill which make it more regressive than existing legislation.

The first problem is the exclusion of business assets from community property. This will allow husbands to mortgage the community property (the family home), pour the money into the business and leave the spouse with nothing except her tiny (or nonexistent) equity in that home. It seemed to me that the Murdoch case lent some impetus to attempts to reform family law, but I suppose Mr. Murdoch would be all right in B.C. since he can call the farm his business. While purporting to recognize the spouse's contribution of homemaking while the husband may be building up the business, Bill 69 excludes any claim to it on her behalf.

The exclusion of savings, investments, retirement savings plans and private pension rights, stocks and bonds is a flagrant denial of the equality of the spouses in the marriage partnership. If the family's savings and investments were in the husband's name, while the house and car were in the wife's name, he could claim half of the house and car and would also get to keep all the savings and investments. The second problem is the premature assumption of Bill 69 in the economic independence of the hitherto dependent spouse. What we're looking at here is a situation where the homemaking spouse has been out of the labor force for 20 or 30 years and is forced to find a job in a province with a nine per cent unemployment rate. The law committee of the Status of Women Action Group, of which I'm a member, is frequently faced with the hopeless task of trying to help middle-aged spouses, with dependent adolescents, face the problems of a deserting spouse plus the realization that they are somehow supposed to find a way into an already overcrowded work force.

Another factor concerning the above aspect of Bill 69 which has not been considered is the children's point of view. Often the desertion by one spouse is his way of dealing with the mid-life crisis, or ego problems at the age of 40 to 50 or so. That is, most of these situations seem to arise when the middle-aged spouse leaves home to move in with a younger woman. The viewpoint of the children is usually that one parent has left them. If the mother goes out to work, she leaves home children feeling deserted by both parents. Couple this with the fact that the children are often in the difficult pre-adolescent stage and the groundwork is laid for the creation of considerable problems. The above proves that it may not only be impossible but undesirable for the wife to enter the labor force.

A third problem with Bill 69 is that it does not become operative until the breakdown of marriage. Surely community property is a reasonable goal to exist all through the marriage. This was of course, the first problem I outlined, that of husbands liquidating the family assets before marriage breakdown, would be prevented. The final problem of so much judicial discretion leading to endless litigation has been mentioned by so many lawyers that I assume they are making official representations to the goverment on this matter. I have heard more than one family law lawyer say the bill is so bad it should be completely scrapped.

These suggestions have been taken into account in Canada in the Manitoba family law reform. Thus we have a model. The Ontario model we are copying has come forward and been sent back three times. In the name of fairness I urge the government to look at the Manitoba act, and rewrite Bill 69 to meet the needs of current society. — Dianne L. Grimmer, 958 St. Patrick Street.

Thanks from Fish

We would like to express many thanks to all of those who were involved in volunteering their time and help to the South Vancouver Island Aid the Fish Society.

This included the building of the hatchery boxes and installing them on the streams, catching and stripping of the fish, and all the other important projects that made it possible for this project to be a success. — Percy Brown, Vice-President, South Vancouver Island Aid the Fish Society.

Upgrading

I'm writing on behalf of upgrading in the Victoria area. Why is it that most people are referred to Camosun College? Couldn't there be upgrading in our local schools in the evenings also? This would most certainly help curtail the overload at the college and at the same time give the opportunity to those who find it out of reach to arrive at classes by 9 a.m. and who desire upgrading. I live in James Bay and would most certainly be happy to see this happen, and feel sure there are many who feel the same way. For those interested in this program, get in touch with the school board. — Mrs. Rita Lamb, 20-72 Dallas Road.

Rape Relief

The Status of Women Action Group is deeply concerned to learn that the intermunicipal committee refused funding to the Rape Relief centre. We consider this to be an essential community service. Rape Relief is the only counselling facility adequate to meet the needs of women who have been raped. Our experience has been that even the professional community in Victoria is unable to deal adequately with the unique emotional problems of women suffering from violent assault.

The services provided by the Need crisis line are vital but they do not extend far enough to handle rape cases. Need, in fact, refers rape victims to Rape Relief where they will get the personal contact imperative in this type of crisis. Rape Relief counselllors are especially trained in legal and medical proceedures which are unique to rape. Rape Relief provides follow-up counselling for continued support. This is essential on a personal level and also on a legal level.

Rape Relief also offers an educational service. They have supplied expertise and materials for use in our schools and they participate on a volunteer basis in other public information functions. They are in contact with a nationwide network of rape crisis centres which monitors legal changes and screens materials available. This is an important contact for our community to have.

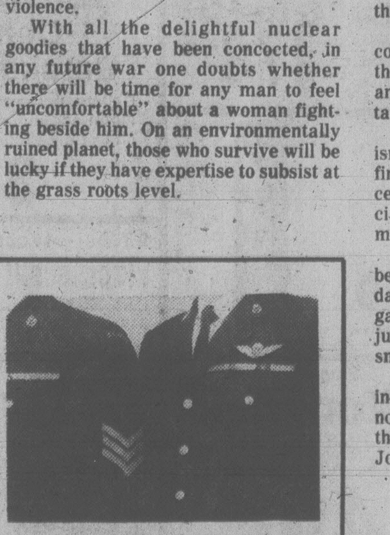
Rape is a terrible experience. Every community is concerned about the increase in violent crimes. Let us at least maintain the present level of support for victims. — Shirley Nordstrom, President, Status of Women Action Group, 1429 Monterey Avenue.

Revolting Insignia

I am a mildly patriotic Canadian distressed by the threat of Quebec's separation from Confederation. I still swallow a lump of nostalgia when I see the red ensign or the former distinctive uniforms of our armed forces. These facts of our national growth I can accept — hopefully.

But I'll be damned if I can sit quietly and see the current outbreak of leisure wear, made in Canada, for all ages and sexes, prominently displaying insignia of the various United States armed forces. Even toddlers are wearing T-shirts emblazoned with "U.S. Air Force." I resent this latest affront to our national identity and pride.

Are we so subservient to our mighty neighbor to the south that we even have to have its name featured on our underwear? Like the Moslems facing Mecca we are now bowing towards The Residence of the Almighty Peanut King.



Fine on soldiers — not kids.

Is the ultimate objective of the Canadian manufacturing industry to produce a new Canadian flag with the eagle rampant on the maple leaf?

Be Skeptical When Press Plays 'Numbers Game'

By MARTIN PLISSNER

(Plissner is national political editor of CBS News. He wrote this for the Washington Post)

Looting during New York blackout . . . a 'billion-dollar loss' dwindled

After last summer's New York blackout, the lights were barely on again when all of the city's newspapers had managed to price it in one fashion or another at a billion dollars.

The Daily News, on the say-so of "some of the experts" put that price tag on "losses in the private sector." The New York Post, citing no one, charged its billion to "property damage." The New York Times, citing "unofficial estimates" by unidentified estimators, attached its billion-dollar figure specifically to the looting in a couple of thousand ghetto stores. For that figure to wash, you have to suppose an average inventory of more than $500,000 in those stores. When last seen in the Times, after copious repetition, the original billion-dollar looting estimate had dwindled to $35 million and may not yet have touched bottom.

Homosexuals

Again last summer, to take another example, Newsweek magazine reported from San Francisco: "Officials reckon that 28 per cent of the city's voters are homosexual." No one has since been able to find any San Francisco official who will make this remarkable reckoning, nor is it clear how anyone could. In the way that such numbers, however, normally get recycled in the news, Newsweek itself has now become a source for the homosexual registration in San Francisco.

For unfettered creativity with numbers, however, no collaboration of "experts" and "officials" with the press has produced anything to match the literature of the past decade on the business activity of the Mafia.

"We're bigger than U.S. Steel," Meyer Lansky once bragged many years ago. But, had he been paying attention to the official pronouncements of his government in more recent times or to the echoes of it in the press, he would have ranked Big Steel in the Mob's inventory somewhere between imported artichokes and dirty books.

In August 1969, for example, Time magazine solemnly pronounced the Mafia as a moneymaker to the peer of U.S. Steel plus AT&T, General Motors, General ELectric, Ford, IBM, Chrysler and RCA combined.

In this early effort Time's choice of numbers was conservative. For an estimate of the annual gross for the Exxon of Megacrime, it was content to post a relatively modest figure or "well over $30 billion."

Time attributed its fiscal intelligence on the Mob to government sources — implicitly at middle levels of the Justice Department. But it was at the highest levels that the Nixon administration, in its restless pursuit of truth, appears to have touched off the yearly take of Organized Crime.

Richard Nixon himself, in an April 1969 message to Congress, proposed a fairly tentative figure: "Anywhere from $20 billion to $50 billion."

By August of that year, however, Attorney-General John Mitchell was telling U.S. News and World Report that $50 billion was in fact the lower, not the upper limit. "Organized crime," said Mitchell, "takes out of our economy upward of $50 billion a year."

Early in 1970 The New York Times entered the rapidly escalating auction. "High-Profit Business — Organized Crime in the United States" was the headline on a Sunday business section story which featured an estimate topping both Time's $30 billion and Mitchell's $50 billion. "Rep. Dante Fascell, chairman of a government operations subcommittee," the Times reported, "put the gross revenue of organized crime at $60 billion." For a simile to convey the implications of that number a parade of names from the Fortune 500 was clearly inadequate. Gulped the Times at the Fascell estimate: "This is more than the gross national product of Canada."

As tends to happen in journalism, numbers like these, especially big, round numbers, sooner or later get standardized. A consensus sets in.

The Times-Fascell $60 billion was clearly an overreach. It has never been repeated. Throughout the '70s, the Mitchell figure of $50 billion settled in as the standard for political oratory, journalism and even academic writings on organized crime. Since 1970, judging from this past year's run of Mafia stories, the Mob's revenues have been barely touched by inflation.

The Mafia

Last summer's Time cover story on the Mob reports: "Estimates culled from a variety of law enforcement agencies suggest the Mafia takes in at least $48 billion in gross revenues and an incredible $20 billion or so in untaxed profits."

Jack Anderson's sources for an article on the same topic last year could not have agreed more: "Today the Mafia controls an underworld empire that takes in at least $48 billion a year, of which more than half is untaxed profits."

Both Time and Anderson write admiringly of a report by the government's high pristhood of the auditing profession, the General Accounting Office, which states: Although exact figures are not available, the Department of Justice estimates that organized crime derives as much as $50 billion a year from gambling in addition to income from narcotics and loan-sharking."

Since Anderson and Time compute $48 billion a year from all sources, while Justice, as quoted by GAO, counts "as much as $50 billion" from gambling alone, Justice appears far in front of such conservative estimators as Anderson and Time. Add the appropriate figures for narcotics, loan-sharking, Teamster pension funds and gangland's "legitimate" ancillaries, and one could easily fantasize a $100-billion yearly gross for the 5,000 "made" Mafiosi and the 50,000 auxiliaries who are also part of the numerical mythology of Mafio-journalism.

Old Report

When confronted with all the sources citing it, however, the Department of Justice went limp. A spokesman for the criminal division, after hunting around the department for a week, could not find any source for the $50 billion figure in the GAO report until somebody turned up a 10-year-old report by a Johnson-era task force on organized crime.

On page 3 of that report you do find the $50 billion figure. This is how you find it: "There is no accurate way of ascertaining organized crime's gross revenue take from gambling in the United States. Estimates of the annual take have varied from $7 billion to $50 billion." It does not totally violate truth to paraphrase this as "as much as $50 billion," but the figures are for estimates (sources not identified) other than the Justice Department's and in a context clearly meant to disparage, not endorse, such estimates.

Whether you take the GAO-Johnson task force's $50 billion maximum for gambling alone or the Time-Anderson $48 billion for total Mob enterprise, all four authorities draw the opposite conclusion from what you might expect.

After all, seven years ago a U.S. attorney-general put the gross for organized crime at $50 billion. Since then the value of the dollar has shrunk by over a third. Merely to keep pace with the cost of living, the Mafia would have had to boost its gross receipts to $75 billion or so. Instead, it is either mired at $50 billion (GAO) or has actually slipped to $48 billion (Time-Anderson). Yet all three see organized crime not as a victim of creeping stagflation but very much on the rise: "Big, Bad and Booming" (Times); "The war on organized crime is faltering" (GAO); "The Federal Heat on Organized Crime is Subsiding" (Anderson).

Disclaimers

And, even in inflated 1978 dollars, the $48-to-50-billion Mafia gross, with its $25 billion in untaxed profits, prompts us to calculate with awe the take-home pay of Time's 55,000 made and unmade Mafiosi — presumably down to the thugs who break legs for the loan sharks. Average for the 55,000: a little under $500,000 a year, or just about par for a chairman of the board of — what else? U.S. Steel.

One could go on. There is an "official estimate" of the rat population of New York (eight million) extracted from an accommodating official there nearly 20 years ago and sanctified through unchanging repetition not only by that city's press but in Time, Newsweek, the Wall Street Journal and speeches on the floor of Congress.

In many such cases, to be sure, there is the ass-covering disclaimer: "While it may be too early for the experts to compute the precise cost of . . ." or "Nobody outside the Mafia knows the full extent of their operations, but . . ." are typical formulations. But the disclaimer it leaves is not so much of the imprecision of the number to follow as the likelihood that — if you really hit it on the nose — that the number might be still larger.

No Ideology

Most of the eye-popping numbers cited here have no particular ideology. Their function is essentially to hype a story — to suggest that the subject is very important, unprecedented or otherwise memorable. And, when the story is competitive, bonuses are seldom awarded for having the lowest numbers.

In this respect the routine press pursuit of the biggest numbers, or sometimes any number, is a different case from that classic of press criticism, the "Rubber Type Army" of Chiang Kai-shek, immortalized by A. J. Liebling, whose numbers waxed and waned in keeping with the source's — or the paper's — fury ove President Truman's refusal to unleash them. Nor is it like such currently tendentious figures as the number of Cubans in Ethiopia, MIRVs in Russia or people on the White House staff.

Such numbers are generally volunteered by sources with stake in a dispute. They carry their own warning flag, are apt to be dealt with warily in the first instance and responded to quickly by other parties in the dispute.

Potholes

The contrasting case is where the press and officialdom, or "experts," or the passive "it" (as in "it is estimated that") are the joint parents of some proud and towering figure. When reporters press a bureaucrat who doesn't have the foggiest idea for the dollar cost of a riot still in progress, for the number of potholes left by yesterday's snowstorm, for a census of the rats or closet deviates or people watching a motorcade or the earnings of anything so ill-defined (and tight-lipped) as organized crime, they are collaborating in their own deception.

Looking on Bright Side

By CALVIN TRILLIN

(A column in The Nation)

I was pleased that Dr. Norman Vincent Peale announced his intention to do a good-news radio program for ITT just as the Korean bribery scandal revealed to me the bright side of the war in Vietnam. It is so rarely that Dr. Peale and I have the opportunity to march in step. Once I got the hang of seeing the bright side, in fact, I was even able to see something bright about Dr. Peale's sponsor. There was, after all, a piece about ITT in the New York Times recently that carried the cheery sub-headline "U.S. Indicates No Criminal Charges Will Be Brought Against Geneen."

Because we lost the war in Vietnam, the Tongsun Park hearings made me realize, we will not have to spend billions of dollars propping up a government in Saigon that, once having mastered the democratic process, would spend part of those billions bribing our congressmen to assure the steady flow of more billions. If the Vietnamese want to bribe someone with his own money from now on, they'll just have to bribe the Russians.

In case Norman Vincent Peale requires further evidence of what good news our defeat in Vietnam really was, he need only contemplate the presence in the U.S. of another triple-handled man of God — the Rev. Sun Myung Moon. The Reverend Moon is Korean — just one more result of our shortsightedness in not permitting ourselves to be, as they used to say in the fifties, pushed into the sea at Pusan. We were fortunate in having General Westmoreland and that crowd running our side the next time around. Now that we have been pushed into the air over the American embassy in Saigon, we need not worry that in 10 or 15 years some Vietnamese industrialist will proclaim himself the Messiah and then snatch Scarsdale clean of clear-eyed youths in order to build a New World Order of candy-peddlers and panhandlers.

I was tempted to abandon bright-sidedness last week when I came across a remarkably prescient H. L. Mencken quotation that seems to have been making the rounds of Washington egg-head circles lately. In an essay that described Henry Grady's New South as "depressingly similar to the Old Middle-West," Mencken wrote, "On those dark moments when I fear that the Republic has trotted before these weary eyes every carnival act in its repertoire, I cheer myself with the thought that someday we will have a president from the deserts of the Deep South. ... The president's brother, a prime specimen of Boobus Collumnus Rubericus, will ... gather his loutish companions on the porch of the White House to swill beer from the bottle and snigger over whispered barnyard jokes about the darkies. The president's cousin, La-Verne, will travel the Halleluyah circuit as one of Mrs. McPherson's soldiers in Christ, praying for the conversion of some Northern Sodom's most Satanic pornographer as she waves his work — well thumbed — for all the yokels to gasp at. ... The president's daughter will record these events with her box camera. ... The incumbent himself, cleansed of his bumpkin ways by some of Grady's New South hucksters, will have a charm comparable to that of the leading undertaker of Dothan, Alabama."

At least Jimmy Doesn't Tell stories about Amy

What bright side can one find in having to spend three more years hearing incessantly about a First Family so predictable that it could be predicted in 1928? There is one: the president virtually never tells any cute stories about Amy. He has either restrained a strong parental instinct for the good of the nation, or Amy is the only nine-year-old alive without a trace of personal charm.

As the father of two charming daughters about Amy's age, I can imagine how difficult such restraint must be — even though I have never bothered to exercise it myself. I simply explain my excesses — my repetitions of Abigail's most telling punch lines, my rendition of Sarah's rendition of "I'm Don Jose from Far Rockaway" — by posting on the wall of my office a quotation from a president to whose incumbency the Carter administration is often compared, William Henry Harrison. (Oddly enough, Harrison had his own problems with the Middle East. It was his secretary of state who caused a diplomatic incident by mumbling, as he emerged from a Cairo conference, "If there were inferior races, the Arabs would be one of them.") Harrison, so the story goes, replied to his wife's suggestion that he boasted too much about their daughter by saying, "Anyone who is not objectionable about his daughter is a pervert."

Once I had brightsided the Carters, I turned, in an even-handed fashion, to Governor Jerry Brown of California. Brown is single. No daughters to date movie stars or sons to be photographed with Bianca Jagger. As far as I know, he does not even have any friends. A Brown presidency, in other words, would be a sort of breathing spell for those of us who have been made by Bert Lance to wonder what we found so repellent about Bebe Rebozo. A savvy brightsider might build Brown's presidential campaign on just that sort of strength: "Vote for Jerry Brown — No Immediate Family."

MVB Calls Halt To ICBC Squeals

VANCOUVER (CP) — There's no cause for concern over the effect speeding tickets outside British Columbia will have on your driving record, Art Price, administrator of drivers' licences for the Motor Vehicle Branch, said Monday.

He said in an interview that the branch is no longer sending records of minor out-of-province traffic violations to the Insurance Corporation of B.C., so traffic offences such as speeding aren't reflected in insurance rates.

Because provincial and state laws vary greatly, only violations of the Criminal Code of Canada and counterparts in other countries are referred to ICBC, Price said.

The changes came after numerous complaints by drivers who paid traffic fines rather than go to the trouble of pleading their innocence in court—only to learn when they got home that points were assigned to their licence and their insurance rates were raised.

This was a type of double jeopardy, Price said.

The changes mean a B.C. resident doesn't pay (in insurance rates) for offences he commits in the United States. The B.C. driver arrested for drunk driving in Washington may face a suspension of his licence there and in B.C., but his ICBC rates are not affected. The only monetary cost he faces is the fine which might be levied by Washington.

"This may seem soft, but that's the way it is," Price said.

"The B.C. driver in Washington shouldn't be hassled anymore than the Washington resident."

The B.C. driver convicted in another province of a Criminal Code offence such as impaired driving faces the same fate as if the offence were committed in B.C.

Salesman Suspended

VANCOUVER (CP) — Roger Brian Ashton, a securities salesman employed by Davidson and Co. Ltd., has had his registration suspended for 30 days as a result of the sale of shares of Ruskin Developments Ltd., a Vancouver Curb Exchange listing, to seven residents of North Dakota, William S. Irwin, superintendent of brokers, said Monday.

Irwin said a hearing in February was told Ashton sold Ruskin shares while in North Dakota during July, 1977, when he was not registered to sell securities in that state and Ruskin was not qualified for sale under North Dakota laws.

MEMORY HAZED - LAWYER

NANAIMO (CP) — The lawyer for one of three RCMP officers charged with assault causing bodily harm told their county court trial Monday that the memory of a man who claims he was beaten by police is hazed by his use of alcohol and possibly drugs.

Mike Hutchison made the comment in a defence submission for Constable Bruce Waite. Also charged with assaulting Robert Raymond Simms of Vancouver in the Ladysmith RCMP office on Oct. 2, 1977 are constables Dave Downey and William Van Wormer.

Simms earlier testified that he was picked up by police on a Ladysmith street after drinking seven glasses of beer in a hotel. He said he was injured by rough police treatment after being taken to the RCMP station in the Vancouver Island community.

Cecil Bransen, lawyer for Downey, said that if the officers wanted to hurt Simms, they would have chosen somewhere more private than the police office.

Bransen said that while Simms testified he was physically hurt in the incident, Dr. Stanley Grey, who examined Simms after the incident, told the court the man did not need treatment.

INDIANS, CPR SET FOR TALKS

CRANBROOK (CP) — Leaders of the St. Mary's Indian band will meet Wednesday with representatives from CP Rail and the department of Indian affairs to resolve a dispute that sparked a two-day rail blockade last week, band administrator Lloyd Lezard said today.

The natives manned blocakdes 13 kilometres northeast of here Thursday to protest what they claim is the loss of 80 acres of land through erosion.

The erosion, they said, resulted from the diversion of the St. Mary's River eight years ago to accommodate relocation of a rail line.

The band permitted trains to proceed Friday after discussions with CPR officials who rode in a rail car to the blockade.

The band rejected an earlier suggestion that it meet with government and rail officials in Vancouver, maintaining it wanted officials to be able to take a first-hand look at the erosion.

Gov't Plans Legal School

An institute to train persons involved in all aspects of the provincial justice system will open this September in Vancouver.

The school, to be known as the Justice Institute of British Columbia, will provide training for court, police, corrections and sheriff services personnel. It will be be extended to members of the provincial fire services.

The institute has received designation under the Colleges and Provincial Institutes Act, Education Minister Pat McGeer said, and will have a $4 million budget for 1978-79.

Attorney-General Garde Gardom said that, besides providing programs to his ministry, the institute will help develop models for delivering justice training through co-operative arrangements with regional colleges, institutes, universities, public schools and community-based organizations.

The police training function within the institute will still be known as the B.C. Police Academy, Gardom said.

The institute's board will consist of nine members, including: Sandy Robertson of Vancouver, Robert Stewart of Vancouver, David Chapman of West Vancouver, Jack Pomfret of Vancouver, Donald Sorochan of Vancouver, Len Maracle of North Vancouver, A. P. Pantages of West Vancouver, Joseph Cohen of Vancouver and Glen Ridgway of Duncan.

Mortimer Heads Commission

Geoffrey Mortimer, a former RCMP deputy police commissioner, has been named acting chairman of the British Columbia Police Commission, Attorney-General Garde Gardom said Monday.

Mortimer, 60, a member of the commission since 1975, was named to replace Art Phillips, who resigned last month to seek the federal Liberal nomination in Vancouver Centre.

Mortimer spent 35 years in the RCMP before retiring in 1972. He is expected to hold the position until a full-time chairman is found.

2,4-D BACKED BY KELOWNA

KELOWNA (CP) — City council voted Monday to co-operate with the provincial government's plans to use the herbicide 2,4-D this summer in an attempt to control Eurasian milfoil in the Okanagan Lakes system.

In a split vote, the council has agreed to allow the environment ministry to treat about 100 of 300 acres of milfoil weed on the foreshore of Okanagan Lake at Kelowna.

Earlier this year, council had asked the government for further assurances that the use of 2,4-D, a chemical alleged to cause birth defects and cancer, was safe. Environment Minister Jim Nielsen replied with a statement that 2,4-D, when used properly, was safe and that the government would not use it if it wasn't.

Hydro Buys Land for Dam

British Columbia Hydro will pay $390,000 for 1,286 acres of privately-owned land in the Pend D'Oreille River Valley near Trail to replace habitat lost by a dam project.

The purchase, approved by the cabinet, is the first major step in a compensation program for habitat lost because of construction of the Seven Mile power project on the river, Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf said in an interview Monday.

The property was purchased from Pend D'Oreille Enterprises Ltd. of Calgary which had acquired it during the last three years.

Bawlf said the purchase was part of a $1.8 million plan to replace wildlife habitat lost because of flooding at the Revelstoke, Mica and Pend D'Oreille dams, and negotiated through the cabinet's environment and land-use committee.

The minister said the government would own the properties and Hydro would provide further financing for their development.

Bawlf said the Pend D'Oreille property contains valuable deer winter range, and a co-ordinated resource management plan and a wildlife management plan have been prepared by the fish and wildlife branch.

today's markets

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Prices continued to rise fractionally in active mid-afternoon trading today on the Toronto stock market.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 2.53 million shares, up from 2.38 million at the same time Monday.

Declines edged advances 198 to 193 with 216 issues unchanged.

A total of 6,707,317 common shares were tendered at $12.50 a share and 1,149,053 preferred shares at $21 a share in the Power Corp. of Canada offer for all Investors Group shares. Trading was delayed to 1 p.m. for the sale.

Ego Mines Ltd. fell five cents to $2.25 a share and American Eagle Petroleums Ltd. 14 cents while Oakwood Petroleums Ltd. rose five cents to $4.20 a share following their opening resumptions. Oil-drilling results from the companies' joint venture in the West Pembina of Alberta were unsatisfactory.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were generally higher active afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange. Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 1,911,700 shares, compared with 197,100 shares traded up to the same time Monday. Brascan A gained ¼ at $17⅛, Oshawa A ⅛ at $6, Norcen Energy Resources ⅜ at $16.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined moderately today, running up against some early selling pressure in the wake of a recent accumulation of bad economic news.

Losers maintained a 3-to-2 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was active. NYSE volume reached 28 million shares by mid-afternoon.

The Dow had risen more than seven points Monday to a five-month high, as traders shrugged off the news of rising rates, inflation worries and some concern about the economic outlook. But today those factors seemed to prompt some investors to cash in on the market's recent gains.

The U.S. government late last week reported a 0.8-percent rise in the consumer price index for March.

London

LONDON (CP) — Nervousness over a possible rise in short-term interest rates sent the London stock market moderately lower near the close of light trading. The Financial Times index was down 1.3 to 464.4 an hour before the close. Leading industrials were mixed, while gold issues eased with the lower bullion price. Canadian stocks firmed.

BONDS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were unchanged in active trading on the Canadian bond market Monday. The short, mid, and long-term issues remained the same. Provincial and corporate issues were alos unchanged. Day-to-day money was available at 7½ per cent.

U.S. Steel

United States Steel Chairman Edgar B. Speer says despite his firm's record loss of $58.7 million in the first quarter of 1978, a profitable month of March and an end to strikes indicate 1978 should be a good year.

The largest quarterly loss previously sustained by the nation's largest steelmaker was $31.1 million in 1959. Its last loss occurred in 1971, when it finished the third quarter $10.5 million in the red.

The loss of 70 cents a share contrasts with income of 33 cents a share, or $27.4 million, in the same period of 1977.

The nation's ninth-largest steelmaker, Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp., has announced losses of $18.1 million in January through March.

U.S. Steel's sales and revenues in the first quarter were $2.46 billion, compared with $2.27 billion a year ago.

The 110-day United Mine Workers strike, lingering effects of a 4.5-month iron ore miners strike and a severe winter hurt virtually all of U.S. Steel's business segments, particularly in January and Feburary, Speer said.

Maclean-Hunter

Maclean-Hunter Ltd. of Toronto plans capital expenditures this year of about $20 million, mostly in cable television and printing plant improvements, Donald Campbell, company chairman, said.

The company reported a profit in 1977 of $9.72 million on revenue of $198 million, compared with $7.14 million on $175 million the year before.

Campbell told the company's annual meeting that about $12 million will go for cable television additions in 1978, about half of it in the United States.

The cable company operates 16 cable television systems in 23 communities in Ontario and the U.S. There are 267,000 subscribers in Ontario and 33,500 in New Jersey.

About $4 million will be spent on a new printing press and other pressroom improvements, half of which will be used to produce Maclean's Magazine, which will become a weekly in September.

Campbell said $3.1 million will be spent to buy two Ottawa radio stations, CFOY-AM and CKBY-FM.

He said the company is reducing its dependency on national advertising, which contributed 65 per cent to revenue in 1970, but only 42 per cent in 1977.

Cable television accounted for 32 per cent of income, a decrease from 34 per cent in 1976.

Periodical and book publishing contributed 29 per cent of revenues, compared with 22 per cent in 1976.

The company's broadcasting interests generated 21 per cent in revenue, down from 26 per cent in 1976.

G-W Life

Great-West Life Assurance Co. says net income attributable to shareholders was $4,110,000 or $2.05 a share for the first three months of 1978, compared with $2,353,000 or $1.17 for the same quarter last year.

A meeting of the board of directors was told sales of life insurance coverage and annuities reached a total $1,481,593,000 for the first quarter of 1978, a rise of 50 per cent over the same period last year.

Individual life and annuities sales accounted for $365,535,000, while group life and annuities amounted to $1,116,058,000. Health insurance in force, in terms of gross annual premiums, was $325,794,000 on March 31, 1978.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A father and his son were jointly charged Monday in Victoria provincial court with robbery with threats of violence and remanded until today.

Charged were 42-year-old Angus Nelson Townsend, 2683 Blanshard, and 22-year-old Michael Nelson Townsend, 3140 Washington.

They were arrested by Victoria city police in connection with the Friday holdup of Ron's Chevron Service, 2200 Quadra.

Judge Blake Allan granted crown counsel Don Laughton's application for a one-day remand in custody before the questions of election of trial method and bail be considered.

* * *

"The key is in the lock and is just about to be thrown away," Judge Fred Green warned a 23-year-old.

Green issued the warning after sentencing Roy Thomas Gunderson, also known as James Willson, to 10 months in jail and also placed him on 12 months probation.

Gunderson was found guilty following a trial March 23 of breaking into Alberta Meat Market, 1911 Cook, on the morning of Feb. 17 and taking approximately $95 in cash. The glass in the front door was broken and Gunderson was found walking in front of the store about five minutes later.

Gunderson's lengthy criminal record dated back to Feb. 19, 1971, when he was given a term of one year in jail for theft over $50 and four counts of breaking and entering. He has also been convicted of escape and being unlawfully at large.

Defence lawyer David Wilson described his client as a delightful, bright young man, "an individualist." Wilson said Gunderson's problem was self control. "He can't keep his hands on his own merchandise."

He asked Green to consider the fact Gunderson was substantially impaired at the time of the break-in and suggested that, had he been driving a car, he may have done far more damage to society.

Wilson said the interest of society could be served two ways in this case; a "good, strong, 10-year sentence and throw away the key," or a short sentence with supervised training and programs of slow integration back into society.

He asked the judge to note that Gunderson was first institutionalized at the age of 15 or 16 and that the longest period of time he has been out of jail since is nine months.

Green said there was a very clear indication of support from the community. The judge also took notice that the one-year sentence he received in 1971 was at the age of 16 and that Gunderson was never given a probation term up to 1973.

However, the judge also noted that Gunderson had received two probation periods between 1973 and the present time.

"That, Mr. Gunderson, is something which cannot be explained away," Green said.

In passing sentence, Green said he would recommend that every effort be made to consider release on day parole or any other program of systematic release into the community.

An 18-year-old youth charged with a Sunday break-in at a credit union was released on his own recognizance in the sum of $200 and remanded to Friday for election.

Brian John David Birks, 755 Market, was charged with breaking and entering the Greater Victoria Savings Credit Union, 1001 Blanshard.

Laughton did not oppose legal-aid lawyer Brian MacKenzie's application for Birks' release.

* * *

Allan sentenced a 17-year-old to 21 days in jail after listening to the circumstances and learning that the youth had a conviction for drinking-driving less than six months ago.

John David Rodger, 1576 Midgard, pleaded guilty to driving with a blood-alcohol content over .08 April 14. Laughton said Rodger clipped another car at Douglas and Hillside shortly after 11 p.m., April 13, and was followed to Denny's Restaurant, 3100 Douglas, by the victim.

The victim told Victoria city police Rodger refused to discuss the accident and drove off, again with the victim in pursuit. For the better part of an hour, Laughton continued, Rodger was followed until he returned to Denny's, where police arrested him.

Breath test readings of .27 and .26 were obtained and Laughton also told the court Rodger was convicted of impaired driving Nov. 25 and was fined $400 on that occaision.

* * *

Fined $350 for drinking-driving was Dianne Lesley Gibson, 18, of 3800 Quadra.

Dangerous Driving Fine $750

A guilty plea to dangerous driving brought a fine of $750 in county court Monday for Peter Robert Ash, 24, of Esquimalt.

The offence occurred June 17. In default of payment of the fine, Ash will spend 60 days in jail.

James Michael Pogue, 34, was convicted of possession of three pounds of marijuana in his Fairfield home Dec. 1, 1976. He was fined $500, in default six months.

William Robert Smith, 27, was given a suspended sentence and placed on probation for one year. He pleaded guilty earlier to trafficking in MDA July 8. Court was told he sold 25 capsules for $100 to an undercover policeman.

Richard Stanley Lenshyn, 20, was given a suspended sentence and placed on probation for 18 months for attempting to cause a person to deal with a forged $20 cheque Aug. 31.

Nanaimo Bastion May Not Open

NANAIMO — Lack of help threatens to close the Hudson Bay fort bastion here to visitors this summer.

Ken Green, chief factor of Post 3 of the Native Sons of B.C. which operates the historic waterfront building as a museum, said his group received permission to hire only two youths for 44 days through the federal and provincial youth employment programs.

The Native Sons had applied for seven workers from the federal program and three from the provincial, Green said, but with only two workers it is impossible to set up a timetable.

If the bastion does not open, it will be the first time since 1891 with the exception of 1974 when it was moved to its present downtown location.

COWICHAN SCHOOL GRANT

DUNCAN — An assessment relief of $150,000 in the form of a provincial government grant is going to Lake Cowichan School District 66 to help overcome a 33 per cent decrease in general assessment.

The Cowichan Valley Regional District had asked Premier Bill Bennett to consider a grant after an assessment decrease of $16 million in 1978 to $35 million. This was mainly due to decreased values for forest lands and tree farms.

The grant will save area taxpayers about 4.33 mills this year and will reduce the mill rate increase to 2.1 from an anticipated 6.44.

Trust Thefts Net 2 Years

A 29-year-old former Saanich man was sentenced in county court Monday to two years less one day in jail for 13 counts of theft totalling $46,038 from Royal Trust.

Luis Guzman Acosta, who has since moved to Richmond, pleaded guilty last month. He is a former accounts manager of the Victoria branch of Royal Trust.

Crown counsel Richard Antony said Acosta made a number of internal transfers from the general account of Royal Trust for his own use between Dec. 5, 1975, and May 19, 1977.

Defence counsel Bruce McConnan said family pressures led Acosta to commit the offences. Most of the money was sent to relatives in the Phillipines and Canada and only a small amount went to himself.

He said the money was taken from the general account of Royal Trust and not from individual peoples' accounts. Acosta had expressed considerable remorse and had already made restitution of $30,000.

In addition, he said Acosta will sign a promissory note after serving his jail term for the balance of the funds taken from Royal Trust.

Judge Montague Drake ordered Acosta placed on two years probation after he completes the jail term.

Bennett Hits Vote Stall

Premier Bill Bennett criticized Prime Minister Trudeau Monday for creating political uncertainy by delaying a federal election.

Bennett said he will be glad when the federal election is over "because we need strong government and do not need additional political uncertainty on top of the uncertainty of Quebec."

He made the statement as debate opened in the legislature on the budgetary estimates of his office.

Opposition leader Dave Barrett concurred: "The people of B.C. would be better served by being in the middle of an election campaign rather than in suspended animation."

Bennett renewed his attack on the federal government for what he said is a lack of direction and economic planning. He said unemployment and inflation are the main problems facing the province although the B.C. economy performed better than national and other economies.

The premier said the fight against inflation must be continued.: "We cannot sit back and say we must leave inflation to deal with unemployment or leave unemployment to deal with inflation — the twin enemies still exist, still plague our country."

Bennett said inflation helped governments because it resulted in increased tax revenue "without having to impose new taxes."

As a result, "inflation has become a very cruel tax on those with fixed incomes."

The premier said Canadians have not been getting economic leadership and there is a lack of confidence in the country which has resulted in a lack of investment, high unemployment, high inflation, poor domestic performance, and declining competitiveness in international markets.

The premier also renewed his plea for free trade: "In protecting a market of 25 million, we've cut ourselves off from a market of 200 million to the south and hundreds of millions of potential consumers around the world."

Barrett said the call for free trade was stupid because employers with plants in B.C. and the United States would close their B.C. plants and add another shift to their U.S. plants thereby reducing their costs.

The former premier accused Bennett of not taking any action in cutting costs, and of talking gobbledegook while lettuce was $1.25 a head.

He said Bennett is always running away from the issues.

UBC Senator

Dante Lupini, superintendent of schools for the Vancouver school district, has been appointed to the senate of the University of British Columbia, the ministry of education said Monday.

Lupini will serve three years on the UBC body, the ministry said in a news release.

Weed Fences Set

The transport ministry has approved construction of two weed-fragment barriers in Osoyoos Lake, Environment Minister Jim Nielsen said Monday.

He said the barriers will be installed by the water investigations branch of his ministry as part of the program to control the spread of Eurasian water milfoil in the Okanagan lakes system.

The minister said in a news release that similar barriers have proved effective in the past. They consist of half-inch wire mesh fences suspended on steel posts with a 50-foot opening in the middle to allow boat traffic.

Single Board Eyed

The provincial government wants to merge the British Columbia Coast and Interior vegetable marketing boards, Agriculture Minister Jim Hewitt said Monday.

Hewitt said in a news release the government will first study the proposed amalgamation, which would create a B.C. vegetable marketing board to regulate the $35 million-a-year industry.

"It is my hope that this study will point the way toward the formation of one board in time for it to handle this year's fall crops," he said.

SALMO SAWMILL SOLD

Salmo Forest Products Ltd. of Salmo, has been purchased by Louisiana-Pacific Canada Ltd., Forests Minister Tom Waterland said Monday.

The minister said in a news release that purchase of the 25 million-board-feet-mill and 21,000 acres of land owned by Salmo, for an estimated $6 million, is subject to approval under the federal government's foreign investment review board.

He said the buyer's parent body is Louisiana-Pacific Corporation with headquarters in Portland, Ore., and that the purchase marks its first entry into Canada.

WATER, SEWER GRANTS EASED

The B.C. government has made it easier for municipalities and regional districts to qualify for grants to assist in construction of sewage and water facilities, Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis said Monday.

"The fact that the value of one mill has risen considerably in many communities this year tends to cut he size of the provincial grant," Curtis said in a news release.

"We are reversing that by reducing the grant formula to 2.5 mills from three mills."

He said the new rate will more than compensate for the effect of 1978 assessments on virtually all municipalities and regional districts and will provide increased grants to many communities.

The minister said the budget for this type of assistance had risen to an estimated $29.8 million from the 1977 total of $19.4 million.

All Hail That Ernie: Four Finals Just Fine

The weekend in review and Ernie McLean of the New Westminster Bruins is laughing his way to the Memorial Cup finals for an unprecedented fourth straight year. That's pretty fair in itself as Sudbury will soon find out, but the victory of the Bruins in the final playoff series, peculiar as it was in its makeup, is all the more remarkable.

The Bruins, it may be recalled, only barely made it into the final select three teams in the West, and by only one small point, and on the second last day of the season. That's close. Then everything jelled as McLean's teams have a habit of doing; and since then the Bruins have won 18 of 21 which has to be a playoff record of sorts for the simple reason that there never before has been a playoff like it.

And while all junior fans will be wishing the Bruins well, the Vancouver Canucks have been drawing the raves again. And not because they won't consider hiring McLean, which was the original issue, but because they have changed colors on some of their fans. It was an admirable anouncement, when it began, that there would be no change in the ticket prices for the season-ticket holders next year, until the next sentence dropped. That was the killer. Because now some of the seats would be changed in color and that, unfortunately, would put them in a higher price bracket; and, if the 2,000 or so who were affected were interested in retaining their seats, well . . . what would you do.?

* * *

That's muddled thinking of the worst sort considering what had gone before this season, the Canucks hardly demanding recognition even though they only missed the playoffs on the final weekend. And even then, there was another gaffe of sorts. Because before the Canucks were eliminated a letter was in the post from the front office to the patrons explaining how they could activate their priorities in the playoffs. That was a gasser. But now this. Oh, boy!

And incidentally, if four straight Memorial Cup finals aren't enough to warrant that the coach might be worth a look to step up in company, then what is?

It's not that McLean's coaching style is to be condoned at all times, but he has had success with it. And let's face it: the Canucks haven't had much success with theirs.

Oh, well, now its semi-final time in the National Hockey League and the feeling here is that when the Leafs went to the body against the Islanders they took something away from the New York club. Even at that it was goalie Mike Palmateer who made the final difference in the final game. But the hitting helped, and come to think of it, isn't that McLean's philosophy as well? You bet it is, but in junior company it's called intimidation.

* * *

Otherwise embryo coach Harvey Stevenson appeared pleased enough with what he saw of his Budgets (nee Bates) in their seasonal debut against Alberni on the weekend. Especially as a couple of new boys showed they wanted a piece of the action and performed as if they can make a place for themselves. Alden Govenlock gives the club another strong catcher to go with Bob Burrows and it would surprise no-one if they happen to alternate between catcher and first-base this year. Denny Eckert also caught the eye, while Dave Wilson and Larry Cole showed well enough on the mound that perhaps Dave Ruthowsky, who deserted the club this year for Ontario won't be missed as much as it had been feared earlier.

The return of Stan Kern, who didn't enjoy the miserable year he had in 1977, also bodes well for the club. The big guy is all heart and still a lot of ability even though he may be in the shadow of a fine career; and if his troublesome back and that tender finger on his pitching hand hold up, look out! It could be another banner year.

Another surprise is that Gary Player isn't superman after all. Imagine going into the final round of a golf tournament tied for the lead and then winding up six shots back. What a way for a Masters champion and the winner of three consecutive tour titles to behave. Back to the drawing board Gary.

* * *

Earlier in the year, it was being suggested by the Vancouer media that perhaps they had a couple of new whipping boys in the Whitecaps of the North American Soccer League and the Canadians of the Pacific Coast Baseball League. Weren't things all fouled up at the start, the Whitecaps looking absolutely horrible in their debut and the Canadians having no rapport at all in their front office, the general manager quitting before the season had even started, and all that?.

But presto! Now all is sweetness and light. They are all backing off. The Canadians are at .667, half a game out of first place, playing well, and apparently have a healthy core of fans to keep them otherwise stable, while the Whitecaps are winning, are out in front of their division, and if what Vancouver needs is a winner, maybe they are it.

But all this talk of Vancouver being a city of losers has another team upset. That's Vancouver Burrards, who play their Western Lacrosse season opener against the Victoria Shamrocks here Wednesday night. And they should be, because Burrards are the only true blue national champs that Vancouver owns.

But here tomorrow night! Is it that time of the year already?

Campbell Goes First in Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Houston Oilers, to the surprise of no one, officially made Heisman Trophy winner Earl Campbell their No. 1 choice in the opening round of the National Football League's college draft today.

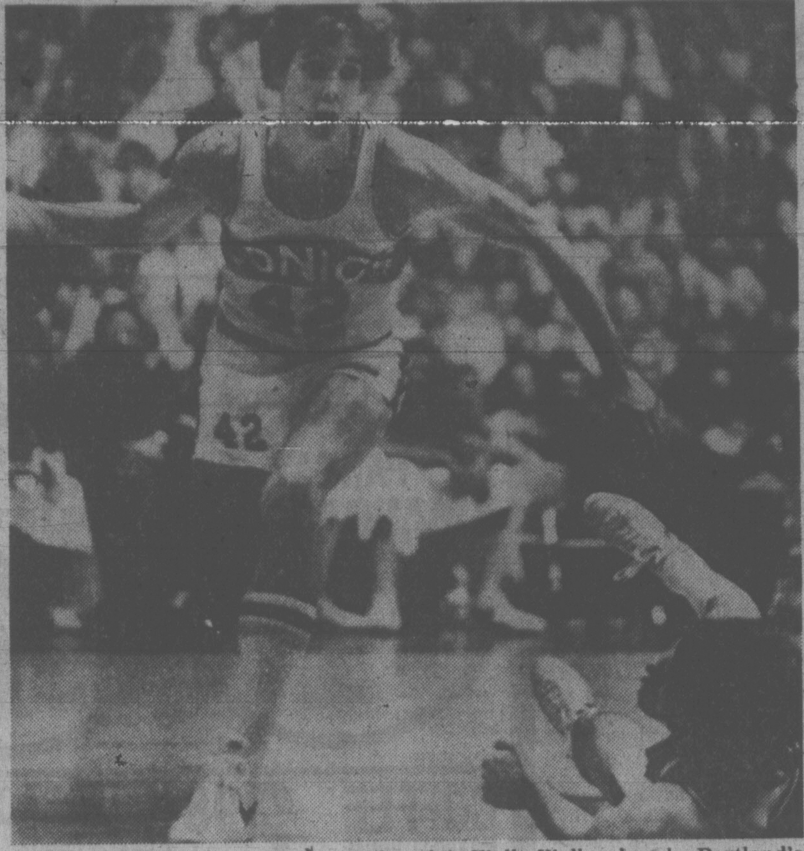
The University of Texas running back, who gained 1,744 yards and was the fifth leading ground-gainer in major college history, was the man the Oilers wanted as the Houston equivalent of Tony Dorsett, the sensational runner who solidified Dallas Cowboys' offence last season.

To get the shot at the six-foot, 200-pound Campbell, the Oilers gave Tampa Bay, which owned the No. 1 overall selection, four draft choices (two this season and two next year) and tight end Jimmy Giles.

Racing Resumes

TORONTO (CP) — Thoroughbred racing will be conducted as scheduled Wednesday afternoon at Woodbine despite requests by the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association that its members withold entries until a purse settlement is reached.

The Ontario Jockey Club was able to gather enough entries to put on a full-schedule nine-race card for Wednesday.



OUTA MY WAY is the message as Seattle's Wally Walker knocks Portland's Larry Steele to the floor Monday night in National Basketball Association playoff game at Seattle. Seattle defeated Portland 105-94 to eliminate defending champions and advance to next round. Story on page 14. (AP wirephoto).

Will Leafs Try Hitting?

MONTREAL (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs, on a high because they eliminated New York Islanders in the National Hockey League's quarter-final round, begin their second stiff challenge of the Stanley Cup playoffs here tonight.

And while the Leafs rough-and-tumble style was enough to get them by the Islanders, there is no certainty that it will work against Montreal Canadiens, a club noted for its scoring power, but a team that now can mix it up with anybody.

"We are a young team and I'm sure we'll give the Canadiens a good run," said Toronto defenceman Ian Turnbull. "We have the momentum going after the series against the Islanders. It gave us a lot of confidence."

Turnbull, who once played for Montreal Junior Canadiens when they were part of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, has been a pleasant revelation for Toronto in post-season play.

He leads the playoff scoring race with four goals and eight assists for 12 points, one more than Rick MacLeish of Philadelphia Flyers and Danny Gare of Buffalo Sabres.

Turnbull's rise to prominence came about due to the unfortunate eye injury suffered by Swedish defenceman Borje Salming in the third game of the Islanders series.

Salming was released from hospital on Monday, but he is not likely to participate in the first three games of the series.

Tonight's game will be telecast on the full CBC network starting at 8 p.m. EDT.

Flyers, Bruins In Old Rivalry

BOSTON (CP) — At first, it appears Harry Sinden, general manager of Boston Bruins, has a short memory.

Sinden, whose team swept Philadelphia in four games during the National Hockey League semi-final playoffs last season, has an unusual reaction to the club's meeting with the Flyers in this year's semi-finals.

"Why do we always get Philly?" Sinden asked, referring to Toronto's overtime victory Saturday night over New York Islanders which propelled the Maple Leafs into the other semi-final against Montreal Canadiens.

The Bruins were set to take on the Islanders—2-1 losers Saturday to Toronto—but the Leafs' surprising 4-3 quarter-final series triumph changed that.

However, it may not be a bad idea for the former Stanley Cup-winning coach, and victorious Team Canada '72 mentor, to forget about last season and think back a couple of years.

The first time the two clubs met in Stanley Cup play was the 1973-74 final, when Philadelphia's surprising Broad Street Bullies became the first expansion team to win the Cup by beating the Bruins in six games.

The Flyers' team that was to win the Cup again the following year featured the first of the NHL's so-called goon squads, with Dave (The Hammer) Schultz and Bob (Hound Dog) Kelly the key members.

Philadelphia then met Boston in the 1975-76 semi-finals and took the series in five games, outscoring the Bruins 19-12 in the process.

"Whoever gets to the finals, this will be the best series of it all," Cherry said Monday. "There's two tough teams playing off.

MEN'S FIVEPIN BOWLER-OF-YEAR ROLLOFF SUNDAY

Five Former Champs in Final

FRED HICKEY
. . . hot former winner

Five former winners will be gunning for second Bowler-of-the-Year crowns when fivepinners in the 15th annual Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest begin rolloffs Sunday at 1 p.m. at Town and Country Lanes.

Fred Hickey, who took the title in 1972, must rate a favored role. He qualified for the rolloffs by bowling the highest series of the 26-week season, a 1,048 series during the 14th week.

Hickey's hot streak continued after qualifying and he later set a new city fivepin record of 1,088.

Other former winners back in the running are John Hoult (1966 winner), Darrell Prezeau (1969), George Waugh (1973) and King Lee (1974).

Two other over-1,000 series were rolled during the season. Ted Penston bowled a 1,011 in the second week and Lee connected with a 1,004 during the final week.

Bowlers rolling the highest three-game scratch series in regular league play on southern Vancouver Island lanes during each week of the competition received Bowler-of-the-Week awards and qualified for rolloffs in each of four divisions — men's and women's tenpins and men's and women's fivepins.

The tenpin rolloffs were held last weekend at Mayfair Lanes with Emmy Plesch winning the women's crown and Bob Willis taking the men's laurels.

Both the men and women fivepinners will be rolling off Sunday under the same three-game scratch format.

Rolloff winners will receive a Times Trophy and any champion who is also a daily subscriber to the Victoria Times will collect a $150 bonus prize.

Through the co-operation of Town and Country manager Ken Jones, rolloff participants will not have to pay bowling fees.

Team Canada Goes Canadian

PRAGUE (CP) — Team Canada is altering its strategy as it prepares for Thursday's meeting with Czechoslovakia—its first test against the big guns at the world hockey championship.

The team, improving each game since losing its opener to Finland, resorted to Canadian-style hockey Monday night and came away with a convincing 6-2 victory over a physically tough West German team.

The Canadians have completed their round-robin schedule against the so-called weaker clubs—Finland, East Germany, the United States and West Germany—with a 3-1 record and are in fourth place.

The Russians, Czechoslovaks and Swedes are all undefeated, but all their games have been against the lower-ranked clubs.

The Soviet Union dumped East Germany 10-2 in Monday's only other game.

There are several ways for Canada to make it into the top four and qualify for the four-country championship round-robin, but the simplest would be to beat two of the three big clubs.

Assuming that Finland loses to Sweden today but then wins its remaining games, it could slip into the top four unless Canada can win two of its remaining three.

Assistant coach Marshall Johnston explained why the club went back to North American-style hockey—two forewards coming back, one forward forechecking and the defence standing up at the blue line.

"With the big ice surface, you don't have puck possession all that much under our system, but I'm not sure its logical to try to adapt to the European game in 10 days," he said. "The Europeans have been playing the puck control game for 15 years, so we might as well try to play the game our way and let it go at that."

Playing their own brand of hockey, the Canadians got a powerful performance from Los Angeles Kings centre Marcel Dionne who scored three goals and brought his total, officially, to seven—tops in the tournament. However, one goal was actually scored by Pittsburgh Penguins linemate Jean Pronovost.

Vancouver Canucks left winger Don Lever, who has had problems controlling the puck on scoring chances, broke through with his first two goals Monday and Dennis Maruk, the speedy Cleveland Barons centre, got one to bring his total to five.

The Canadians, despite outshooting the West Germans 38-28, were outplayed at times and Pittsburgh goalkeeper Denis Herron had to be sharp, especially in the first period.

Canada took seven of the 13 minor penalties with St. Louis Blues centre Garry Unger getting a 10-minute misconduct in addition to his minor for spearing. One of the West German goals, by Rainer Philipp in the third, came on a power play.

(Summary on page 13)

Bakers to Show Off New Players In Debut

Victoria McDonalds, in the second year of a rebuilding program after winning the Canadian-championship Minto Cup in 1976, will have 10 newcomers in the lineup tonight while facing Richmond Roadrunners in their Western Canada Junior Lacrosse League opener at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Coach Muzz Bryant cut the team to 21 on Monday but he'll be without the services of captain Jim Boyd, who is expected to miss the early part of the season with a broken thumb.

Newcomers are goalkeeper Bill Thomas, who will back up holdover Mike Duch, as well as Brian Bell, Jim Ferguson, Mike Game, Murray McLaren, Greg McInnis, Rav Pallon, Wayne Reeve, Mark Roberts and Ed Van Dyk.

Some of the newcomers will add some much-needed size to the lineup. McInnis is a 200-pounder, Game weighs in at 190 and and Roberts, Van Dyk and Pallon are 170-pounders.

Holdover Doug Angrove, league rookie-of-the-year last season, has been cleared to play in the opener after undergoing minor knee surgery earlier this year.

Other holdovers are Scott Browning, Terry Jay, Rhys Wickes, Kevin Kennedy, Ron Sage, Paul Michael, Bob Derraugh, Tarey Pollock and Jeff Whitney-Griffiths.

"We have some more size and more speed, we can play the fast break and this is going to be an exciting club," said Bryant.

In the league opener Monday, Burnaby Cablevision tripped New Westminster Salmonbellies, 16-11.

Delesalle, Walstrom In Meet

TORONTO (CP) — Top competitors from Canada, the United States, China and Australia will take part in the Pacific Rim gymnastics event later this month in Edmonton and Vancouver.

Professionals Plan Island Championship

Vancouver Island professionals are on the verge of completing plans for their first Island championship tournament.

But not wishing to become embroiled in another controversy, the pros have taken care to point out that their 36-hole tournament will not conflict with the Vancouver Island Open.

The pros had been accused of boycotting the Island Open. They denied it (seven pros did start), but the accusation is recent enough to prompt some careful points about the tournament-to-be.

For one thing, the pros have emphasized that they will play their rounds on successive Fridays, on days when many professionals have their day off from work. Island Open day is the Sabbath, so there's no conflict.

The pros have a trophy and a sponsor who has agreed to contribute $500 towards prize money. Entry fees will boost available prize money to about $1,300.

The main prize will be the Vaughan Trapp Memorial Trophy, which had been previously presented to the low professional in the Celebrity tournament that had been held at Uplands for the past three years.

Still to be settled, however, are the dates and courses. The pros had hoped to be ready to play by this Friday but indicated on Monday that they will have to set the dates back to May 12 and 19.

* * *

Notes left over from the Island Open: Nanaimo's Non Marshall was a victim of the time change Sunday. . .The shift to daylight saving time caught Marshall unawares but he still had time to phone down and inform the starter of his plight. . .That enabled young Glen Barlow, the last junior to survive two rounds, to move into next Sunday's double round at Cedar Hill. . .And if you don't think the talent in the handicap division is tough, consider Jim Barlow's plight. . .Glen's father looked forward to meeting his son in next Sunday's quarter-final round but had to look at a two-under-par 70 scored by Uplands' Jim Taylor. . .It could have been a 69 but Taylor left his birdie putt on final hole an inch short. . .Phil Scott, the Glen Meadows amateur who knocked off Uplands' Mike Gray on Sunday, doesn't like to gloat over the fact he once won the Saskatchewan junior championship. . ."A second or third in a tournament out here is a more commendable achievement," he says, "because of the greater number of good golfers on the Coast."

* * *

History may be in the making when the PGA Cup Matches between the United States and Great Britain are contested at Plymouth, England. The dates are September 8 to 10, the 10th being a Sunday. And it's been an age-old custom that golf championships never conclude on a Sundy on English soil. But times are changing, even in England.

AND FINALLY: They say Jock Dunbar's voice changed into a soprano's after his tee shot on Uplands' 11th last week. . ."Uninsured!" was the Scot's first reaction as the ball rolled into the cup for a hole-in-one. . .Old friend Hugh Thorburn also belted a ace, Sunday on Colwood's 15th. . .Hugh's second. . .Also scoring a hole-in-one was Clark McMillan, on Oak Bay's 13th. . .Lanny and Ted Sawchuck combined for a net 136 to win Uplands' parent-child tournament. . .Brian Rands and Barney Brend took the adult-junior division with a net 141. . .Ernie Hipwell fired an impressive 77-17—60 for the first-round lead in Oak Bay's Todd Cup competition. . .

A Question For Seaver

By Associated Press

What did they say in 1908, when Cy Young won 13 games and lost 21? Was there no hope at all in 1911, when he finished 7-10?

Did everyone then ask, "What's wrong with Cy Young?" the way everyone now is asking, "What's wrong with Tom Seaver?"

Six starts into the 1978 baseball season, Seaver is 0-3 with an earned-run average of 6.52. He is, in his own words, "embarrassed and extremely frustrated.

"I've never had a period like I'm going through now," he says. "It's been a humbling experience."

Everyone who didn't know that already found out early Monday night, when Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson yanked Seaver in front of a national television audience. The Reds right-hander, a three-time Young Award winner, gave up seven hits and seven runs — six of them earned — in less than three innings as Philadelphia Phillies went on the pummel the Reds, 12-1.

"I wish I knew what it was," Seaver said. "If I did, I wouldn't be in this situation."

In the other National League games, San Francisco Giants trimmed St. Louis Cardinals 2-1, Pittsburgh Pirates bested San Diego Padres 7-4 and Atlanta Braves edged New York Mets, 6-5.

In the only American League games, Boston Red Sox held on for a 9-6 triumph over Baltimore Orioles and New York Yankees topped Kansas City Royals, 8-4.

Since Pete Rose went hitless in four at-bats against the Phillies' Steve Carlton and remained four safeties short of the 3,000 milestone, the only saving grace for Reds fans was a seventh-inning home run by Johnny Bench, which ruined Carlton's shutout. Ironically, Carlton collected three hits.

Monday night's game was over after the Phillies' five-run first inning, during which Carlton laced a two-run single. The Philadelphia left-hander, who led NL pitchers with 15 runs-batted-in last year, raised his batting average to .429 and lowered his ERA to 2.48.

TOUR CANCELLED

DERBY, England (Reuter) — Derby County of English soccer's first division, has cancelled next month's tour of Australia because several key players were not able to make the trip.

$40,000 Soccer Ripoff

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego team in the North American Soccer League has accused a German first-division team of "absconding" with a $40,000 advance for two exhibition games.

The money was mailed to an agent for the Fortuna team in Dusseldorf in the form of a draft on the Bank of America and cashed, Bill Hanson, a spokesman for San Diego Sockers, said Monday.

"By the time we found out . . . they absconded with the money and the team was disbanded," Hanson said.

The money was a guarantee for a game scheduled Wednesday night with the Dusseldorf team in San Diego Stadium and another May 12 with the California Surf at Anaheim.

Sonics Knock Off Blazers

SEATTLE (AP) — Wally Walker scored eight points in the crucial fourth period and Fred Brown contributed six in the final 15 minutes to spark Seattle to a 105-94 victory Monday night over Portland Trail Blazers which gave the SuperSonics the best-of-seven National Basketball Association quarter-final series 4-2.

The triumph over the defending NBA champions sends the SuperSonics against the winner of the Denver Nuggets-Milwaukee Bucks series.

The SuperSonics led 75-69 going into the final period. Walker, a six-foot-seven forward acquired from the Blazers last November, scored his seventh and eighth points in the period on a pair of free throws with 4:25 left to give Seattle a 94-81 lead.

Brown, who finished with 19 points, scored Seattle's next three baskets for a 100-86 lead and Jack Sikma followed with a rebound stuff off a missed Brown shot with 1:27 left for a 16-point SuperSonics lead, their biggest of the game.

The Blazers, obliged because of injuries to play without regulars Bill Walton and Bob Gross and key reserve Lloyd Neal, trailed 55-49 at the half.

Dennis Johnson led Seattle with 20 points, followed by Webster, who added 19, and Jack Sikma, who had 14.

White Water Champs

DUNCAN — Eric Munshaw of North Vancouver placed second Sunday but still collected the British Columbia slalom white water championship for one-person kayaks near Skutz Falls on the Cowichan River.

Munshaw finished the course in 116.7 seconds, but was assessed 10 seconds in penalties, to finish runner-up to Dave Halperin of Seattle, who finished in 120.8 without any penalty.

However, Halperin wasn't eligible to win the provincial title because he is an American.

Phil Montgomery of Victoria finished third.

On Saturday, Victoria's Gord Price finished second to Iain Fisher of Vancouver in the slalom-boat section of the downriver races.

Trustees Eye Big Projects

The Greater Victoria school board will hold a special meeting tonight to discuss its 1978 capital expenditure program.

The board will also officially adopt the annual budget and pass a bylaw levying the 45.487 mill rate set for this year.

Trustees ran out of time during a regular meeting last week and had to reschedule the items.

Local taxpayers will pick up $28.7 million of the $46.8 million school district budget this year.

The capital expenditure program for the district was due in March, but trustees have had a difficult time allocating funds under what they say is a restrictive Ministry of Education format.

The school board has also been hampered because it is still determining school closures and space reductions and has not yet formulated a long-range plan for the district.

The meeting starts at 7:30 p.m. in the school board offices.

Firm Faces Curbs On Fan

The Capital Regional District board will consider telling Pacific Logging Company to stop using a burner fan that Sooke residents claim is destroying the quiet.

The regional local works and services committee decided Monday to recommend this be done after hearing a delegation of Sooke residents say they have to go away from Sooke to get peace on weekends.

The committee also wants to contact the company about ways to abate a nuisance caused by logging trucks which pass along the road to Kemp Lake every 10 minutes until about 1 a.m. or later.

After making a motion that the use of the fan should stop immediately and efforts be made to abate the rest of the nuisance from the operation, Sooke director Charles Perkins said: "Otherwise the company could have legal action for nuisance and compensation for people who have lost the enjoyment of their property."

Board chairman Jim Campbell said the company should have to justify its 16-hour-a-day operation.

★

No Saturna Drilling Need

A preliminary survey carried out by Willis, Cunliffe Tait and Co. Ltd. shows there is no need to drill for a water supply on Saturna Island.

In a report to the Capital Regional District's works and service committee the engineering company says there is enough surface water in the 260-are watershed above Money's dam and the 1,900 acres of the Lyal Creek watershed should be considered for future use if required.

The committee will recommend the engineers complete preliminary design and cost estimates in preparation for a referendum on installation of the sytem.

A new reservoir would have to be built for the Money's dam system and if Lyal Creek was to be used in the future it would require a pump station and elevated storage.

"THAT'S GIRLS FOR YA. SHE'S GOIN' HOME TO TAKE A BATH, AND NOBODY EVEN CALLED HER!"

The Bridge Expert

Some years ago, a bridge player who had just participated in his first tournament, told me this story. Near the end of the evening's play, when the East-West pair had arrived at my informant's table, he wearily asked the East player how many rounds remained to be played. East reached into his inner pocket, pulled out an almost empty bottle of happy water, eyed it, and wearily mumbled: "Oh, about two more rounds." He was right: he had timed his consumption perfectly. There were exactly two rounds remaining.

Opening lead: King of ♣.

In today's deal we have an example of that quality of "timing" which is so essential in all competitive endeavors.

Sitting South was Peter Leventritt, former president of the American Contract Bridge League. He captured West's club opening with his ace, after which he promptly led a diamond to dummy's ace. A diamond was next ruffed with South's queen of trumps.

The three of trumps was now played to dummy's eight, and another diamond was ruffed and another diamond was ruffed with the king of hearts. Then came the five of trunps to dummy's nine (picking up East's last trump en route), and this was followed by the ruffing of a fourth diamond. The board's jack of diamonds had just become the sole surviving diamond left in the deck.

Now a spade was led to the board's ace, and on the high jack of diamonds South discarded his losing club. A spade was then conceded to East's king, for the defender's only trick.

It is apparent, of course, that if declarer had taken the "Normal" spade finesse earlier in the play, he would have been defeated, since in this case he would have lost a spade and a club. It is equally apparent that he had timed his play perfectly by staying away from touching the spade suit until he had established dummy's jack of diamonds as a winner.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Land, property values could command attention. See places, people as they are, not as someone else would have you perceive them. Pisces, Virgo figure in scenario. Build on base that has been tested. You'll understand!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Short trips, passing fancies, older persons with definite ideas — these are part of your personal scenario. Capricorn could reveal some "backstage" gossip. In matters of speculation, stick with number 8.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Emphasize costs, locations, rights and permissions. You get rid of burden, make cash flow go — you gain added recognition. You shake off role of martyr, receive credit due. Know this and proceed in dynamic, confident manner.

Saanich Slow at Bubbles

When it comes to tennis almost everyone, it seems, is blowing bubbles.

And that's at least one reason why Saanich council felt reluctant Monday night to make a decision on whether the municipality should build its own tennis bubble, despite pressure to do so from Mayor Mel Couvelier.

The subject of the bubble has been inflated at committee and council meetings for the past several weeks, but there's still no decision on where, when or if it should be built.

Complicating the matter are recent indications that at least three other groups are considering similar development proposals.

Oak Bay is toying with the idea of a second indoor tennis centre, the Racquet Club is seeking membership approval to cover its five courts, and the owners of the Royal Oak Inn also have plans for an indoor facility.

A letter to council from the Racquet Club, read at Monday night's meeting in Mount Douglas senior secondary school, said surplus time at its proposed indoor courts would be made available to non-members on a pay-as-you-play basis.

In obvious impatience, Couvelier told his colleagues he could not understand why they were delaying making a decision, when it had been shown that the tennis bubble would provide a service, pay for itself and produce a profit after four years of operation.

"If we are going to build a bubble we should do it this year or forget it," he added.

But council ignored his persuasion and referred the matter to next week's meeting of the parks and recreation committee.

Elsewhere on the recreation scene, council agreed that the main baseball diamond at Lambrick Park be named the Wilf Sadler Memorial Field, in honor of the late booster of juvenile soccer and baseball.

Sewers Block Church

A proposed church at 4583 Wilkinson Road, which appeared to have cleared its last major hurdle at a public hearing last week, may have run into unexpected problems at the last minute.

Saanich council Monday night tabled final reading of the rezoning bylaw, after Mayor Mel Couvelier explained he had been told a few hours previously that the stormwater drainage costs involved in the development may be far higher than earlier estimated.

The applicants had orginally agreed to pay $15,000 for drainage improvements, "but in view of some problems that have come to light that figure is suspect," the mayor said.

The bylaw was tabled pending further staff investigation.

But notwithstanding the outcome, Ald. David Paterson said he intends to vote against final bylaw approval because he doesn't believe a church should be built in an area not served by sewers.

Ald. Robert Cameron said he would also vote against the bylaw.

In other business Monday night, council:

— Decided to call a public hearing on an application to rezone part of the former Growers Winery building on Quadra to enable conversion of a brick warehouse to a Keg 'n' Cleaver restaurant. The applicant, Goodwill Bottling Ltd., is also planning to build a bottling plant on the site.

— Rejected a rezoning application for a neighborhood pub on property at 5990-94 West Saanich Road. The Advisory Planning Commission had said the pub would be a traffic-generating commercial intrusion into a rural residential area.

THE STORY OF The Little Seamstress

Once there was a young woman who liked to design clothes. She sewed them on her sewing machine and sold them to her friends.

One day, she thought "I could sell many more of my beautiful dresses if I had a store so that everybody could see what I make". So the woman found a little shop to rent, and opened a boutique. She put ads in the newspaper to tell people all about it. People soon learned about her clever designs and were impressed by her deft needlework. Soon she had more orders than she could fill.

So the woman hired a friend to sew up the clothes that she designed. She would sketch in the evenings, spend the mornings searching for the gorgeous fabrics, the right trims, that perfect piece of lace to incorporate into her latest gown and give it that individual touch her customers loved so much. In the afternoons, both would sew furiously, and wait on customers as they came in.

Soon business was so good, that it became necessary to hire another person to look after the selling end of things, so that the woman could devote more time to designing and buying what she needed to work with. The woman was very happy. She was making a good living; two other people were too, and she enjoyed the reputation she was fast building for herself as a fashion designer.

But then a funny thing happened.

The young woman's father came to visit her from the east. "I can't understand you expanding, my dear," he said. "Don't you know there's a recession on? The foreign situation is a mess. The domestic financial picture is worse. Where have you been?"

The young woman pondered upon her father's words, and cancelled her order from the fabric house. She stopped changing her windows quite so often, and didn't place any more ads in her daily newspapers. Business dropped so badly in the next month that she had to let her helpers go.

"You were right, father" she said as she closed the shop for the last time, "We certainly are in the middle of a great recession."

Banks Loansharking?

OTTAWA (CP) — When a bank bills a customer for, say, $3 on an account overdraft of $100 for four days, would that constitute loansharking under a government bill introduced Monday?

The question was put to Justice Minister Ron Basford at a press conference on his proposed Criminal Code legislation, which would outlaw interest charges in excess of 60 per cent a year.

The overdraft example works out to an annual rate of more than 100 per cent interest on what, in effect, is a loan for a few days.

Basford smilingly shrugged off the question, saying he supposed the banks would want to take a good hard look at the proposed law in relation to their rates.

Criminals Facing Tougher Penalties

for indecent assault would be increased to 14 years from five years. Where serious physical or psychological harm results from rape, the charge would be aggravated indecent assault punishable by life imprisonment. The bill proposes that for the first time, a man could be charged for a sexual assault on his wife if they are living apart.

—Prostitution: Both males and females will be covered in offences relating to prostitution, and soliciting in a public place will not have to be "pressing or persistent" to be an offence. Under the proposed change a motor vehicle will constitute a public place and it will be an offence to procure children under 16 to engage in male or famele prostitution.

—Childnapping: A parent who akes a child from the spouse in violation of a custody order or violates custody arrangements will face criminal charges in future and jail terms up to five years.

—Child abuse: Where the child who has been abused is under 14 years the husband or wife of the accused will be compelled to testify if called as a witness for the Crown.

—Loansharking — the practice of lending money at exorbitant rates — will become a criminal offence if interest rates exceed 60 per cent yearly. The criminal rate includes both interest and all related charges that may be applied to a loan or credit purchase. Maximum penalty for an offence would be five years in prison. This change is in line with provincial statutes already on the books. A change will also be made to the Borrowers and Depositors Protection Act to deal with rates that are excessive but less than the "criminal" rate of 60 per cent per annum.

—Solicitor-Client Rights: Documents belonging to a client that are seized from a lawyer's office by search warrant are to be referred to the court in a sealed package to determinee whether police should be allowed to examine them.

—Drug addicts: Convicted addicts may be transferred to a treatment centre while awaiting trial, as part of a probation ruling, or to serve their sentences.

—Trial delays: Summary conviction offences must be brought to trial within six months of an accused's first appearance in court.

—Wash trading: Wash traders — persons who buy and sell stocks to give the public impression that a stock is being actively traded — will have to prove they have not engaged in the practice to profit financially from the impression that the stock was a good seller.

—Abuse of process: Crown attorneys who delay criminal proceedings if they are not ready to prosecute an accused person will have to get the written consent of a provincial attorney-general, or his deputy in some cases, to get the proceedings reinstituted following "a stay, a dismissal or a discharge." The change is designed to prevent delays that can keep an accused person waiting many months for a trial.

—Hostage taking: The public wants adequate deterrents against this crime that is "achieving growing prominence," a department of justice statement said.

Distribution of pornography involving children will be a separate indictable offence with the same penalties as for production or circulation of porn, 10 years or $100,000 fine.

Postal Knock

OTTAWA (CP) — Marion Knight knew there was something strange the minute she saw the package the postman dropped off at her house.

"It looked as though it had been opened a dozen times," she said.

Instead of finding a jumpsuit for her son's third birthday from her sister-in-law in Calgary, Mrs. Knight found a piece of paper with an obscene expression printed in red pencil.

Dave Carter, regional public relations director for the post office, called the incident "absolutely despicable."

ICBC Called Just a Mirror

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president and chief executive officer of the Royal Insurance Co. of Canada says that a statement by Pat McGeer that the Insurance Corporation of British Columbia's improved economic condition reflects good management is inaccurate.

Speaking at the annual conference of the Insurance Agents' Association of B.C., Alan Horsford said Monday that the corporation's recent economic success described by McGeer, minister responsible for ICBC, only mirrors an improvement trend in the insurance business across North America.

Horsford said that ICBC could become an efficient corporation only if it competed with the private sector.

The problem with a government monopoly, he said, is that it sets its rates arbitrarily. As a result, he said, the New Democratic Party's rates were too low and Social Credit's rates are too high.

"Only the marketplace can determine the true price," he said.

Horsford said his company's attempt to get back into the market is an encouraging start, but added that Royal should be allowed to compete with ICBC on an equal basis.

Horsford denied charges that private insurance would deal only with good-risk customers if allowed back into the market.

Royal would be willing to split the high-risk customers with ICBC, he said.

Horsford said the insurance market for 1978 is uncertain, partly because of the policies of the federal anti-inflation board

Some Tall Tales of the Sea Will Go Back a Long Way

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

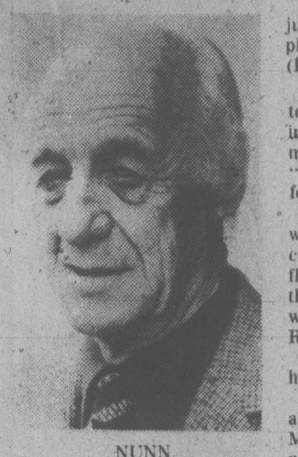
To retired sea captain W.R. Nunn of 964 Heywood the picture at the right, taken in the Inner Harbor in 1918, is a reminder of the days he first began to develop his sea legs.

Nunn (indicated by the arrow) was then a member of the Boys Naval Brigade which had been formed by the Victoria branch of the Navy League of Canada that year.

The ship was the SS Algerine, which had belonged to the Royal Canadian Navy and was being used as a salvage vessel in those days.

Nunn recalls how he and the other 50 members of the youthful brigade would learn every inch of the Algerine and the cruiser HMCS Rainbow, the RCN's first such ship.

"Our biggest thrill, though, was when we used to go to Nanaimo in the minesweepers Thiepval and Armentieres," he recalls. "They were what were called village class minesweepers. They came around through the Panama Canal after the First World War."



NUNN
... memories rekindled

Nunn, 74, vividly remembers one trip they made to Nanaimo when they provided a firing party for the funeral of the up-Island city's mayor.

The brigade, forerunner of today's Rainbow Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps, was run by a Lieut. Hotham. Two of the brigade's instructors were a CPO Crozier, extreme left, and LS George Hodlen, both of the RCN.

Nunn remembers the discipline they learned. "It was just after the war and discipline was one of the things he (Hotham) really enjoyed."

Just like the sea cadets of today, the brigade took part in many parades, Nunn remembers. The training was "mostly knots and splices, foot drill and boat pulling."

Nunn was coxswain of the whaler, which along with a cutter, formed the brigade's fleet. He also learned to sail the dinghy owned by Hotham, who was a member of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

He still remembers the day he joined up.

"They used to have a place at Broad and Fort where McGill and Orme is today. I went down one night with a friend and went back home wearing a uniform. My mother wondered what was going on."

With the marine influence of the brigade and its nautical training, Nunn waited two years with the brigade and then joined up for four years' training with the Canadian merchant marine.

He served on a variety of vessels until the Second World War when he joined the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve, serving in such ships as the first corvette Windflower, the minesweepers Nootka and Noranda, as well as the Prince Henry.

Nunn and others who had their first taste of sea life during the 60 years the corps has been operating are looking forward to swapping tales of the old times when they attend special homecoming events this year to mark the anniversary.

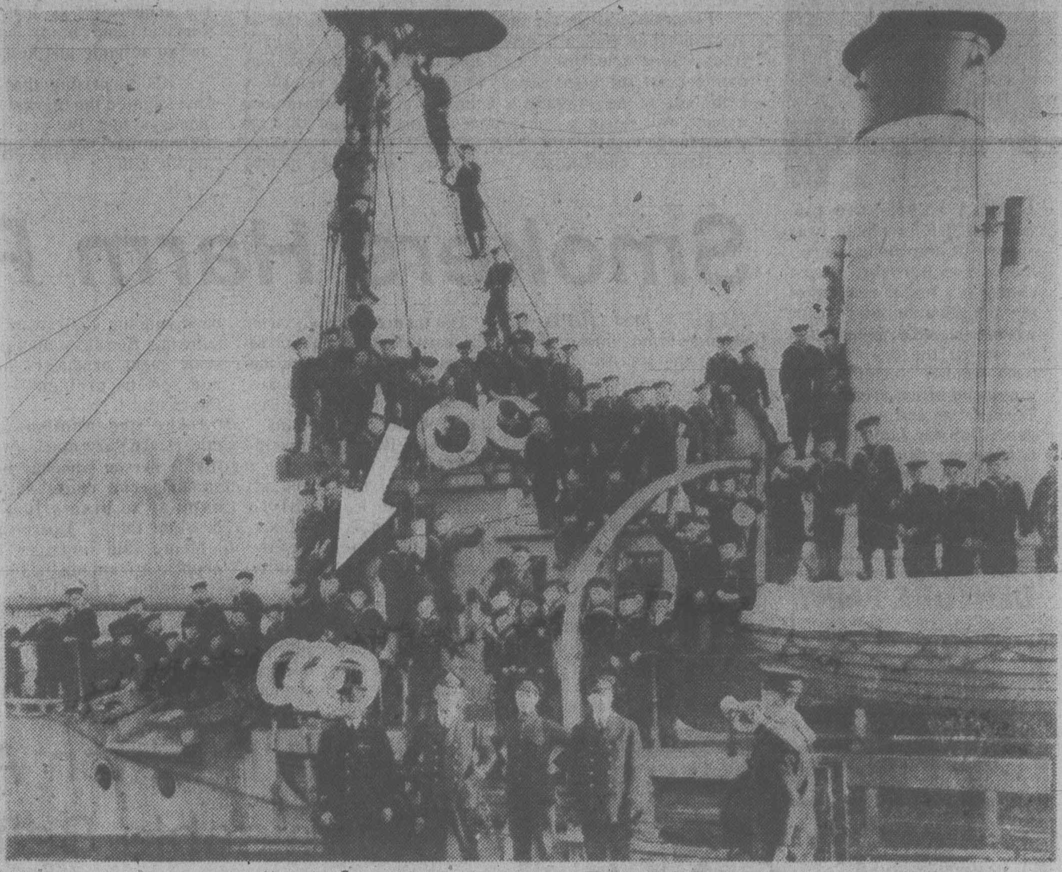
Among those Nunn remembers are Capt. Ron Newell, the former harbormaster, and Johnnie Francois, another master mariner.

Nunn says he'll skip the reception and dance to be held Saturday, June 3, at the CPO's mess in CFB Esquimalt.

"I don't dance and, strangely enough for an old sailor, I don't drink much," he explains.

He'll be at Rainbow's headquarters the next day, however, to watch the sea cadets strut at this year's annual inspection which begins at 1 p.m.

He'll stay for the open house that follows to swap memories with his former chums and gaze at artifacts belonging to the past.



Members of Boys Naval Brigade aboard Navy's SS Algerine in 1918

Mrs. J.A. Rutherford of 938 Selkirk, member of the homecoming committee, says she and her co-workers expect a big turnout, including officers and cadets who down through the years have served with Rainbow Corps. and the Patricia Dufour Navy League Wrenette Corps.

But the real nostalgia will be for Nunn and those who were there at the beginning.

"We used to have fun. It was something worthwhile," he says. "They were your friends, a good bunch of fellows."

Saanich Connection Road to Ruin: Council

Saanich council Monday night reaffirmed its opposition to the provincial highways ministry's proposal for a major highway connector between the Patricia Bay Highway and north Quadra.

The ministry sees the route as part of an essential east-west artery linking Roy Road, Vanalman and Beckwith, via an overpass spanning the Pat Bay Highway.

But several council members, community associations and individual residents view it as an environmental threat.

They fear it will carve a disruptive 80-foot swath through existing and planned residential neighborhoods, and in the longer term there is also concern that the highway could menace the pastoral Blenkinsop Valley.

One concerned resident warned council Monday night that the proposed right-of-way is a gigantic arrow pointed at the heart of the valley.

Council instructed Mayor Mel Couvelier to make the Saanich position clear to the ministry, and also to invite Highways Minister Alex Fraser or his delegated representatives to a special meeting to discuss the matter.

The municipality has been told by the ministry that provincial approval of a bylaw rezoning the north Quadra area to a large-lot single-family subdivision pattern has been stalled because Saanich has made no provision to protect the right-of-way.

But Ald. John Mika assured council the decision was nothing more than "a letter from one bureaucrat to another bureaucrat," and said the minister himself knew nothing about the matter.

In other business, council confirmed its stand opposing the intrusion of any further light industrial development in the Vanalman-Glanford area of Royal Oak.

It was agreed that the Capital Region Board be asked to change the area's designation in the official regional plan from industrial to urban (mixed residential).

But aldermen took no specific action on the first rezoning application since the proposal for a Royal Oak industrial park was billed in late March.

Oak Properties Ltd. wants council to rezone a 21.5-acre property on Mann Avenue, within the boundaries of the originally proposed industrial zone, to mixed residential use.

Ald. Ian Cass said a special meeting of council's lands, planning and housing committee should be called to draft an over-all policy for the whole Vanalman-Glanford area, so that such applications are not considered in a piecemeal manner.

TOWN TALK

It isn't often a person gets one up on the old moneymonger himself, Gordon Sinclair.

But former Times managing editor Archie Wills thinks he has.

Appearing on CBC's Front Page Challenge Monday night, Wills got into a friendly argument with Sinclair over what CPR ship the King and Queen sailed on when they came to Canada in 1939.

Empress of Japan, Sinclair said. He should know. He covered the Royal Tour for the Toronto Star.

Not so, said the venerable 85-year-old Wills. It was the Empress of Australia. He should know, too. He covered the tour for the Victoria Times.

Moderator Fred Davis suggested a remedy — put up or ...

"How much?" he asked Sinclair.

"A dollar," Sinclair replied.

"I'll take it," Wills shot back. "And then I'll frame it."

Said Wills today, "I know I'm right. I was there on the ship.

"I'm hopeful I'll get the buck. It's not that it means so much, but it's the symbol. It's a very important dollar."

More than 30 pounds of west coast salmon topped the bill of fare in the sergeants' mess of the Royal Marines barracks in Deal recently, thanks to the generosity of Beau Tracey.

Now 77, he travelled from Victoria to England to gather in Dover and Deal with other survivors of the St. George's Day raid on Zeebrugge in 1918.

The raid, which bottled up German U-boats, was carried out by members of the Royal Navy and Royal Marines, all of whom were trained at Deal.

Tracey was a Royal Marine, emigrating to Canada in the 1920s. One of the youngest survivors, he was 16 at the time of the raid, having forged his age on enlisting.

Commemorative parades at Zeebrugge brought back reminders of the 1918 raid in which no less than 11 Victoria Crosses, 21 Distinguished Service Orders and 29 Distinguished Service Crosses were won. In all, there were 500 gallantry awards.

For any non-believers who thought CBC would never get around to building a television station in Victoria — the project finally began Monday.

Bulldozers broke the earth for the first phase of construction of the CBC's $7 million venture. The project is expected to provide employment for 40 to 50 construction workers.

Plans for the building have been delayed several times; first when the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission took longer than expected to approve licensing, then while CBC director Len Lauk pondered on the proper architectural design to fit in with the surrounding landscape.

And for a while it looked as if the proposed building wouldn't survive a $30 million CBC corporate budget cut, but it pulled through.

If everything goes well the station, located behind Victoria Press on Kings and Blanshard, should be finished by the end of next year.

Victoria firefighters got a scare Saturday when a caller alerted them to smoke coming from the new warehouse at Ogden Point, site of last year's monster blaze.

Deputy chief Mike Heppell, however, said the smoke arose from paper wrapping being burned by warehouse staff.

The fire was controlled, but nonetheless illegal, pointed out Heppell.

Suicide is the second leading cause of death between the ages of 15 and 34 (after car accidents) and the fourth leading cause of death between 35 and 54 years of age (after car accidents, cancer and heart disease).

Faced with such sobering statistics, NEED, Victoria's Crisis Line, has produced a pamphlet on the subject outlining what you can do about it.

Bobbi Etter, executive director of Crisis Line, says the material is written for the lay person to help him deal with someone who is suicidal by pointing out what clues to look for, how to talk to the person and what agencies in Greater Victoria can help a suicidal person.

The pamphlet, funded by the Rotary Club of Saanich, is now available free to anyone who calls the NEED office at 386-6328.

Drinking boaters will be able to get an early start now that liquor control and licensing regulations have been amended for the running of marina pubs.

Vic Woodland, general manager of the liquor control and licensing branch, reports liquor will be sold from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. with a maximum of 14 hours a day, except Sundays.

Who said you have to wait for the sun to go over the yard arm before you first start quenching your thirst?

AirWest Site Okayed

AirWest Airlines Ltd. finally got its planned cross-harbor move off the ground today when Victoria city council's planning committee approved the relocation.

Earlier this year City Hall shot down AirWest's plans because the airline had proposed more than doubling the size of its operating base in moving.

Under the approved plan, AirWest's relocated terminal will be substantially the same as its present one.

The company plans to move the existing building and wharfage to the new site.

The airline has been given until May 14 to move from its current location on the south side of the Inner Harbor to the old Ocean Cement site.

Consulting engineer Mike Siska, of Willis, Cunliffe, Tait and Company Ltd., told the planning committee that construction would begin this week on the new facility.

The city told Siska AirWest could either pay $1,000 a month during the temporary two-year lease or have appraisers from Vancouver recommend a rental fee. City manager Jim Bramley said an appraisal would probably cost the company more.

"This is just a nominal rental for this temporary period," said Bramley.

AirWest is paying about $6,000 a year at its present location.

AirWest's only difficulties in getting its latest plans approved came over a refuelling proposal. Siska had informed the committee the company wanted to park a gasoline truck on the site to refuel the planes at dockside.

Fire Chief Eric Simmons, however, rejected that proposal, saying that a buried fuel tank was necessary.

He said airplane fuel is highly volatile and it would be extremely unsafe to pump it directly from a truck into the aircraft.

STAVDAL EXEMPT FROM UNION

A Canadian Union of Public Employees' local representing Greater Victoria School District inside workers has lost a battle to have the district's community relations co-ordinator included in the union.

The Labor Relations Board has ruled that Bill Stavdal should be exempt from membership in Local 947, which applied more than a year ago to have Stavdal and two other district supervisors included in the union.

The LRB had earlier rejected the local's request in the other two cases.

Senior Discount 'Not Practical' - Businessmen

Victoria Ald. Robin Blencoe was accused today of ignoring social realities and lacking business sense in his call for a 10-per-cent discount for senior citizens on goods and services.

Representatives of the Victoria business community agreed that helping those in need was a good thing but giving a blanket discount to the elderly just isn't practical.

For one thing, they said, there are wealthy senior citizens just as there are poor young people and it makes no sense to lump all the elderly in the needy bracket. Also, generally speaking, businesses don't have a 10-per-cent profit margin and therefore aren't in a position to give that much of a cut, they added.

Blencoe suggested the discount Monday in a letter to all taxi companies, the restaurant association, the Downtown Business Association, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and all major department stores.

There are some small, women's apparel stores in Victoria which have been granting a 10-per-cent reduction for senior citizens for several years.

One is the Picadilly Shoppe at 1017 Government which has had the price cut for four years.

Store manager Catherine Phillips said today store owners Jack Barraclough and his wife dropped the prices to the elderly because they wanted to do something about inflation and its effect on the senior citizens.

The store also froze its prices for an 18-month period for the same reason.

Mrs. Phillips said it was Barraclough's hope that other stores would follow suit.

At least two other stores do offer the discounts — Roy Imports in the James Bay Square and E.M. Carter Ladies Wear, 230 Menzies.

Margot Carter, owner of the latter store, said she didn't think the bigger department stores would go for the idea.

"They are more out for profit and they have a bigger overhead," she said, adding they don't operate at the close personal level that the smaller stores do.

Derek Denny, partner in Standard Furniture, 737 Yates, said Blencoe's suggestion was "pie-in-the-sky" and showed that the alderman realy doesnt have much business sense.

"It's a vote-geting thing," Denny said.

"Why pick out the elderly? There are a lot of wealthy elderly in the city just as there are a lot of poor young people."

He said stores don't make such large profits that they can afford to give a 10-per-cent blanket reduction.

Denny said coming out against such a proposal makes store owners look like ogres but he added that some better method has to be found to see that those who have money contribute to those who are not so well off in our society.

John Ansell, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, said he gets upset when people lump all those in a certain age group into the same financial bracket.

Ansell said it is "like arguing against motherhood" to talk against a plan to help those in need. But he said any such proposal should be examined very closely to make sure that it is equitable."

Bud MacLean, president of the Victoria Taxi Owners Asociation, said it is council's fault that the taxi rates in the city are as high as they are.

He said the licence fee has gone up nearly 500 per cent in two years — from $31.50 a year in 1976 to $70 in 1977 and $140 this year.

Also, he said, the city has no restrictions on taxi licences and as a result there are too many cabs in the city.

"There is not enough butter for the bread," MacLean said.

Inquest Starts On Thursday In Fire Deaths

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre has ordered an inquest into the deaths of Patrick Jackson, 31, his common-law wife, Catherine Dick, 20, and their infant son Anthony, who perished Sunday in a house fire at 840 Bay.

The inquest will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at McCall Brothers funeral home, 1400 Vancouver.

Meanwhile, Victoria firemen continue their investigation.

Deputy Chief Mike Heppell said today investigators have determined the blaze started under a wooden table near the west wall of the living room in the two-storey house.

The cause isn't known but, Heppell said, there are two possibilities — either children playing with matches or careless smoking.

He said fire spread so rapidly through the 72-year-old tinder-dry structure that the dead couple had little chance to escape. The woman and child were found on the floor in the living room while Jackson's body was found on the floor in the kitchen.

Two men and two children got out of the house, the men by jumping out of a second-floor window. A passer-by snatched a six-month-old child off the burning balcony and the couple's four-year-old son, Gerald Stephen Dick, ran out the door himself.

Heppell said the boy told police later his father had screamed at him to run outside.

Test Ship Arriving

The advanced missile test ship USS Norton Sound will arrive at the dockyard of CFB Esquimalt 9 a.m. Wednesday.

She will be open to the public from 1:30 to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

The 543-foot vessel is under the command of Cmdr. Thomas J. Loftus USN and has a complement of 22 officers and 324 men.

She works out of Port Hueneme, Calif.

Host ships for the Norton Sound while she is in Esquimalt will be the destroyer HMCS Mackenzie.

The Norton Sound leaves Esquimalt 10 a.m. Monday.

INSURANCE. . .MOROCCO STYLE

MARRAKECH, Morocco (CP) — Take crushed shells, mix well with garlic peels, snake skins and seaweed, garnish with shavings of donkeys' feet, and what do you have? Chakour Abdelmoula says a sprinkling of this mixture in the fire each evening will protect your house from evil spirits.

From his stall in the heart of the maze-like bazaar at Marrakech, in central Morocco, Abdelmoula does a steady trade selling dried mice, bats and lizards to superstitious members of the community, who consider the relatively high cost of an alligator's head or a dried chameleon money well spent as insurance against things that go bump in the night.

Many of Abdelmoula's customers come from nearby villages; spirits are knwwn to avoid the bright lights of the city and the more mischievous ones seem to like nothing better than knocking down a freshly built haystack or scaring off a few sheep.

Farmers have traditionally accepted interference from the underworld as just another problem in the fight for survival, and many city dwellers keep a dried lizard or two at home just in case.

It's surprising that no enterprising businessman has investigated the market which may have developed here for donkeys' feet. But you may yet see them at the local store, vacuum packed, and squeezed between the floor polish and the fly-killer.

Smokers Harm Plants?

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Gardeners who smoke risk stunting the growth of their plants and causing the leaves to pucker, researchers at Mississippi State University warned Thursday.

Pathologists at the university said gardeners who smoke cigarettes and cigars can spread a plant virus when handling plants.

Dr. William Moore of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service in Starkville said tobacco mosiac virus is easily transmitted on contact from the gardener who smokes.

"The tobacco mosiac virus is usually found in about 60 per cent of cigarettes and the home gardener that smokes can easily pick up the virus and transmit it to plants," Moore said in a telephone interview.

Moore said the virus, although not harmful to humans, often is not taken out of the tobacco before being rolled into cigarettes and cigars.

He said scientists have known about the damage smokers can do to plants for some time, but many gardeners were unaware they could be damaging their work by smoking. He said some large-scale plant producers have had serious problems with the virus.

"The greenhouse producers are very much aware that a person who has been smoking can cause serious damage to plants just by brushing them," Moore said.

Moore said tomatoes and peppers are among the plants susceptible to the virus.

Dr. W.W. Hare, a pathologist with the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station at Mississippi State, said, however, there are a number of ways to prevent smokers from transmitting the virus — including the smoker dipping his hands in milk.

"We found that the proteins in the milk would inactivate the virus," he said. "The milk keep the virus from being transmitted. It works when you get the milk between the source of the virus and the plant."

"Some large producers just sit a bucket of milk out in the field and the workers who smoke dip their hands in the bucket several times during the day," he said.

Latest Fashion Accessory: Formidable Belt-Harness

NEW YORK (AP) — What is seven inches wide, made of black leather with shiny buckles and cinched around the waist?

Answer: The latest fashion accessory by Richard Assatly—a formidable belt-harness, worn with dresses, skirts and pants.

It is a collection in which the exaggerated accessory makes the ensemble, for better or worse. It is often combined with black head shrouds, black wrap-around sun glasses and black high-heeled boots.

The big bad belt adds an Inquisitorial air to everything from tough-looking black leather suits, to black dresses slashed thigh-high to pretty flowing print jerseys and chiffons.

Aside from the big belt, which came in various colors, fabrics and a vinyl-like substance, Assatly emphasizes the waist with elegant sashes, cummerbunds and stringlike belts.

The collection has a wealth of full, rich, comfortable daytime clothes for fall: big pleated skirts with loose jackets and long, loose coats.

Printed woolen jerseys are worn with short leather vests that are sculptured and lacy. Other dresses are long, straight and simple in black and solid rust or purple.

There's a spray of prettily draped black cocktail dresses. The evening clothes are long, simple and elegantly draped—clinging without being tight.

The styles are red, purple, maroon, and smokey green with modest contrasting cummerbunds, dolman sleeves and high slits in graceful skirts.

CHOLERA DROPS

GENEVA (Reuter) — The World Health Organization reports that 7,000 fewer cases of cholera were reported in the world in 1977. However, 34 countries reported outbreaks of the disease in 1977, compared with 25 in 1976 and 29 in 1975. The total number of cases reported in 1977 was 58,661, compared with 65,734 in 1976 and 90,467 in 1975.

Gritty Ex-Nurse True First Lady

Corrine Tench honored

Corrine Tench has been named First Lady of the Year by City Council of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

The honor was conferred at a Founder's Day gathering in the Garth Home Achievement Centre, last Saturday night..

Sponsored by local chapters through the city council, it is specifically planned to focus attention on a woman in the community who is making an outstanding contribution in her chosen field.

Each year names and qualifications are submitted to the membership through a nominating committee and the person to be honored is chosen by secret ballot.

There is no doubt Corrine Tench's qualifications are outstanding.

She is respected and admired for the way she has fought back to normal living after an attack that produced the same effect as a major stroke and for her untiring efforts to help other stroke victims.

Also for the many innovative projects she initiated during her active years as a registered nurse.

Born Corinne Jefferson in 1932, over in North Vancouver, she graduated as a nurse from St. Paul's Hospital in 1953.

Marriage and babies followed soon after and for a few years the energetic young woman devoted most of her time to a young family.

Eventually, when husband Ronald was transferred to this city, she went back to nursing at St. Joseph's Hospital (now Victoria General) where she was instrumental in setting up that hospital's first coronary care unit, and became that unit's head nurse.

During this period she also travelled to Merritt, B.C., to conduct a pilot cardiac crisis course at the 45-bed Nicola Valley General Hospital.

The course was designed to demonstrate sophisticated critical-care equipment and to get the message across that continual medical education, tailored to meet each community's special needs, was required.

"I went up there and lectured three hours in the morning and another three hours at night, for a week, to put that pilot project over," Corinne remembers.

So much interest was generated that doctors in the area cancelled surgery and attended the lectures in a group.

Work at "St. Jo's" and in the lecture field continued until 1973 when Corinne was suddenly stricken with a rare vascular disease, diagnosed as a narrowed vertabrae artery, that left her completely paralyzed.

"I was very, very fit before that attack," she says. "I took lots of exercise, I swam as many as three times a week and I was in really good condition . . . if I hadn't been I would not be here now to tell the story."

Today, in her mid-40s, her left side is back to normal, her right side (and she was right-handed) is still paralyzed.

She has a slight hesitancy in her speech, can ease slowly from wheelchair to couch or chesterfield and can walk with a leg brace and specially-constructed cane.

Through pure grit and determination Corinne has learned to adapt and to "live with" her handicap.

In the Tench's attractive home on Camrose Crescent she does the cooking, washing and the housework with an assist once every two weeks from a housekeeper.

She has learned to type all over again "and I do believe I'm better now, with one hand, than I used to be with two."

All her energies outside the Camrose Crescent place are geared to improving conditions for the handicapped — especially stroke victims — and in helping them experience as near-normal living as possible.

As a board member of Juan de Fuca Hospital Society she is vitally interested in proposed expansion in the intermediate-care field.

Transportation, aging, health and attendant problems are uppermost in her mind as a member of the Social Planning and Review Council of British Columbia (SPAR), a co-ordinated group of associations that work with, and for, the disabled and the handicapped.

Through membership in the Victoria Branch of the Canadian Consumers Association, she hopes "eventually" to see an effort made to provide more outlets for all supportive devices and physical appliances needed to assist stroke victims and other handicapped persons, as well as a more moderate price range for these very necessary "helps."

As a volunteer in extended-care hospitals in this area she meets with patients, sometimes twice a week, to talk to them, teach them yoga and slow wheelchair exercises.

Another project sees her lecturing on special needs and problems of stroke victims to student nurses, hospital workers, nurses' aides and interested women's groups.

Whenever she can she gets into the pool at the YM-WYCA and exercises with a one-arm stroke.

All this, she tells you, would be impossible without the complete support of her husband Ron, the encouragement of her mother Della (Jefferson) McGregor, a registered nurse, and the devotion of a group of understanding friends.

"As you realize, I cannot drive now," she reminds you, "and it is these friends who take turns at chauffeuring me whenever and wherever I wish."

She also speaks with pride of one son and two daughters (all three grown up now) and of two grandchildren.

There is no doubt that Corinne Tench, through her courage, determination and by example, has given encouragement to the handicapped with whom she has come in contact and also to others who have only heard her story.

Her contributions are immeasurable and she has opened the door for many, many persons to follow.

COOL IDEA BY CLUB

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — An emergency assistance program, designed to provide on-the-spot medical information for rescue services, is being introduced by the Barrie Quota Club.

The club is recommmending that a form with information about medical problems, physician's phone number and those to be called in emergencies, be placed in a plastic vial and taped to the underside of the upper right-hand shelf of an individual's refrigerator.

In this way, needed information can be obtained quickly by those at the scene of an emergency, says Nancy Bumstead, the club's service chairman.

Growing Spuds Easy Way

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS
...it tells you how

In the following article, Mother Earth reader Dorothy Johns explains an easy way for everyone to raise potatoes.

Almost everone likes potatoes, but a lot of folks say they have trouble raising spuds. After several years of using my method, though, it's a safe bet when I say that it doesn't matter where you live nor what kind of soil (even if it's rocky old hardpan) you have to work with. I'll bet you can still raise all the "no-work, no-care, trouble-free" potatoes your family can eat.

How, you may well ask, is this possible? The answer is simple. Grow those potatoes in mulch, and lots of it.

It doesn't seem to matter what kind of mulch you use, either. I've tried pine needles, sawdust, leaves, moldy hay and straw so far, and they've all produced the same excellent results.

It's all right to plow, fertilize or otherwise work the earth when you raise potatoes with this method, but it is not really necessary. I like to just scratch my rows slightly into the earth with a hoe, drop in my cut potatoes, and then cover the entire bed with six to eight inches of mulch.

The rows should be 12 to 15 inches apart, each piece of potato must — of course — contain at least one or two "eyes" and the chunks of seed stock are best spaced about a foot apart. And when I say to cover the bed with mulch, I mean just that — no dirt at all need be raked over the pieces of potato.

Once the sprouts are up about four inches, you may (if you didn't work manure into the plot before the potatoes were planted) want to add a balanced fertilizer to the bed. But that's about all the care this section of the garden should need all the way through to harvest time. I doubt that you'll even have any insect problems.

Curious gardeners and children will enjoy lifting the mulch occasionally throughout the growing season to see the little sections of cut spuds multiply and grow into big, whole potatoes. But the real fun takes place once the vines have died and it's time to gather the harvest. No laborious digging is necessary. Just pull the mulch back with a rake and pick up the clean, blemish-free potatoes by the handful!

Are you interested in making a little money on the side? If so, raising bees may be just the thing for you! dear abby

DEAR ABBY: A classmate of mine who lives down the block is slowly driving me up a wall. Here's how it all started:

A few months ago we both started taking an extension course in human behavior at a nearby university. When it came time to pick topics for term papers, this guy I know picked the subject of death. Ever since then I've had it up to my ears with questions like, "Shirley, would you rather die in a plane crash or in an auto accident?" Or, "Would you rather drown or burn to death?"

He's a nice guy, but he has become so preoccupied with death that he's driving me crazy. Every time I see him, he starts in with these depressing questions about death. I've tried avoiding him, but unless I drop the course (which is almost over), it's going to be impossible.

What should I do? I feel like telling him to lease a hearse and leave town. SHIRLEY.

DEAR SHIRLEY: Tell your friend that you'd rather die by drowning, accident or fire than be bored to death. And he is becoming a collossal bore.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, living on a fixed and very limited income. I have a neighbor who is always hounding me to buy raffle tickets, greeting cards, cosmetics, etc.

I can't afford to buy things I neither want nor need, although I've bought a few things just to get rid of her.

Please help me. I am running out of excuses, and she is very persistent. SUMMERVILLE.

DEAR SUMMERVILLE: As long as you offer excuses instead of reasons, your neighbor will continue to hound you. Simply tell her that you can't afford it, and that will be the end of it.

DEAR ABBY: I know you hear from plenty of children who wish their parents wouldn't interfere in their lives so much, but what do you think of parents who expect their children who have left the nest to call and write, but who never phone their children or scribble a note to find out how the children are doing?

I am constantly in touch with my parents, as are my older brothers and sisters, yet we feel rather hurt that they don't, on occasion, contact us. It would be nice to think that maybe they wonder how we weathered the last crisis or how the new job is going. Just because we've grown up and out of their hair shouldn't mean that we've also gone out of their thoughts. I'm always hearing how they're doing when I call, but seldom do I get a thoughtful, "How's everything going with you?" I'd sure appreciate your thoughts on this. SET ADRIFT.

DEAR SET: Are you putting me on? Many more children who have flown the nest neglect their parents than the other way around. Stop sulking in silence. Speak up. To THEM — not to me!

Tendency to Arthritis

By L. L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Is it possible to learn if I have a tendency to develop arthritis? I'm 41 years old and have no symptoms, but I'm concerned because I watch older members of my family suffer so much. — Mr. H.P.

Dear Mr. P.:

In recent years, there has been an explosion of complex tests that have been of great value in the study of early arthritis. Many of the symptoms of various forms of arthritis so closely resemble each other that in the early stages the diagnosis by examination alone can be difficult.

The science of immunology has attracted many doctors who are intensively studying "auto-antibodies" in the blood of people with early and advanced rhematic disorders. The tests are so highly sensitive and complex that only highly skilled specialists in rhematic diseases must interpret them.

The purpose of the tests is to differentiate between the various types of arthritis, in the hope that early recognition and early treatment may ward off the progression of some of the forms of arthritis.

My son has a high-pitched voice. He is 14 years old and is becoming more and more embarrassed by it. Up until what age can we still hope that his voice will become deeper? — Mrs. F.B.

Dear Mrs. B.:

It is not unusual for a 14-year-old boy to continue to have a high-pitched voice which, medically, is known as "dysphonia puberum." As you know, the child-like falsetto voice normally falls at puberty and becomes lower in range.

When it persists, boys do become embarrassed and often are the butt of unkindness from their schoolmates. It is for this reason that speech instruction and speech re-education should be started before it becomes a psychological problem. Most hospitals, colleges and universities have excellent departments for speech therapy.

A variety of techniques used by speech therapists can help to speed up the onset of a deeper voice. Rarely is there a medical or laryngeal problem to account for this delay. Nevertheless, examination of the larynx by an ear, nose and throat specialist should rule out any possibility of an underlying condition. In some instances, endocrine studies are made and if any such condition exists, the use of hormones is tried, to replenish a deficiency.

At your son's age, social contacts are most important. He should be encouraged to continue to make them, rather than to isolate himself, which so frequently happens. You should seek advice now, even though the likelihood is great that he will outgrow his immature voice with time.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH . . . No child has ever been injured or killed with a gun that was really unloaded and safely put away.

When an accident occurs, the victim is often not able to provide the attending doctor with imporant personal health data. To correct this situation, a pocket-sized Emergency Medical Card is now available.

This small card, which comes in a plastic cover, provides space for the name and address of the bearer, his religion, language and whom to call in an emergency. In addition, the name, address and telephone number of the bearer's regular doctor can be indicated.

Every member of your family should carry such a card, complete with his or her personal health information.

DECISION

Ottawa, April 21, 1978

Following a Public Hearing commencing February 21, 1978 in Victoria, British Columbia, the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission announces the following decision effective forthwith.

Decision CRTC 78-324
YOUBOU, BRITISH COLUMBIA
—771502200
Youbou Television Ltd.

Application to amend its cable television broadcasting licence for Youbou, British Columbia as follows:

—to change the location of its local head-end.

Basic Service (Channels 2 to 13)

—to add the reception and distribution of KVOS-TV (IND) Bellingham, Washington on channel 12.

FM Service

—to add the reception and distribution of CBU-FM, CBUF-FM, CFRO-FM, CKLG-FM and CHQM-FM Vancouver, British Columbia; KISM and KERI Bellingham, KBIQ Edmonds, KUOW Seattle, Washington and CFMI-FM New Westminster, British Columbia.

Fees	Present Max.	Proposed Max. Fees
Installation fee	$15.00	$25.00
Monthly fee	$ 6.00	$ 6.50

The above are maximum fees; however, the applicant proposes special fees and these are detailed in the application.

Decision: APPROVED

With respect to the distribution of KVOS-TV Bellingham, in line with its continuing concern about the viability of the Canadian broadcasting service, the Commission is currently reviewing the carriage by cable television systems of U.S. stations engaged in the solicitation of advertising in Canadian markets. Pending completion of its review, the Commission APPROVES the carriage of KVOS-TV for the duration of the current licence, expiring March 31, 1979.

Subseqent to the February 21, 1978 Public Hearing, for technical reasons, the licensee withdrew its proposal to add the carriage of CFRO-FM Vancouver and indicated that, in accordance with the cable television regulations, it will substitute the carriage of CKO-FM-4. The Commission APPROVES the substitution.

In approving the proposed increases in installation and monthly subscriber fees, the Commission has taken into account the size of the system, the low subscriber density in its service area and the improvements to the service proposed by the licensee.

Swinging Divorce

SURREY — Cathy Lenz got her divorce, but she didn't go home to mope.

She celebrated instead with more than 200 guests and a cake decorated just for the occasion.

The divorce party, held in a community hall rented for $135, was a bring-your-own-bottle affair with disco music for dancing. Single men among the crowd identified themselves with garter-like armbands, while single women wore carnations in their hair.

Cathy said her ex-husband, whom she married in 1975, would have been welcomed had he decided to show up.

Kefauver Bribes Claimed

CHICAGO — Bobby Baker, the one-time aide of U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson who was convicted of influence peddling, claims the late Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee took bribes in money and sexual favors.

Writing in the June issue of Playboy Magazine with journalist Larry King, Baker says Kefauver "was among those senators who willingly put themselves up for sale; he didn't particularly care whether he was paid in coin or women."

The Dallas Cowboy franchise in the National Football League, Baker said in his article, may have been bought through a $25,000 bribe to Kefauver, who was the running mate of Democratic presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson in 1956.

"A group of Texans badly wanted to gain a profitable NFL franchise for Dallas," Baker wrote.

But the group ran into opposition from Washington Redskins owner Preston Marshall.

Baker said Kefauver's subcommittee was about to consider whether Marshall held an illegal monopoly through his Redskin Television Network.

Baker said a "fellow reveller" at a party approached him and said, "Bobby, I've got to lock up that damn football franchise for Texas."

Baker said he told the courier to see Kefauver. He said the task would require money. Later, the courier returned with a briefcase containing $25,000, which Baker said he delivered to "a Kefauver staff man in his committee office." Kefauver's subcommittee ruled against Marshall.

Code Holds True for Traded Spy

WASHINGTON — Robert Glenn Thompson, key to the latest East-West spy swap, knows now it is true that his kind are not left to rot in prison.

In spy-filled Germany, intelligence agents say privately that a promise to be taken care of is part of the contract. Both sides, the agents say, try to honor the code.

In Thompson's case the catalyst was Israel's eagerness to have a young, injured pilot freed from communist Mozambique.

Thompson's freedom was demanded by the other side as the price for the return of 24-year-old Miron Marcus. Thompson has been in U.S. prisons for the last 13 years after his conviction as a Russian spy.

East Germany, of all the communist bloc countries in Eastern Europe, has perhaps the greatest influence on the regime that succeeded Portuguese rule in Mozambique. From the start, East Germany recognized and supported rebel forces there.

Enter Wolfgang Vogel, the East German lawyer and master dealer in prisoners and spies.

The Israelis approached Vogel directly, asking what could be done.

According to a source, who asked not to be identified, Vogel said Marcus could be freed, but that Thompson must be part of the bargain.

The source said the American government did not object but wondered what it would get in return. It was then, the source said, that Vogel sweetened the pot with 23-year-old Alan Van Norman of Minden, Minn.

Vogel has been involved in this kind of swap since he helped arrange the 1962 Berlin exchange of downed pilot Francis Gary Powers.

GARDENING

The Grass Can be Greener

Grass problems seem to be the home gardener's chief worry each year as April comes to an end. There is a cause for each problem, and the removal of that cause is the only permanent solution.

Frequently the problem goes back to the seed. It may not have been the correct mixture for the local climate, or it consisted of grasses not suited to the soil, or to the amount of sun or shade in the seeded area.

The roots of trees planted within the grassed area may be depleting the soil of nutrients needed by the grass plants, or the roots of nearby trees or shrubs have invaded the area to obtain the fertilizer and water applied to the grass.

The use of various types of machines for spreading fertilizer can cause grass problems. A fertilizer spreader is useful on a half acre of grass, but was never intended to give equal distribution on the pocket-handkerchief square on the front end of an average city lot.

Frequent adjustment, and thorough cleaning after each use, is essential, and the feed should be shut off when making turns on the grass area.

The lawnmower and the way it is used is the cause of many problems. If the grass leaves are torn instead of being smoothly pruned the whole area has a brown appearance a day or so after cutting as the torn ends of leaves die back.

This browning is sometimes the result of mower blades that are not properly sharpened, blades improperly adjusted, or to pushing the mower at too great a speed.

Lack of a path for crossing the lawn when it is saturated over winter, or pushing a wheelbarrow or other wheeled equipment over the lawn when the soil is damp, results in an uneven surface. When cutting starts in spring the high spots are scalped and the grass is killed, while the low spots are not cut to the right height and show up as green streaks and patches.

The best cutting tool is the five or six-bladed reel-type mower which gives a scissor, or shear action, operated by a motor or by hand.

The popular rotary scythe originally designed for cutting coarse grass, weeds and light brush, can only slash the tender grass leaves and its cutting action depends on the speed the blade rotates. The blade must be razor sharp, and it frequently needs touching-up with a file while the cutting is being done. Dull blades cause most of the problems.

Progress with a rotary mower should be slow and steady to allow the blade to do the best job it is capable of performing. Galloping over the area will never give good looking results.

The height to which the grass should be cut is important to its health and appearance. Some grasses must be maintained at a height of three-quarters of an inch, some at one inch, others at one and a half inches.

All mowers have wheels which can be adusted for height. When changing the height the four wheels must be reset, not only the two in front or the two at the rear.

The frequency of cutting is just as important as the cutting height. No more than one-eighth of an inch should be removed. On a properly fertilized lawn this may mean three cuttings a week.

When the grass is allowed to become long before cutting, the area of the leaf blade which was protected from the sun is suddenly exposed and soon turns yellow. This is a common sight throughout the district on a Monday morning.

The belief that grass requires the minimum of time, effort, and expense, together with the condition of the tools used for its care, seem to be the cause of most of the problems reported by home gardeners.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc for rent, or property for sale: start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your adveertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Friday; 8:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

Showboat Captain Dies at 81

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Wednesday at Sands Chapel in Colwood for Bert White, who used to sail his showboat up and down the coast of Vancouver Island, bringing entertainment to logging camps and other isolated settlements.

White died at his home on Sunday at the age of 81.

From 1939 to 1943 White and his Showboat Gang took fun and laughter to many coastal communities, also playing to crowds along the Victoria shoreline from the deck of the vessel.

He was best known, however, as the one-string fiddler Wing Kong, the stage character he kept for the numerous shows and benefits.

He was made an honorary citizen of Victoria in 1971 in recognition of his years of entertaining. He was also a fisherman and, later, a cook on navy tugs.

He is survived by his wife Leah, of 638 Goldstream, and a brother, William, of 798 Lampson.

Opposition Attacks Bawlf Over 'Keep Mum' Memo

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf escorted his spending estimates through the house on Monday but not before weathering a heavy attack on a "keep-mum" memo circulated in his ministry.

During debate on Bawlf's ministry's $61.3 projected spending, Bill King (NDP — Revelstoke-Slocan) produced a confidential memo issued by deputy minister Lloyd Brooks warning staff about leaking ministry information.

The document "goes beyond the pale of discretion," King said. "It's a highly coercive document. It's threatening."

Brooks' two-page memo says during the current inquiry into the Fish and Wildlife Branch became evident that information which should not have been revealed was done so by branch staff.

The memo said it appears as if a few members haven't taken their oath of allegiance seriously or have joined organizations "which make it their business to criticize government."

The memo suggested staff members take a close look at their outside memberships to see if they might be put in an untenable position.

Future leaks will be harshly dealt with, the memo says and adds: "This is not an idle threat, but a simple statement of fact that disciplinary action will follow the leaking of restricted information in the future and dismissal from the service is a virtual certainty for serious or repeat cases."

Bawlf said the memo, which went out Feb. 7 to 12, was not written on instructions from him, but initiated by the deputy minister.

He said he first read it April 24.

He said he wouldn't comment on its content until he'd had an opportunity to discuss it with Brooks.

Opposition leader Dave Barrett asked Bawlf if he agreed with such memos. "It's not a question of discussing it with your deputy. You run the show. Do you approve of that kind of memo?"

BAWLF
. . . deputy's memo

King said that if Bawlf didn't immediately reject and repudiate the directive it was tantamount to his being party to it.

"I suppose the poor deputy minister was only reflecting your political policy."

He said the NDP's amendments of the Constitution Act freed public servants "from the yoke of this kind of jackboot policy" of preventing civil servants from belonging to organizations or political parties.

Gary Lauk (NDP — Vancouver Centre) said the document is designed to suppress the truth that only civil servants can come across and is designed only to "be used to cover up wrong-doing and slipshod government."

Bawlf said he is satisfied the memo doesn't instruct a member of the civil service not to join either specific organizations or organizations of their choice.

"It calls on them simply to consider in their good judgment the relationship that bears to the handling of sensitive materials," he said.

Graham Lea (NDP — Prince Rupert) said government workers take an oath of office and therefore there is no need for the memorandum.

Bawl's estimates received approval after four days of debate.

'Royal Deal Claimed

New Westminster NDP MLA Dennis Cocke says the privately-owned Royal Insurance company is only charged about half the going rate when its clients use the publicly-owned ICBC claims centres.

In the legislature Monday, Cocke asked Education Minister Pat McGeer to confirm that the corporation "has entered into a sweetheart deal with Royal Insurance."

McGeer said there is no such deal.

But Cocke said he has learned that Royal Insurance is only charged between $20 and $35 — depending on the condition of the car — for appraisals when Royal customers take their cars to ICBC claims centres.

But the going rate for appraisals is at least $65, Cocke said.

He said that is the fee ICBC staff members are charged when they take their damaged vehicles to private appraisers.

He said it is ICBC policy that employees must use private adjusters and when they do "the fee for them is $65 or more."

Cocke first accused the government of making deals with Royal back in February, but at that time, he was told Royal was paying the going rate.

Cocke said he now knows of two or three instances where ICBC paid $65 for appraisals.

U.S. Gov't Won't Ban 2,4-D Use

The United States government's Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) does not intend to ban further use of the controversial herbicide 2,4-D at this time, an EPA official said Monday.

Edwin Johnson, EPA deputy assistant administrator for pesticide programs, told Environment Minister Jim Nielsen in a telegram that reviews of a study on the chronic toxity of 2,4-D arrived at conflicting conclusions, and that the study is being reviewed.

"An immediate ban on the use of 2,4-D would only be issued in the event that there was evidence that continued use of the chemical during the necessary review period would be immediately hazardous to the environment," Johnson said. "This does not appear to be the case here."

He said that a consultant who had reviewed the study reported that he felt the data presented indicated positive evidence that 2,4-D is a carcinogen (cancer-producing), contrary to the conclusions reached by the authors of the study.

As a result, it was decided that the EPA should look more closely at both the chemical and the study, Johnson said.

He said the National Cancer Institute was asked to review the study and found "no convincing evidence of carcinogenicity."

The National Centre for Toxicological Research, which was asked to conduct a statistical evaluation of the study, found the data "suggestive of positive evidence of carcinogenicity" and that it demonstrated the potential for other chronic health effects which were not evaluated by the researchers.

"We have also arranged to have the study given additional valuation," the telegram said. Once these issues are resolved, a decision on the action to be taken on 2,4-D will be forthcoming.

"If we determine from our current review that 2,4-D is potential carcinogen, we will initiate an extensive review of the chemical before taking any such action."

Johnson said he regretted that news stories "carried by the various Canadian news services indicate that EPA has determined 2,4-D to be a carcinogen and that we are taking action to ban its further use."

"It is unfortunate that those statements were made at this time because they do not reflect the actual situation and because without necessary qualification, they only serve to misinform the public."

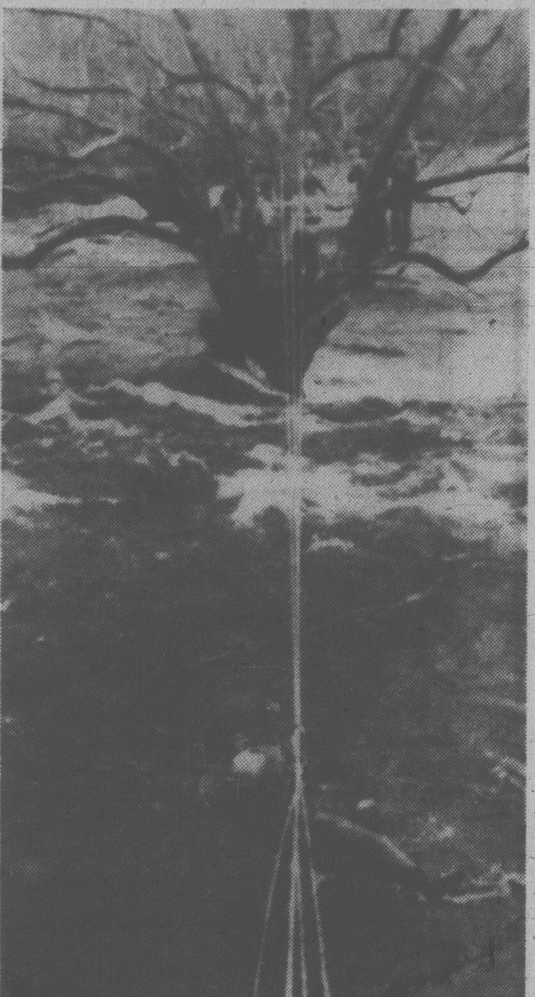
CHARITIES CUT IN ESQUIMALT

Esquimalt will aid fewer charitable or non-profit community groups then recommended by Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee this year, if council adopts a recommendation of its finance committee.

An increase of about $11,000 in Esquimalt's share of the $413,215 total is represented by the proposal put forward to council after a committee meeting Monday endorsed 18 organizations of 34 passed by intermunicipal committee.

The total includes several new groups considered by aldermen to be providing worthwhile community service. Twelve groups were rejected.

Finance committee approved $38,557 as Esquimalt's share of the intermunicipal total, but aldermen have the option of changing these or considering others when the subject returns to council next week.



HANGING BY A ROPE, unidentified rescue worker carefully makes his way across the rampaging Racquette River near Potsdam, N.Y., towards a group stranded in tree. The group sought a berth in the tree Sunday after their raft dumped. They had to spend five hours in their perch before they were rescued. Earlier attempts to use a helicopter failed.

Coal Mining Loss Feared

Liberal leader Gordon Gibson fears a new government policy could put the majority of the province's coal deposits in the hands of the big corporations who could sit on them until the market improves.

Gibson also told the legislature Monday the new system for issuing coal exploration licences could mean the province does not receive as much as it should from a coal discovery.

Following the lifting of the five-year moratorium on coal development in February, 32 exploration permits covering 705 square miles have been applied for.

Only seven of those covering 103 square miles were made by small individual companies, Gibson said.

He said it is easier for the large corporations than the small ones to keep their new holdings in cold storage until markets improve or current mines are deleted.

Mines Minister Jim Chabot reminded Gibson the permit applications are for exploration only, not development.

He also said legislation will soon be introduced to deal with the development of new mines and he would not comment on the pending legislation.

BCR COMMISSION DERAILED - BARRETT

Opposition leader Dave Barrett says comments by Social Credit cabinet ministers have derailed the McKenzie Royal Commission studying the financially-plagued B.C. Railway.

In the legislature Monday, Barrett asked Economic Development Minister Don Phillips if he felt the royal commission could continue with credibility after his and Premier Bennett's recent criticisms of the commission's preliminary report.

In mid-April, Bennett said he wouldn't base a decision on the future of the rail extension to Fort Nelson on the commission's recommendations alone and Phillips said in Prince George Saturday the recommendation to close the line did not recognize the ripple effect it would have on the rest of the province.

Fisheries Dept. Leads Research

Unsolicited research and development in Canada was done principally for the ministry of fisheries and environment in the year ended April 1.

Forty-one of the 115 contracts awarded by the federal government as a result of private proposals were for work in fisheries and environment, nearly three times as many as in the two next largest scientific authorities listed by contracts at year-end.

A total $4.15 million was spent for fisheries and environment, compared with $3.67 million for the 14 contracts awarded for energy, mines and resources, and $1 million for National Research Council, also with 14 contracts.

National defence approved 12 unsolicited proposals worth $1.68 million.

A Night for Piano

At entry deadline time back in January, 12 senior piano students had signed up for one of the Victoria Music Festival's biggest performance test classes — the open concerto.

Split into "A" and "B" sections, the class was scheduled for this week, but three of the entrants decided they were not ready and cancelled. Result, the sections were put together into one session, Monday evening.

And that resulted in one great evening for the lovers of piano concerto who were present. All nine competitors chose from the classic and romantic repertoire and only one concerto — Schumann's A minor — was chosen by two pianists. Beethoven, Mozart, the Chopin No. 2, Franck's Symphonic Variations and Rahmaninoff No. 2 were others performed.

Adjudicators Alma Brock-Smith and Phyllis Schuldt worked as a team, to the pleasure and benefit of all. They treated the class of aspiring performers with the seriousness they deserved but proved again that so-called serious music does not have to be approached as though it was a sacred cow. Their joint adjudication was full of humor, sharply illustrative anecdotes, shrewd but kindly observation and helpful comment.

It was their unanimous opinion that Miranda Wong, playing the Schumann, and Arthur La Vertu, playing the "very challenging" Rachmaninoff, should be tied for first place with Linda Gould, who played the Chopin, a close runner-up.

Festival sessions this week include dance at Oak Bay Junior Secondary and brass and woodwind classes at Metropolitan United Church.

AHOP Mortgages Widened

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government announced Monday it will provide insurance for new type of graduated payment mortgage to encourage more private lending for new and existing housing in the moderate price range.

The program will extend the federal Assisted Home Ownership Program (AHOP), which provides subsidized loans on moderately-priced housing, to existing homes. Since 1976, it has applied only to those newly constructed.

In addition, the government will insure mortgages on homes priced up to certain limits so that monthly payments will be relatively low in the early years and increase over time.

The graduated mortgage program will also apply for new, moderately-priced rental accommodation. It would keep rents below what would normally have to be charged if a builder were forced to meet high mortgage payments in the early years.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation will administer the program.

The graduated payment mortgage (GPM) will work this way: A $35,000, 25-year mortgage at 10¼ per-cent interest would require a normal monthly payment of about $319 for the life of the mortgage.

Under the GPM, the monthly payments in the first year would be $240 and would increase each year by five per cent. In the 10th year, they would be $373 a month and would hit $382 in the next year, holding constant for the remaining 15 years.

The program will only apply to new and existing houses up to certain limits, which vary from city to city depending on average prices.

For example, the limit is $47,000 in Toronto, Vancouver and Calgary, among the highest priced housing markets in the country. The limit is $38,500 in Halifax, $38,000 in Ottawa and $39,500 in Winnipeg. In Montreal, the limit is $33,500, lower than average because local improvements are paid through taxes.

AHOP changes include removal of a subsidy of up to $750 a year that had been available for the lowest income families and extension of the program to single persons.

AHOP will gradually be eliminated as the GPM system is absorbed by private sector lenders, CMHC said.

In both programs—GPM and AHOP—the first mortgage on the dwelling must be for a period of 25-35 years and the mortgage payments, including principal, interest and taxes, must not exceed 30 per cent of the borrower's income.

DRIVERS' LICENCES TO BLIND?

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba Highways Minister Harry Enns says he is considering issuing drivers' licences to the blind and handicapped for identification purposes.

He emphasized such licences would be clearly marked that they do not entitle the holder to drive.

The minister, speaking in the legislature Monday during study of his department's $160.5 million spending estimates, said a driver's licence is the "best and only means of identification."

He said he recently had been asked to consider the possibility by representatives from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and is asking his department to look at the idea.

Enns said British Columbia and Alberta had issued separate and distinctive indentification, but it was not accepted by store clerks and others seeking identification. A driver's licence is the most universally accepted identification.

"The immediate thought to this idea is, well, has this ministry gone wild. But, when you think of all the other restrictions on the licence, you have to ask, why not?"

Referendum on Noose?

PERRAULT
. . .not in works

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Ray Perrault, Liberal leader in the Senate, said Monday night it is possible the government one day might hold a referendum on restoring capital punishment.

But he denied having said the Liberal government is considering legislation about capital punishment.

Perrault, a member of the cabinet, was commenting in an interview on a Vancouver radio report quoting him saying legislation is in the works on capital punishment.

Speaking in a telephone interview after his arrival here by plane, Perrault said his Vancouver statements "were not linked in any way to capital punishment."

Meanwhile, the offices of Prime Minister Trudeau and Justice Minister Ron Basford said Monday there no plans to reconsider the law abolishing capital punishment.

Spokesmen denied reported plans to introduce legislation on capital punishment — abolished in 1976.

In the radio interview on CJOR, Perrault, a member of the cabinet, said "a package is in preparation."

"I know some of the details of it and I think the package would be welcomed by the Canadian people," the senate government leader was quoted saying.

"We have seen nothing like that," said Mike Phelps, an aide to Basford. "It sounds like a misquote."

"It's total news to me, and news to Ron," Phelps said. He doublechecked with Basford, who was in the office with him.

Jean Charpentier, an aide to Trudeau, said the Perrault remarks were extraordinary.

"The prime minister flatly denied this at his last press conference," Charpentier said.

Trudeau said at a news conference two weeks ago that Parliament had abolished the death penalty in 1976 "and as far as I'm concerned, the issue is settled."

Asked whether he would attempt to reopen the issue in the Parliament formed after the next federal election, Trudeau replied:

"If we are the government, I am telling you we don't plan to reopen it."

PCs PICK CANDIDATE

BURNABY (CP) — Radio talk show host Chuck Cook was chosen Monday as the Progressive Conservative candidate for the federal riding of Burnaby-North Vancouver.

Cook polled 229 votes while tax consultant David Ingram had 163 votes.

Ingram lost the nomination to Rev. John Fast by one vote six weeks ago but Fast later resigned for personal reasons, calling for a new nomination meeting.

Wolf Eels Born —By Thousands

VANCOUVER (CP) — The staff at the Vancouver Public Aquarium is crying wolf. Wolf eel, that is.

Aquarium director Dr. Murray Newman said Monday that one of its wolf eels laid 10,000 eggs, they are fertilized — and all 10,000 could hatch.

Wolf eels grow to more than two metres in length, and Newman said he is optimistic that the aquarium will raise several thousand of the creatures.

Newman said the aquarium would wait until the eels grow to about six inches, and then use volunteer divers to place them in ocean areas where their populations have been depleted.

Churches 'Intimidated'

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative MPs Monday accused the government of trying to intimidate churches and other charitable organizations involved in social issues by issuing regulations barring them from political activities .

At one point during a rowdy exchange in the Commons, Prime Minister Trudeau flippantly declared a suspension of the regulations. But a minute earlier he said he did not have the power to suspend them because they are an interpretation of the law.

The regulations prohibit charitable organizations from attempting to influence legislation by making representations to MPs, from writing letters to editors to sway public opinion on a political issue and from public demonstrations to embarrass or pressure a government.

Trudeau said the regulations, contained in a February circular issued by the revenue department, are an attempt by officials to explain what a charitable organization is under the law for purposes of applying tax-free status granted such groups.

He rejected Conservative Leader Joe Clark's demand that the regulations be withdrawn and a charge by David MacDonald (PC-Egmont) that the circular is "a highly intimidating document."

When an MP heckled "Big Brother" as Trudeau was speaking, the prime minister said "obviously the taxpayer can call the government whatever he wants but he is asking for guidance."

Flora MacDonald (PC-Kingston-and-the-Islands) demanded the government explain why the regulations she termed regressive have been sent to churches and other organizations and whether they were issued at the request of the cabinet or a minister.

Deputy Prime Minister Allan MacEachen, who promised last week to investigate opposition complaints about the regulations, said they were issued at the request of Guay's predecessor Monique Begin, now health and welfare minister, "in response to requests from the field."

MacEachen said the revenue department was simply explaining that charitable organizations, to keep their tax-free status, must stick to charitable activities as defined in the law.

"And some people cynically do not regard politics as charitable," MacEachen added, prompting a wave of howls from MPs.

DOMINION DAY FOR ELECTION?

OTTAWA—Canada's Dominion-day celebrations could provide the grand finale for the federal election campaign leading up to a voting day on July 4 or July 10, providing a shot in the arm for Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's national unity issue.

The progressive Conservatives and the New Democratic Party are concerned that the Liberal government having earmarked $4.5 million out of the treasury for the celebration of the country's birthday might seek to capitalize on the festivities that end with a big birthday bash on parliament hill. July 1 is on a Saturday.

Attack Denied

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General Gilles Lamontagne denied Monday he said the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) is refusing to co-operate with a conciliation board looking into the complicated postal dispute.

His denial followed a strongly-worded statement from CUPW to the three-man conciliation board accusing Lamontagne of "repeatedly lying to the public about the union."

BUG FIGHTER BATTLE DELAYED

OTTAWA (CP) — The trade mark war between the insect repellants 'OFF!' and 'bugg off' went before the Supreme Court of Canada Monday but will not be settled for the summer insect season.

The high court gave S. C. Johnson and Son Ltd. permission to appeal a Federal Court of Appeal ruling that the 'OFF!' trade mark registration is invalid.

Johnson began the legal battles in 1975 when Marketing International Ltd. began selling 'bugg off' in Canada. The Federal Court trial division ordered sales of 'bugg off' halted but the appeal division reversed that order and accepted a Marketing International contention that 'OFF!' is an improper trade mark.

Dredging Trial Delay

TORONTO ((CP) — A dredging-conspiracy trial entering its 10th week was adjourned Monday for a month.

Associate Chief Justice William Parker of the Ontario Supreme Court told the 12 jurors the trial cannot proceed "for some rather complicated legal reasons which I won't try to explain."

He said the trial is being postponed until medical reports indicate whether "one or the other" parties is ready to proceed.

Eleven businessmen and nine companies are charged with conspiring to defraud public agencies of more than $4.27 million by rigging dredging bids.

WATCHDOG APPROVED

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons gave unanimous approval Monday to legislation authorizing the office of comptroller-general to act as the financial watchdog on its day-to-day expenditures.

Opposition MPs approved the bill despite earlier complaints that the government has refused to spell out the duties of the new position. The office was recommended by Auditor-General J. J. Macdonell in 1976 when he said the government had virtually lost control of spending.

Solar Energy Pushed

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada could be the first nation to develop a source of cheap practical solar energy if the government would support a massive research program, said New Democratic energy critic T.C. Douglas Monday.

He urged the government to call on the entire electronic industry, the National Research Council and its own department of energy mines and resources to get to work immediately.

"Solar energy is like motherhood; everybody is for it, but we haven't done much about it," Douglas said.

"The United States is moving rapidly into the field and I'm afraid we're going to miss the boat," Douglas said.

"We should begin a massive program to produce the cheapest unit in the world. Of course it will cost money, but it will cost even more if we wait till we run out of energy from other sources," he said.

MPs 'Endangered' By PM's Patronage

OTTAWA (CP) — Commons membership will soon be reduced to less than a quorum of 20 if Prime Minister Trudeau maintains his current pace of patronage appointments of MPs, John Crosbie (PC-St. John's West) said Monday.

Tongue-in-cheek, Crosbie warned MPs in the Commons their ranks are "rapidly diminishing due to a frenzy of government appointments of unwanted Liberal MPs." If Trudeau does not call a federal election soon the House will become "vacant by attrition."

And if an election is not in the works, he said Trudeau should "cease and desist from further patronage appointments of MPs who are now in danger of becoming an endangered species."

Among appointments announced in recent weeks are former Liberal cabinet ministers, a Liberal backbencher, a New Democratic Party MP and a Progressive Conservative to positions ranging from Senate seats to the courts.

Hove Firing Probe Set

SALISBURY (CP) — Rhodesia's biracial ruling council, its unity jeopardized by a dispute over the firing of a Byron Hove, on Monday decided to investigate the dismissal of the outspoken black justice co-minister, nationalist sources said.

The sources said the decision was made at a special meeting earlier in the day of the four-man executive council.

No official statement was issued after the meeting, but the the council was supposed to investigate controversial remarks by Hove that led to his firing. It also will examine public denunciations of the remarks by his white co-minister, Hilary Squires, the armed forces commander, Lt.-Gen. Peter Walls, and the police chief, Peter Allum, the sources said.

An investigating committee would be one way of easing the crisis, which threatens to bring down the new interim government, headed by the council.

The meeting Monday was demanded by Bishop Abel Muzorewa, one of three black members of the council. Muzorewa has denounced the firing of Hove, whom he appointed, and threatened to withdraw from the government.

Execution Follows Coup Bid

BANGKOK (UPI) — Eight Laotians have been sentenced to death by a "people's court" for allegedly plotting to overthrow the Communist government of Laos, the government newspaper said today.

The newspaper Voice of the People said 49 people were arrested last Nov. 16 for involvement in the alleged plot.

The alleged leader of the plot, 57-year-old Khambou Sihalath, was among those sentenced to die, it said.

The newspaper gave no details of the plot and it was not immediately clear if the group sentenced Sunday was the same group arrested last year for planning a revolt set for Dec. 2, 1977, the second anniversary of the communist regime.

That group, said to number 26, was accused of plotting to assassinate Laotian Prime Minister Kaysone Phonvihan as he drove to Vientiane airport for a visit to the Soviet Union in May last year.

None of the alleged plots apparently were ever put into action.

Namibia Session Slated

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The South-West Africa People's Organization and five Western powers agreed Monday to new talks on the independence of South-West Africa.

Western diplomats said only procedural matters will be raised, and that their independence proposal for the territory — also called Namibia — will not be changed although SWAPO has demanded changes.

SWAPO President Sam Nujoma said after the meeting he will call his negotiating team to New York from Lusaka, Zambia, where SWAPO has it headquarters. "We're going to discuss the outstanding issues . . . We will discuss, and in the discussion we will come to an understanding," he said.

A Western diplomat said: "Our plan is the best we can get in present circumstances. So we can't change it."

MAO LIKED RIGHTISTS ACCORDING TO NIXON

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Former U.S. president Richard Nixon says that during his 1972 trip to China Mao Tse-tung told him he was happy when rightists came to power in the West.

Nixon recalls his Chinese trip in the third of seven instalments of his book RN: The Memoirs of Richard Nixon.

Nixon said the Chinese leader expressed his liking for leaders he called rightists — Nixon, former British prime minister Edward Heath and those in the West German Christian Democratic Party.

Nixon said Henry Kissinger had used dates with women as cover for some secret diplomatic missions and had feigned a stomach ache to escape reporters and slip into China from Pakistan to arrange for the historic trip.

Pack of Vicious Dogs Found With Corpse

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Police found the remains of a man when they broke into a house today and were confronted by a pack of 15 vicious and starving dogs. Police said the man, 53-year-old Mervyn Sallows, had been dead for about a week in the house where he lived with his pack of boxer-kelpie crossbreds. A mailman had alerted police after failing to see Sallows for several days.

SEX IN CHAINS CASE OPENS AND CLOSES

LONDON (UPI) — The "Sex in Chains" kidnapping trial opened at the Old Bailey today but defendants Joyce McKinney and Keith May, who jumped bail three weeks ago, were reported thousands of miles away from the courtroom.

An usher called their names three times in the traditional manner outside the oak-paneled courtroom. She told the judge, "No answer, my Lord."

Prosecuting attorney Neil Denison told the judge, "You are no doubt aware of what happened in this case from the extensive press coverage it has already received.

"These two defendants apparently left this country in what I might call characteristically dramatic circumstances two or three weeks ago, and they are now thought to be somewhere in the United States of America."

He asked Judge Charles Lawson to issue warrants for their arrests "in the unlikely circumstances that they return."

Kidnap Rescue

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The son of a prominent Portland businessman, who disappeared in a South American kidnap plot, was rescued over the weekend in Columbia, the FBI reported Monday.

The FBI said Gregory Wayne Striver, son of Will Striver, was found by Colombian naval authorities who conducted a raid on a rural farm near Santa Marta, Colombia. Agents said young Striver, found chained to a bed with a hood over his head, is being cared for by U.S. Navy authorities in Colombia.

Seven persons were arrested in the raid.

Ozard: $3,000 An Hour

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

Bill Ozard's out-of-court settlement with the B.C. government netted him between two and three months' salary, or about $3,000 an hour for his brief stint as director of tourist marketing for the ministry of tourism.

The settlement reached Monday between Ozard's lawyer Scott Marshall and counsel for the B.C. Public Service Commission Doug Gray also included Ozard's legal expenses, reported to be fairly high.

Ozard was fired after only 90 minutes on the job Feb. 16 because he placed advertisements in Victoria newspapers thanking several cabinet ministers, including Travel Minister Grace McCarthy, for helping him land the job back in his native Victoria.

Mrs. McCarthy requested his dismissal because she thought the ad made it appear the job had been awarded through political patronage, when it had actually been won through a public service competition.

Ozard is now working as a program director for a Calgary radio station.

When contacted by the Times today, Ozard said he was unable to comment on the settlement, even to confirm the exact dollar figure.

It's not uncommon in such settlements for the respondent to insist that the plaintiff divulge no details.

British Metrics Falter

LONDON (AP) — The Labor government is having second thoughts about forcing Britons to abandon their yards, gallons and pounds in favor of metres, litres and kilograms by the early 1980s.

"It is clearly impossible to proceed against a background of hostility," said John Fraser, minister in charge of the government-ordered switch from imperial to metric weights and measures.

"Resistance against the recent metrication orders has led us to review whether we can still claim universal support."

There have been no recent public opinion polls on the shift, but letters to newspapers seem to be running strongly against it.

Britain's European neighbors use the metric system devised by the Paris Academy of Sciences in 1791. The country's entry into the nine-member Common Market in 1973 increased the pressure for metrication.

Despite public grumblings of mutiny, about 80 per cent of Britain's manufacturing industry has gone metric in the last decade. A recent editorial in The Times called the changeover "unpalatable but unavoidable."

The Confederation of British Industry, which has been campaigning for metrication since the 1960s, said: "We believe it is time Britain got out of the Stone Age."

Boy Hangs Himself

SASKATOON (CP) — An 11-year-old boy is dead and a second youth is in hospital with gunshot wounds following what city police believe was an attempted murder and suicide Monday.

One youth was found hanged to death near his home in the eastview area of the city after apparently shooting the second 11-year-old boy.

The second boy is reported in fair condition in hospital following surgery.

Police say a handgun was found near the scene. The shooting took place outside the youths home in a back alley. Names have not been released.

NECK-AND-NECK WITH GOV'T

Tories Jubilant At Gallup Switch

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservatives were jubilant today after learning they had climbed in public opinion polls. But they speculated that Prime Minister Trudeau now may wait until fall to call a federal election.

"The news makes my day," said James McGrath (PC—St. John's East).

The new polls, which took much of Parliament Hill by surprise, showed Conservatives and Liberals tied with 41 per cent each of the decided vote. The Conservatives jumped seven points and the Liberals dropped four. The New Democratic Party sagged to 14 from 17 per cent. Undecided voters moved to 39 per cent from 38 per cent of the electorate.

The poll was based on 1,035 in-home interviews with adults 18 years and older. The poll is said to be accurate within four percentage points 19 times in 20.

Several MPs said Trudeau may want to postpone an election until fall but may still hold a summer vote because the election machinery is in place and Liberal MPs are anxious to get to the hustings.

"We've gone too far down the line," said Hal Herbert (L—Vaudreuil). "If he (Trudeau) wanted to wait until fall he would have said."

Trudeau said at his weekly news conference Thursday that if he decides to wait until fall, he will say so.

An aide to Conservative Leader Joe Clark said he had been instructed to say "no comment" on the Conservative jump in popularity.

"It's another poll and the poll that really counts will be taken on election day," the aide quoted Clark as saying.

From the prime minister's office, an aide said the previous poll, which was taken in March, followed a period of intense activity for Trudeau. The public exposure had raised his popularity.

The latest poll, taken in early April, was during a period when the prime minister had not been doing as much travelling and public speaking.

A spokesman for Ed Broadbent, New Democratic Party leader, said Broadbent is not concerned about his party's three-point decline.

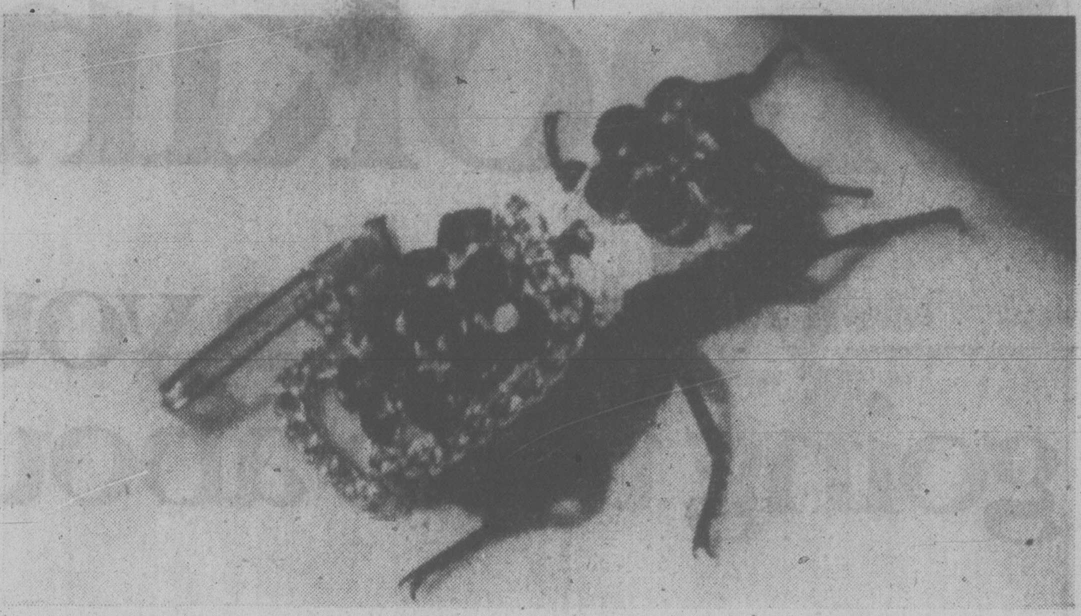
"If you can offer me a rational explanation (about the shift) then I'll be concerned," he said.

"There hasn't been a fluctuation like that in 30 years. It's an aberration."

The spokesman said when the election campaign begins, the NDP will make gains because it will campaign on the economy, the issue most bothering Canadians.

Liberal MPs agreed people are concerned about the economy and have started looking to the Conservatives for reassurance.

Herb Gray, former Liberal consumer and corporate affairs minister, said the next poll could be radically different because the new federal budget, introduced shortly after the last poll was taken, may "have helped reassure the public."



LIVING BROACH, if you can stand the thought, is a tropical Makesh beetle covered with paste-on imitation jewels and tied down with a tiny chain. The live bug, only two inches long, is the latest rage among trendy Parisians, but it won't replace diamonds as a girl's best friend in this country if the federal agiculture department has its say. The bug is said to carry parasites and fungi unknown in Canada. Any beetles found on tourists returning from Mexico — where it can be bought for $1 — will be destroyed.

Armed 13-Year-Old In Speeding Chase

A 13-year-old boy, armed with a loaded rifle and 500 rounds of ammunition, led police on a seven-mile car chase through Central and North Saanich early today.

The chase, with speeds up to 150 km/h, ended when the fleeing car went off the road and crashed through a wire fence at Victoria Airport.

The boy, who was unhurt, gave himself up to Central Saanich police.

He is expected to appear in family court later today charged with dangerous driving, obstruction, taking an auto without the owner's consent, possession of a weapon dangerous to the public, no driver's licence and having a loaded firearm in a vehicle.

A police spokesman said officers found an automatic .22 calibre pump rifle on the front seat. One shell was in the chamber and 14 more were in a magazine. In addition 85 rounds were found stuffed in the boy's pockets and another 400 in plastic bags lying on the seat and floor, the spokesman said.

Police couldn't say where the gun came from and when they asked the boy why he had it, he replied there was no reason, that "he was just going to keep it in case somebody came."

The spokesman said the car had been reported missing at about 5 p.m. Monday by Thomas Goan of 191 Adkins.

A citizen saw the car in Esquimalt about two hours later and told police he thought the youthful driver had a gun.

At 1:59 a.m. a Central Saanich patrol officer spotted the car on Central Saanich Road just off Keating.

RCMP from Sidney joined in the chase when the car fled into North Saanich.

Police said about $300 damage was done to the stolen car and $300 to the fence.

Heavenly Peace Soon

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Solid Rock Church of God in Christ, Inc., has been given 90 days to tone down its praying.

The action came in a lawsuit against the church and the Rev. Archie Hopkins by the city.

A city engineer took sound readings at the church and reported that noise reached levels of 103 decibels, nearly twice the accepted peak level for daytime.

Neighbors had written to Circuit Judge Phillip Roth stating that on a Sunday morning after three hours of "loud, loud, loud singing, chanting and praying, we are finally blessed with heavenly quiet."

$740M Reserves Sold

OTTAWA (CP) — The government had to sell about $740 million of its international reserves last month to support the Canadian dollar.

Bborrowings of $1.350 billion, however, helped replenish the dwindling stock, finance department figures released today show.

In April, the Canadian dollar hit a 45-year low at less than 87 cents U.S. but has since staged a recovery. Monday it closed at 88.83 cents U.S. in New York, its highest level in five weeks. In New York at noon today, the Canadian dollar was down 13-100 at $0.8870.

Today's figures show that over-all the reserve position improved by almost $613 million including proceeds of the government's special $750-million U.S. bond issue in New York early in April, the first of its kind in 10 years.

Pot Test To Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — The National Organization for Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) said Monday it plans court action to force Vancouver General Hospital to test imported marijuana for traces of a toxic weed killed.

Food Prices Up 12%

OTTAWA (CP) — Food prices jumped by 2.6 per cent in the four weeks to April 21 and now are 11.9 per cent higher than a year ago, the anti-inflation board reported Monday.

Since mid-March, beef prices have risen by 7.8 per cent and they are going to continue rising, the board predicts. Beef supplies were declining and it would likely be several years before supplies are built up again.

Pork, oranges and tea prices were lower.

The pork price index is 15 per cent higher than it was a year ago, although prices were down by one per cent in the last month. Prices are likely to stay at about current levels, the board says.

Dairy prices were up by nine-tenths of one per cent, mainly because of higher butter prices that followed a federal government announcement of higher support prices for butter. Dairy prices now are 5½ per cent above levels of a year ago.

Other food price changes included:

—A one per-cent price decline for fats and oils, although prices still are about 14.4 per cent higher than a year ago.

—Poultry prices were up by 2.8 per cent as chicken and turkey prices increased. The cheaper Canadian dollar and firmer U.S. markets have reduced U.S. competition in this market.

—Egg prices rose by one half of one per cent and are 4.1 per cent higher than at this time last year.

—Lower orange prices offset higher prices for bananas and grapes, producing a 1.3 per-cent decline for the fresh fruits index. Orange prices are still 45 per cent above a year ago, and the over-all fresh fruits index is 24.4 per cent higher.

—Tomatoes and lettuce led a 17.1 per-cent jump in fresh vegetable prices in the last month, although the index is only 2.3 per-cent above year-ago levels.

—Coffee prices are relatively stable, but tea prices are down by four-tenths of one per cent, leaving the beverage index 10.6 per-cent above its level 12 months ago.

The anti-inflation board said the cost of its nutritious diet for a family of four increased to $52.13 for the week ended April 21, a $1.02 rise from the average cost for the month of March.

Prices Beat Wages

For the first time since 1971, the average Vancouver Consumer Price Index in 1977 exceeded the average wage settlement.

Figures contained in the latest bulletin from the labor ministry's research branch show the average wage settlement for agreements concluded during the year was 6.4 per cent.

The average CPI increase for the year was 7.2 per cent.

The bulletin says this is the first time the index has outstripped the wage gain since the department first started its wage settlement analysis in 1971.

"This suggests that if the downward trend in settlements continues, a probable erosion of real incomes will occur for the unionized segment of the B.C. work force," the labor ministry says.

The 6.4 per cent settlement average in 1977 is less than two-thirds of the previous year's average of 10.7 per cent, which in turn was only two-thirds of the 1975 peak of 16.3 per cent.

Ruling Cuts Phone Costs

I DON'T BELIEVE IN OPINION POLLS.
GOOD. THIS POLL IS TO FIND OUT WHY.
RODEWALT © 1978 TSS

OTTAWA (CP) — A recent court decision should pave the way for cheaper telephone costs across the country, says Robert Bertrand, federal competition commissioner.

The decision should also lead to increased competition in the manufacture of telecommunications equipment and rapid innovation in the field, Bertrand said in an interview.

"It's the tip of the iceberg," he said. And "it will have a domino effect."

Bertrand, deputy minister of the consumer and corporate affairs department, was commenting on a Federal Court of Appeal decision last week upholding the right of Bell Canada customers to own their own automatic mobile telephonesl usually used in executive cars.

The case stemmed from a ruling by the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC), which told Bell it could not prevent customers from owning these units.

Bertrand, whose lawyers appeared both before the CRTC and in court on the issue, said the case should lead to other challenges of Bell policies that restrict customer ownership of different types of telephone equipment.

With few exceptions, Bell now prohibits customer-owned equipment from being plugged into its system.

Criminals Face Tougher Penalties

By JIM ROBB
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Hostage takers, child pornographers and defilers, and loan sharks who assault or threaten delinquent borrowers, face more severe penalties in omnibus legislation introduced in the Commons Monday by Justice Minister Ron Basford.

Proposed changes to the Criminal Code, Canada Evidence Act and Parole Act, as well as a rape amendment to the Criminal Code, toughen and reform Canadian criminal law.

The changes cover crimes of violence, white collar crime and the administration of justice.

Maximum penalty for hostage takers is doubled from five to 10 years in jail. Child pornographers will get 10 year terms or pay fines of $100,000. Procurers of children for prostitution will get 14-year jail terms. Loansharks convicted of extortion face life terms in place of the 14-year maximum sentence that exists now.

Basford said the amendments "touch on a number of key issues of concern to Canadians today."

"The sheer volume of the material .. in the omnibus legislation means that, whether the House of Commons dissolves or not, it should not be dealt with quickly and its importance suggests that parliamentarians, provincial attorneys-general, professionals in the justice system and the general public should have the time to study it carefully and put forward their comments."

The proposals include 12 major changes to the criminal law:

—Alternative sentencing: Judges, with the consent of accused persons, will be able to sentence them to "worthwhile" community work as an alternative to jail terms or fines. An accused will be able to work to repay the damage caused the victim of a crime or do community work to payoff a fine.

—Pornography: Special provisions will prohibit the use or defilement of children — persons under 16 — in the production of obscene material — including books, films, videotapes — and the definition of what is obscene will read "a dominant characteristic of the matter or things is the undue exploitation of sex, violence, crime, horror, cruelty or the undue degradation of the human person."

—The criminal definition of rape would be changed to a form of indecent assault against a man or a woman, emphasizing the violent, rather than the sexual, nature of the act. The penalty

Some Tall Tales of the Sea Will Go Back a Long Way

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

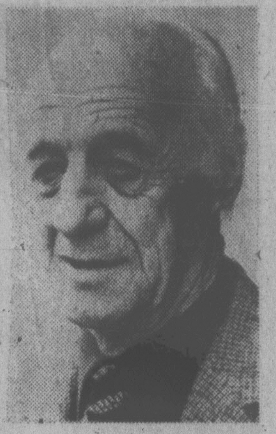
To retired sea captain W.R. Nunn of 964 Heywood the picture at the right, taken in the Inner Harbor in 1918, is a reminder of the days he first began to develop his sea legs.

Nunn (indicated by the arrow) was then a member of the Boys Naval Brigade which had been formed by the Victoria branch of the Navy League of Canada that year.

The ship was the SS Algerine, which had belonged to the Royal Canadian Navy and was being used as a salvage vessel in those days.

Nunn recalls how he and the other 50 members of the youthful brigade would learn every inch of the Algerine and the cruiser HMCS Rainbow, the RCN's first such ship.

"Our biggest thrill, though, was when we used to go to Nanaimo in the minesweepers Thiepval and Armentieres," he recalls. "They were what were called village class minesweepers. They came around through the Panama Canal after the First World War."



NUNN
. . . memories rekindled

Nunn, 74, vividly remembers one trip they made to Nanaimo when they provided a firing party for the funeral of the up-Island city's mayor.

The brigade, forerunner of today's Rainbow Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps, was run by a Lieut. Hotham. Two of the brigade's instructors were a CPO Crozier, extreme left, and LS George Hodlen, both of the RCN.

Nunn remembers the discipline they learned. "It was just after the war and discipline was one of the things he (Hotham) really enjoyed."

Just like the sea cadets of today, the brigade took part in many parades, Nunn remembers. The training was "mostly knots and splices, foot drill and boat pulling.

Nunn was coxswain of the whaler, which along with a cutter, formed the brigade's fleet. He also learned to sail the dinghy owned by Hotham, who was a member of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

He still remembers the day he joined up.

"They used to have a place at Broad and Fort where McGill and Orme is today. I went down one night with a friend and went back home wearing a uniform. My mother wondered what was going on."

With the marine influence of the brigade and its nautical training, Nunn waited two years with the brigade and then joined up for four years' training with the Canadian merchant marine.

He served on a variety of vessels until the Second World War when he joined the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve, serving in such ships as the first corvette Windflower, the minesweepers Nootka and Noranda, as well as the Prince Henry.

Nunn and others who had their first taste of sea life during the 60 years the corps has been operating are looking forward to swapping tales of the old times when they attend special homecoming events this year to mark the anniversary.

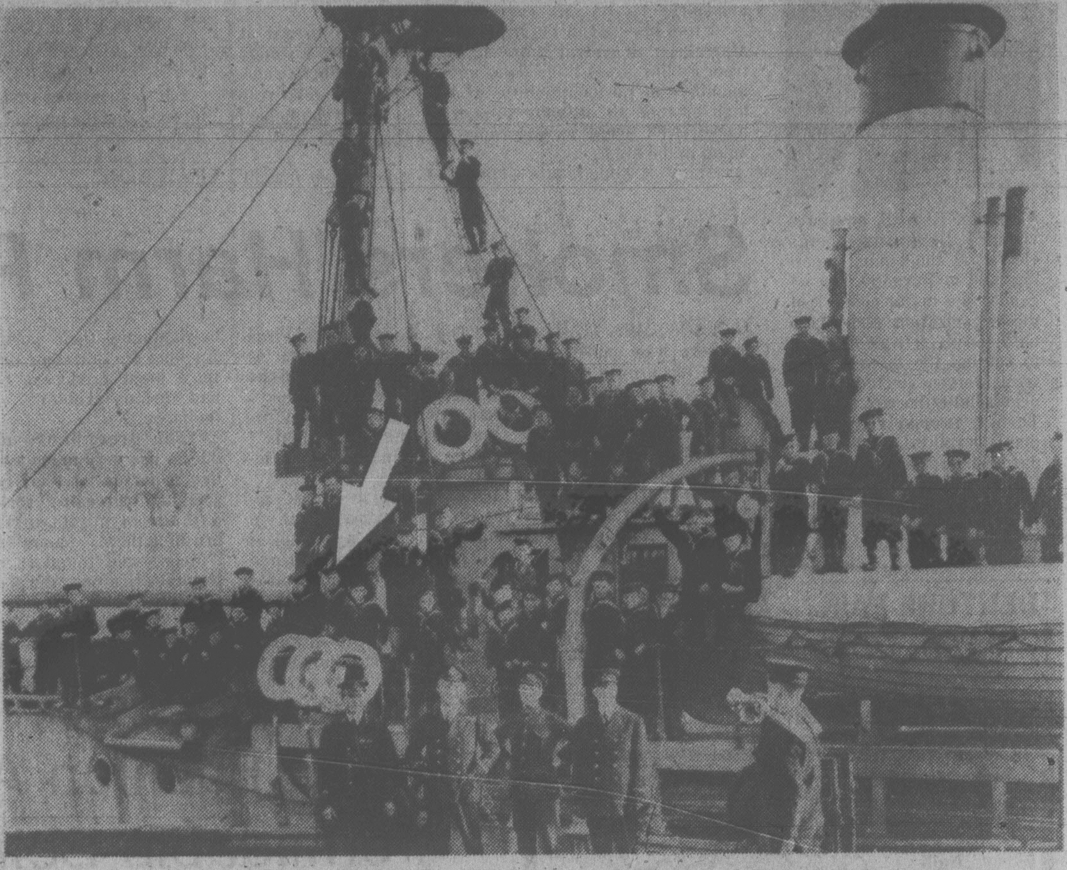
Among those Nunn remembers are Capt. Ron Newell, the former harbormaster, and Johnnie Francois, another master mariner.

Nunn says he'll skip the reception and dance to be held Saturday, June 3, at the CPO's mess in CFB Esquimalt.

"I don't dance and, strangely enough for an old sailor, I don't drink much," he explains.

He'll be at Rainbow's headquarters the next day, however, to watch the sea cadets strut at this year's annual inspection which begins at 1 p.m.

He'll stay for the open house that follows to swap memories with his former chums and gaze at artifacts belonging to the past.



Members of Boys Naval Brigade aboard Navy's SS Algerine in 1918

Mrs. J.A. Rutherford of 938 Selkirk, member of the homecoming committee, says she and her co-workers expect a big turnout, including officers and cadets who down through the years have served with the BNB, Rainbow and the Patricia Dufour Navy League Wrenette Corps.

But the real nostalgia will be for Nunn and those who were there at the beginning.

"We used to have fun. It was something worthwhile," he says. "They were your friends, a good bunch of fellows."

Saanich Connection Road to Ruin: Council

Saanich council Monday night reaffirmed its opposition to the provincial highways ministry's proposal for a major highway connector between the Patricia Bay Highway and north Quadra.

The ministry sees the route as part of an essential east-west artery linking Roy Road, Vanalman and Beckwith, via an overpass spanning the Pat Bay Highway.

But several council members, community associations and individual residents view it as an environmental threat.

They fear it will carve a disruptive 80-foot swath through existing and planned residential neighborhoods, and in the longer term there is also concern that the highway could menace the pastoral Blenkinsop Valley.

One concerned resident warned council Monday night that the proposed right-of-way is a gigantic arrow pointed at the heart of the valley.

Council instructed Mayor Mel Couvelier to make the Saanich position clear to the ministry, and also to invite Highways Minister Alex Fraser or his delegated representatives to a special meeting to discuss the matter.

The municipality has been told by the ministry that provincial approval of a bylaw rezoning the north Quadra area to a large-lot single-family subdivision pattern has been stalled because Saanich has made no provision to protect the right-of-way.

The letter says the highways and municipal affairs ministries are trying to "encourage municipalities to estgablish long-term transportation strategies that will serve future land development patterns."

But Ald. John Mika assured council the decision was nothing more than "a letter from one bureaucrat to another bureaucrat," and said the minister himself knew nothing about the matter.

In other business, council confirmed its stand opposing the intrusion of any further light industrial development in the Vanalman-Glanford area of Royal Oak.

It was agreed that the Capital Region Board be asked to change the area's designation in the official regional plan from industrial to urban (mixed residential).

But aldermen took no specific action.

Oak Properties Ltd. wants council to rezone a 21.5-acre property on Mann Avenue, within the boundaries of the originally proposed industrial zone, to mixed residential use.

Ald. Ian Cass said a special meeting of council's lands, planning and housing committee should be called to draft an over-all policy for the whole Vanalman-Glanford area, so that such applications are not considered in a piecemeal manner.

TOWN TALK

It isn't often a person gets one up on the old money-monger himself, Gordon Sinclair.

But former Times managing editor Archie Wills thinks he has.

Appearing on CBC's Front Page Challenge Monday night, Wills got into a friendly argument with Sinclair over what CPR ship the King and Queen sailed on when they came to Canada in 1939.

Empress of Japan, Sinclair said. He should know. He covered the Royal Tour for the Toronto Star.

Not so, said the venerable 85-year-old Wills. It was the Empress of Australia. He should know, too. He covered the tour for the Victoria Times.

Moderator Fred Davis suggested a remedy — put up or . . .

"How much?" he asked Sinclair.

"A dollar," Sinclair replied.

"I'll take it," Wills shot back. "And then I'll frame it."

Said Wills today, "I know I'm right. I was there on the ship.

"I'm hopeful I'll get the buck. It's not that it means so much, but it's the symbol. It's a very important dollar."

More than 30 pounds of west coast salmon topped the bill of fare in the sergeants' mess of the Royal Marines barracks in Deal recently, thanks to the generosity of Beau Tracey.

Now 77, he travelled from Victoria to England to gather in Dover and Deal with other survivors of the St. George's Day raid on Zeebrugge in 1918.

The raid, which bottled up German U-boats, was carried out by members of the Royal Navy and Royal Marines, all of which were trained at Deal.

Tracey was a Royal Marine, emigrating to Canada in the 1920s. One of the youngest survivors, he was 16 at the time of the raid, having forged his age on enlisting.

Commemorative parades at Zeebrugge brought back reminders of the 1918 raid in which no less than 11 Victoria Crosses, 21 Distinguished Service Orders and 29 Distinguished Service Crosses were won. In all, there were 500 gallantry awards.

For any non-believers who thought CBC would never get around to building a television station in Victoria — the project finally began Monday.

Bulldozers broke the earth for the first phase of construction of the CBC's $7 million venture. The project is expected to provide employment for 40 to 50 construction workers.

Plans for the building have been delayed several times; first when the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission took longer than expected to approve licencing, then while CBC director Len Lauk pondered on the proper architectural design to fit in with the surrounding landscape.

And for a while it looked as if the proposed building wouldn't survive a $30 million CBC corporate budget cut, but it pulled through.

If everything goes well the station, located behind Victoria Press on Kings and Blanshard, should be finished by the end of next year.

Victoria firefighters got a scare Saturday when a caller alerted them to smoke coming from the new warehouse at Ogden Point, site of last year's monster blaze.

Deputy chief Mike Heppell, however, said the smoke arose from paper wrapping being burned by warehouse staff.

The fire was controlled, but nonetheless illegal, pointed out Heppell.

Suicide is the second leading cause of death between the ages of 15 and 34 (after car accidents) and the fourth leading cause of death between 35 and 54 years of age (after car accidents, cancer and heart disease).

Faced with such sobering statistics, NEED, Victoria's Crisis Line, has produced a pamphlet on the subject outlining what you can do about it.

Bobbi Etter, executive director of Crisis Line, says the material is written for the lay person to help him deal with someone who is suicidal by pointing out what clues to look for, how to talk to the person and what agencies in Greater Victoria cam help a suicidal person.

The pamphlet, funded by the Rotary Club of Saanich, is now available free to anyone who calls the NEED office at 386-6328.

Drinking boaters will be able to get an early start now that liquor control and licensing regulations have been amended for the running of marina pubs.

Vic Woodland, general manager of the liquor control and licensing branch, reports liquor will be sold from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. with a maximum of 14 hours a day, except Sundays.

Who said you have to wait for the sun to go over the yard arm before you first start quenching your thirst?

AirWest Site Okayed

AirWest Airlines Ltd. finally got its planned cross-harbor move off the ground today when Victoria city council's planning committee approved the relocation.

Earlier this year City Hall shot down AirWest's plans because the airline had proposed more than doubling the size of its operating base in moving.

Under the approved plan, AirWest's relocated terminal will be substantially the same as its present one.

The company plans to move the existing building and wharfage to the new site.

The airline has been given until May 14 to move from its current location on the south side of the Inner Harbor to the old Ocean Cement site.

Consulting engineer Mike Siska, of Willis, Cunliffe, Tait and Company Ltd., told the planning committee that construction would begin this week on the new facility.

The city told Siska AirWest could either pay $1,000 a month during the temporary two-year lease or have appraisers from Vancouver recommend a rental fee. City manager Jim Bramley said an appraisal would probably cost the company more.

"This is just a nominal rental for this temporary period," said Bramley.

AirWest is paying about $6,000 a year at its present location.

AirWest's only difficulties in getting its latest plans approved came over a refuelling proposal. Siska had informed the committee the company wanted to park a gasoline truck on the site to refuel the planes at dockside.

Fire Chief Eric Simmons, however, rejected that proposal, saying that a buried fuel tank was necessary.

He said airplane fuel is highly volatile and it would be extremely unsafe to pump it directly from a truck into the aircraft.

STAVDAL EXEMPT FROM UNION

A Canadian Union of Public Employees' local representing Greater Victoria School District inside workers has lost a battle to have the district's community relations co-ordinator included in the union.

The Labor Relations Board has ruled that Bill Stavdal should be exempt from membership in Local 947, which applied more than a year ago to have Stavdal and two other district supervisors included in the union.

The LRB had earlier rejected the local's request in the other two cases.

Senior Discount 'Not Practical' - Businessmen

Victoria Ald. Robin Blencoe was accused today of ignoring social realities and lacking business sense in his call for a 10-per-cent discount for senior citizens on goods and services.

Representatives of the Victoria business community agreed that helping those in need was a good thing but giving a blanket discount to the elderly just isn't practical.

For one thing, they said, there are wealthy senior citizens just as there are poor young people and it makes no sense to lump all the elderly in the needy bracket. Also, generally speaking, businesses don't have a 10-per-cent profit margin and therefore aren't in a position to give that much of a cut, they added.

Blencoe suggested the discount Monday in a letter to all taxi companies, the restaurant association, the Downtown Business Association, the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and all major department stores.

There are some small, women's apparel stores in Victoria which have been granting a 10-per-cent reduction for senior citizens for several years.

One is the Picadilly Shoppe at 1017 Government which has had the price cut for four years.

Store manager Catherine Phillips said today store owners Jack Barraclough and his wife dropped the prices to the elderly because they wanted to something about inflation and its effect on the senior citizens.

The store also froze its prices for an 18-month period for the same reason.

Mrs. Phillips said it was Barraclough's hope that other stores would follow suit.

At least two other stores do offer the discounts — Roy Imports in the James Bay Square and E.M. Carter Ladies Wear, 230 Menzies.

Margot Carter, owner of the latter store, said she didn't think the bigger department stores would go for the idea.

"They are more out for profit and they have a bigger overhead," she said, adding they don't operate at the close personal level that the smaller stores do.

Derek Denny, partner in Standard Furniture, 737 Yates, said Blencoe's suggestion was "pie-in-the-sky" and showed that the alderman realy doesnt have much business sense.

"It's a vote-geting thing," Denny said.

"Why pick out the elderly? There are a lot of wealthy elderly in the city just as there are a lot of poor young people."

He said stores don't make such large profits that they can afford to give a 10-per-cent blanket reduction.

Denny said coming out against such a proposal makes store owners look like ogres but he added that some better method has to be found to see that those who have money contribute to those who are not so well off in our society.

John Ansell, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, said he gets upset when people lump all those in a certain age group into the same financial bracket.

Ansell said it is "like arguing against motherhood" to talk against a plan to help those in need. But he said any such proposal should be examined very closely to make sure that it is equitable."

Bud MacLean, president of the Victoria Taxi Owners Asociation, said it is council's fault that the taxi rates in the city are as high as they are.

He said the licence fee has gone up nearly 500 per cent in two years — from $31.50 a year in 1976 to $70 in 1977 and $140 this year.

Also, he said, the city has no restrictions on taxi licences and as a result there are too many cabs in the city.

"There is not enough butter for the bread," MacLean said.

Inquest Starts On Thursday In Fire Deaths

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre has ordered an inquest into the deaths of Patrick Jackson, 31, his common-law wife, Catherine Dick, 20, and their infant son Anthony, who perished Sunday in a house fire at 840 Bay.

The inquest will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at McCall Brothers funeral home, 1400 Vancouver.

Meanwhile, Victoria firemen continue their investigation.

Deputy Chief Mike Heppell said today investigators have determined the blaze started under a wooden table near the west wall of the living room in the two-storey house.

The cause isn't known but, Heppell said, there are two possibilities — either children playing with matches or careless smoking.

He said fire spread so rapidly through the 72-year-old tinder-dry structure that the dead couple had little chance to escape. The woman and child were found on the floor in the living room while Jackson's body was found on the floor in the kitchen.

Two men and two children got out of the house, the men by jumping out of a second-floor window. A passer-by snatched a six-month-old child off the burning balcony and the couple's four-year-old son, Gerald Stephen Dick, ran out the door himself.

Heppell said the boy told police later his father had screamed at him to run outside.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Prices continued to rise fractionally in active mid-afternoon trading today on the Toronto stock market.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 2.53 million shares, up from 2.38 million at the same time Monday.

Declines edged advances 198 to 193 with 216 issues unchanged.

A total of 6,707,317 common shares were tendered at $12.50 a share and 1,149,053 preferred shares at $21 a share in the Power Corp. of Canada offer for all Investors Group shares. Trading was delayed to 1 p.m. for the sale.

Ego Mines Ltd. fell five cents to $2.25 a share and American Eagle Petroleums Ltd. 14 cents while Oakwood Petroleums Ltd. rose five cents to $4.20 a share following their opening resumptions. Oil-drilling results from the companies' joint venture in the West Pembina of Alberta were unsatisfactory.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were generally higher active afternoon trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange. Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 1,911,700 shares, compared with 197,100 shares traded up to the same time Monday. Brascan A gained ¼ at $17⅛, Oshawa A ⅛ at $6, Norcen Energy Resources ⅜ at $16.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined moderately today, running up against some early selling pressure in the wake of a recent accumulation of bad economic news.

Losers maintained a 3-to-2 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was active. NYSE volume reached 28 million shares by mid-afternoon.

The Dow had risen more than seven points Monday to a five-month high, as traders shrugged off the news of rising rates, inflation worries and some concern about the economic outlook. But today those factors seemed to prompt some investors to cash in on the market's recent gains.

The U.S. government late last week reported a 0.8-per-cent rise in the consumer price index for March.

London

LONDON (CP) — Nervousness over a possible rise in short-term interest rates sent the London stock market moderately lower near the close of light trading. The Financial Times index was down 1.3 to 464.4 an hour before the close. Leading industrials were mixed, while gold issues eased with the lower bullion price. Canadian stocks firmed.
